San Francisco, April 21 (AP)—Tom Mooney, who was denied a pardon by Governor James Rolph, Jr., today said in a statement issued by the Tom Mooney Molders' Defense League that he "had no chance whatsoever of receiving a fair and impartial hearing from representatives of an unprincipled bunch of pirates as ever scuttled a ship."

Fred Walker, secretary of the communist party of Oregon, will discuss the Mooney and Scottboro cases, unemployment, the Soviet Union and the danger of imperialist war.

Both men are good speakers and it offers the people of Salem a rare opportunity to listen in on questions of vital importance to every citizen. An open discussion will take place after the speaking.

The meeting begins at 7:30.

Many of the tickets have not been checked with ownership records, Davison said. The offenses listed are overtime parking, 5522 cases; parking within 20 feet of fire hydrant, 67; parking in alleys, 95; parking in restricted zones, 171; double parking, 19; improper parking, 50; blocking alleyways and driveways, 10.

Plans for these offenses would not be less than $1 for any offense, and in some cases more, and if they could be collected they would go some distance in relieving the city's financial troubles.

Chief of Police Minto said that any time Police Judge Poulsen furnishes him a list he will send officers after the offenders. But Poulsen says the police, having tagged the cars in the first place, should see that the violators are brought in. "I am not supposed to arrest anyone," Poulsen said.

Authorities said the tragedy took place before the pupils of the little school and Coumas also filed at the janitor's wife, who was present. He was reported to have escaped in a green automobile after taking his children and housekeeper, Mrs. Cora Hickman, to a neighbor's home.

Police said Mrs. Hickman visited the school earlier in the day and had an argument with Mrs. Taylor over the Coumas children, at the same time demanding they be transferred to another school. The visit of the father to the school, which led to the shooting, followed, the police stated.

Dr. J. S. Chalebois, occupant of the building, heard the sound of breaking glass and called the janitor. Investigation revealed the front door of the office had been broken. Near the door seven recall petition blanks were found, each bearing a score or more signatures.

The stock exchange head said his firm had purchased $9,200,000 of the bonds under orders of a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan and company to maintain the price level while the bonds were being sold.

The issue of 5% percent German bonds totaling $98,000,000 was floated on the market June 12, 1930 at 90. The bonds stayed above the sales price as long as the syndicate continued, Whitney said, but are now selling at 35% and have sold as low as 23.

The officials are accused of inefficiency and negligence in performance of duties.

Adams said all of the 15 sets of petitions had been completed and each bore 30 names. He said the thieves left behind nine incomplete petitions and two completed petitions against Mann and Langley.

The latter were part of a set which contained the Baker and Riley petitions, but the two last named were missing.

At the veterans building speakers later urged full payment of the bonus.

Seattle, April 21 (AP)—A $10,000 state arrest suit against Cowitt county authorities and their sureties was on file in superior court today in which Mrs. E. R. Bemick asserted she was forced by a jail matron to disrobe and submit her clothing to a minute inspection.

The widow of a Kelo general store proprietor said she was so humiliated by her experience that she left Kelo, where she lived 30 years, and came to Seattle. She charged the case was held for four hours with the information that it was "in connection with narcotics."

Defendants include Sheriff Gray of Cowitt county, Chief of Police Kaller of Kelo, Patrolmen Reed and Schoff, Agnes C. Dawson, Cowitt county matron, and their sureties.

Baker, April 21 (AP)—Only 14 years old, Clarence Woolery, alleged killer, will face the courts of Oregon as an adult.

Judge Charles E. Baird of the Baker juvenile court ruled today that the case of young Woolery, charged with slaying his foster-mother, Mrs. Frank Carlock, be transferred to the circuit court. Judge Baird had deliberated the case since the boy's hearing Tuesday.

Mrs. Carlock was shot to death as she sat at the dinner table last Wednesday night. Her husband was in Baker at the time. Young Woolery, who had lived with the family five years, was captured the next day and police said he confessed killing the woman because she had reprimanded him for laxity in farm work.

Woolery will be held for investigation by the grand jury, and if he is indicted he will be proceeded against in circuit court as an adult.

Only in case of conviction on the first degree murder count with which he is charged, could the boy be sentenced to hang, and then only in case the trial jury refused to make a recommendation for life imprisonment.

If he is convicted on a lesser charge the court could sentence him to prison, parole him, place him on probation or suspend imposition or execution of sentence.

"I'd like to have you send a man and team out to my place to plow my lot for me for a vegetable garden," remarked a man who stepped into the Red Cross office in the First National Bank building.

"Do you mean you'd like some free seed for the garden?" asked Miss Thora Boeschon in charge.

"No, no, I have my own seed," said the man. "I want the garden plowed."

"Don't you think you could spare it?"

"No, it's too big to be spared," he said.

"I'm sorry, but we don't have any provision for sending out men and teams to plow gardens for folks," said Miss Boeschon. "And," she added as an afterthought, "we won't have any folks available to hoe it for you next summer."

The final account of O. E. Gardner as administrator of the estate of James R. Gardner has been filed in probate and final hearing has been set for May 20.
