FAVOR BUILDING OF SIDEWALKS TO AID JOBLESS

Enforcement of the sidewalk ordinance, which states that owners of property abutting streets must provide walks, will do much towards giving employment to a large group of men depending upon this class of work, accomplish what the statutes demand and safeguard the lives of many school children who are forced to zig-zag back and forth or else walk in the streets, and advocates of this movement are looking to relief at this time.

While some property owners may object to additional assessment upon the property, at the same time this is spread over a certain period and any costs entailed can be checked against charity or unemployment relief contributions.

Proponents point out that material costs are the lowest in years, many men are in need of work and that the walks could be surveyed and constructed under the direction of city officials whose duties at this time of year are not as arduous as at other times.

Should the city order a general enforcement of the ordinance, dealers in the necessary supplies will be helped, additional men and trucks needed in connection with the actual labor.

South High street, in particular, has a dearth of sidewalks and forms a virtual "trail" to the McKinley, Lincoln and Leslie schools. There are intervals of several blocks in the vicinity of these school buildings where it is necessary to either cross the street, only to repeat the performance at a location a block away, or walk the entire distance to the street.

Motorists as a rule exercise every precaution, but with the youngsters at play, both going and returning from school, down into the street without giving warning to the motorists who is presumed to be on the alert and is generally held responsible in event of an accident.

FEWER INSANE PATIENTS UNDER CASH SYSTEM

The state law requiring payment by patients or estate of inmates in the state insane and feeble-minded institutions where possible, or by the counties where impossible except in violent cases, has had its effect upon commitments to the state insane hospital, Dr. J. C. Evans reported to the board of control today.

Dr. E. E. Lee Steiner, superintendent, who is in California. Commitments to the insane institution at Salem has been reduced from an average of 71 during the year ending September 30 to 60 during the past three months.

Evans reported that about 55 per cent of the inmates of the state institutions are committed from Multnomah county, he reported.

Evans reported that there were 2128 inmates at the Salem institution and 1043 in the eastern Oregon institution. About one out of every 250 people in Oregon are insane, Evans reported as compared to the national ratio of one out of 470. This is perhaps a record, he said, by the fact that Oregon people are watched more closely for sanity.

Warden James Lewis of the state penitentiary reported that there were 228 prisoners now out on parole, which accounts for the decrease in the prison population the past few months. The present population was reported at 267.

COMMITTEE TO DISAGREE ON CONSOLIDATION

It was evident Wednesday, after a meeting of the street committee of the city council, that a divided report of that committee is likely to be turned in on the question of a consolidation of the offices of street commissioner and city engineer whenever the time is ripe for a committee report to be turned in.

After deliberations of several days including a conference between Chairman V. E. Kuhn of the committee and Street Commissioner Walter S. Low, it appears that Kuhn and Alderman Hendricks will be in favor of the merger while Alderman S. A. Hughes, the third member, will oppose it.

When interviewed Wednesday Hughes confirmed a report that he would be in opposition, but without any explanation except that under present conditions he did not think there should be a consolidation.

"For me to give my reasons," said Hughes, "would involve certain criticisms, and just at present I don't want to be quoted in criticism of anyone."

Chairman Kuhn explained that the committee could not prepare a report or report yet for the reason that there is nothing in the way of an ordinance bill before the committee. If the consolidation is actually attempted an ordinance will be necessary.

The present status of the issue is that at the meeting a week ago Monday night, which was the annual election night for city officers, the council, on motion of Alderman Vandover, deferred for two weeks the election of street commissioner and engineer. Vandover explained that a merger was in the air and that two weeks was wanted for deliberation. In the meantime all the committee can do is get the situation in hand and make up its individual minds what it is likely to do when an ordinance comes before it, if such an ordinance is introduced.

Taking stock for 1932, Charles Walker, of Portland, past district governor of Kiwanis, gave the Rotary club some helpful suggestions at the weekly luncheon Wednesday noon.

"The more you have—the more you can do, and the more you do—the more you have," the speaker said. The heart was held the source of personal power with truth only overruling. "The source of all material power is heat," Walker said in closing, "so get 'hot' about something."
