Clark of Portland, a bone dry, and endorsed by Governor Julius L. Meier for his views on the power question, was third with 37,446. Steiwer is a dry who has expressed himself for submission of the liquor question. Stanfield is a wet and advocated repeal of the 18th amendment.

Elton Watkins, a dry, and Walter Gleason, described as a "wringing wet" staged a nip-and-tuck fight for the democratic nomination as senator, to oppose Steiwer in the general election in November. With 897 precincts counted Gleason had 10,591 votes, and Watkins 10,475. Marshall N. Dana, associated editor of the Oregon Journal, ran third with 8,107 votes.

STARKER ENTERS NOT GUILTY PLEA

John A. Starker pleaded not guilty to an indictment for involuntary manslaughter for the death of Frances Monner in an automobile accident on South Commercial street a few months ago when he appeared before Judge L. H. McMahan Saturday morning. Judge McMahan continued his case on $1000 bail under which he has been out since arrest on the manslaughter charge. It is understood the date of the trial may be set by the court some time early next week. Monner is also facing a $10,000 damage action started this week in circuit court for the death of Miss Monner.

C. Everson, who was indicted for forgery under the name of C. Evenson but who said his true name was Everson, pleaded guilty before Judge McMahan, was sentenced to one year and paroled to his brother, Roy Everson.

HARMON DAMAGE CASE COMPROMISED

With a damage action for $6527 filed in circuit court by Francis J. Harmon as guardian of John Harmon, incompetent, against Bonesteele Motor company, a compromise was effected out of court and order entered in probate permitting settlement of the claim for $1000.

The accident, which occurred at Oak and Water streets in Silverton, resulted in it was alleged, in Harmon suffering concusion and caused his commitment to the state hospital. Harmon was said to have been crossing Water street when he was struck down by the automobile.

Two blind men were arrested in Manafield, England, recently for breaking into a clubhouse and stealing $13, police testifying that the pair could work as easily in the dark as in the light.

AVIATRIX FLIES OVER ATLANTIC TO IRELAND

had burned out and the gasoline gauge was broken, causing a little leakage.

The lithe, blonde flier, who took off from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, at 4:51 p. m., Eastern Standard time yesterday, got a lift by motor to Londonderry, five miles away, where the first thing she did was to get on the telephone to report her success to London so her husband, George Palmer Putnam, New York publisher, and her friends back home might know she was safe.

Her plane was not damaged in the landing and she was unhurt.

"For a lot of the way," Mrs. Putman said, "I was flying through storms—mist, rain and a little fog.

"To my friends in New York I want to send this message: I am very glad to have come across successfully, but I am sorry indeed I did not make France.

"I am going to speak to my husband as soon as I can by the Atlantic phone."

It was the flier's second airplane trip across the Atlantic. In June, 1928, before her marriage to Mr. Putnam, she made the crossing, that time a passenger.

"There is no comparison," she said in reply to a question about which trip she liked better. "On this go I was flying low the whole time and had to rely on myself.

"I am afraid I am a bit deaf after the terrible roar of the engine in my ears all the time, but at any rate I have done it."

Once before, in June, 1928, the flier crossed the ocean in an airplane, but that time she was a passenger. Asked to compare her first flight with her second, she said: "There is no comparison. On this go I was flying low the whole time and had to rely on myself. I am afraid I am a bit deaf after the terrible roar of the engine in my ears all the way, but at any rate I have done it.

"I want to find out what I shall do," she continued. "I think I may go to London but the only clothes I have with me are the flying suit on me now, and I haven't much cash.

"I'll probably go to London after the week-end but it all depends on what my husband thinks about it."

"To my friends in New York," Mrs. Putnam went on, "I want to send this message: I am very glad to have come across successfully, but I am sorry indeed I did not make France. I am going to speak to my husband as soon as I can by the Atlantic phone."

Her husband is George Palmer Putnam, New York publisher.

The Press Association said Mrs. Putnam telephoned to their office from a hotel at Londonderry.

"My first thought on getting here," she said, "was to call up so that my safe landing might be known without delay."

The field in which the landing was made is a mile or two from Londonderry, the Press Association said. The owner of it was the first to greet Mrs. Putnam.

Miss Earhart, first woman solo flier of the Atlantic, traveled approximately 1,900 miles between Harbor Grace, N. F., and Culmore, Ireland, and was 600 miles north of her set course.

She brought her plane down at 2:30 p. m. (8:30 a. m., E. S. T.) She was in the air 15 hours and 39 minutes. She left Harbor Grace at 4:51 p. m. Friday, Eastern Standard time.

Culmore, Ulster, Ireland, May 21 (AP)—Amelia Earhart Putnam, the first woman ever to fly the Atlantic alone, landed here this afternoon. Culmore is five miles from Londonderry.

London, May 21 (AP)—The press association reported from Londonderry, Ireland, this afternoon that Amelia Earhart Putnam, solo trans-Atlantic flier, had landed here.

Mrs. Putnam, the news agency said, was unhurt.

She had had trouble with her exhaust manifold which had burned out.

Her monoplane was reported undamaged.

"I had this trouble (with the exhaust manifold) for about ten hours," the press association quoted Mrs Putnam, "and for a lot of the way I was flying through storms—mist, rain and a little gof."

When Mrs. Putnam landed, the press asociation said, she declared: "I've done it!"

"I had to land here in the pastures outside Londonderry," she continued.

"I'm not a bit hurt and I think the plane is all right. I had trouble with my exhaust manifold, which had burned out.

"In addition the gasoline gauge had broken, probably in the storm last night, and there was a little leakage, so I decided to come down. I landed in an open field."

New York, May 21 (AP)—George Palmer Putman was informed by telephone from London today in a conversation with the London Daily Sketch that Amelia Earhart, his wife, had landed in Ireland. The Sketch told Putnam that its correspondent at Londonderry had interviewed Miss Earhart after she landed.

"Of courdse, I'm overjoyed," Putnam said, "but we who know her well were sure she'd do it.

"She has more calm courage than any person I ever knew. Please let me thank the Associated Press warmly for being the first to break the news to me."

New York, May 21 (AP)—Amelia Earhart Putnam, trans-Atlantic flier, has crowded enough activity into her 34 years to make careers for several women, or men for that matter.

War nurse, commercial photographer, social worker, aviation company executive, magazine editor, teacher, member of numerous aviation committees, are all part of her experience, as well as her mastery of the art of flying.

She was the first American woman to be granted a license by the Federation Aeronautique Internationals and is an honorary major in the 38lst aero squadron.

Although she is best known as the first woman to fly across the Atlantic, a distinction which she gained June 18, 1928, when she crossed from Trespassy, Newfoundland, to Burryport, Wales, in the tri-motored monoplane "Friendship" with Wilmer Stuts, pilot, and Louis Gordon, mechanic, she also has made a trans-continental round trip in an autogyro.

She was born at Atchison, Kas., in 1898. Her father, Edwin S. Earhart, is an attorney in Los Angeles. She has one sister.

After graduating from Hyde Park high school in Chicago, she went to Ogontz school for girls in Philadelphia. Before finishing her course she left and joined the Canadian Red Cross in 1917 as a nurse's aid for war service.

After the war she entered Columbia university to take a pre-medical course and a year later went to California.

It was in California that she became interested in aviation as a recreation. She owned two planes and piled up 500 solo hours in her aerial pleasure jaunts about Los Angeles.

While in Los Angeles she studied commercial photography and in partnership with another girl ventured into the business.

Returning east, she went to Boston, taught a university extension course at Lowell then went into social service work. It was from there she appeared on the aviation horizon as a trans-Atlantic flier.

The sponsor of the flight of the "Friendship" was George Palmer Putnam, publisher. On February 7, 1931 Putman and Miss Earhart were married at the home of his mother at Noank, Conn.

Mrs. Putnam's activities in the interests of aviation include positions as vice president in charge of public relations for the New York, Philadelphia and Washington Airway, assistant to the general traffic manager of the T. A. T.-Maddux Air lines, aviator editor of the Cosmopolitan magazine and memberships on committees of the National Aeronautic association and the National Glider association and other aviation organizations.

ports given little credence by them.

There was a possibility, it was pointed out, that the rum runner quoted had merely repeated a theory hoping to clear the way through Jersey for rum shipment.

Mills said he had first known the man at Ocean City, Md., in December 1929, when more than a score of men were arrested while attempting to land liquor.

He said he saw the rum runner two days before the baby's body was found, and that he complained of the police activity which hampered his liquor activities.

"If somebody doesn't do something about the case soon, I will," Mills quoted the man as having said. He also told him he knew several people connected with the case and three or four persons were involved.

Mills declined to give the man's name, but said he had sent it to New Jersey police officials.
