BRITISH PROTEST POLICE METHODS

Schwarzkopf was asked.

"This is a matter of opinion," he answered.

Miller, telling a story that checked, said he, Miss Catherine Minners and Elmer Johnson went to a dance and restaurant with Violet on the kidnaping night. His story, which shattered the police theory that Brinkert was the "Ernie" with whom Violet went out, was corroborated by Miss Minners. Johnson, who lives at Closter, was to be examined today.

Only one thing remains to be cleared up so far as Violet Sharpe is concerned. Police said they found in her room a number of business cards of a taxi concern Brinkert used to operate. He has denied knowing her.

Governor A. Harry Moore was asked whether he was contemplating any action against the police in connection with the death.

"No charges have been made to me," he said.

Trenton, N. J., June 13 (AP)—State Senator Emerson L. Richards, republican leader, today asserted an investigation of the entire police handling of the Lindbergh kidnaping case was virtually a certainty.

"The Lindbergh case," the senator declared, "has been slaughtered to make a democratic holiday."

Commenting on the suicide of Violet Sharpe, waitress in the Englewood home of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, grandmother of the murdered baby, after police questioning, the senator said five major blunders had been made by the state police and detectives.

The blunders he listed were the detention of "Red" Johnson, Betty Gow's sweetheart; the futile payment of $50,000 ransom money by Dr. John F. Condon, aged Bronx intermediary; John H. Curtis' hoax of Colonel Lindbergh and the police; the finding of the baby's body five miles from the Lindbergh estate at Hopewell; and finally, the suicide of the waitress.

Richards said he planned no immediate move to request the governor, to call a special session of the legislature. A police investigation, he said, would probably be instigated by the republican senate.

Trenton, N. J., June 13 (AP)—The morning news bulletin issued by state police indicated that the investigation of the kidnaping and murder of the Lindbergh baby had again reached a dead end after collapse of the police theory that "guilty knowledge" had caused the suicide of Violet Sharpe.

Ernest Brinkert, New Rochelle ex-convict named by Miss Sharpe, before she took poison, as her partner on the night of the kidnaping, continued work on his written statement at the police barracks at Alpine. His alibi has been corroborated.

"He will conclude his written statement today," Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of state police, announced, "and has volunteered to stay at Alpine until it is completely verified."

Schwarzkopf said the police knew of no funeral arrangements having been made for Miss Sharpe, who was a waitress in the home of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, grandmother of the Lindbergh baby.

Telegrams from Detroit, he said, indicated that no results had been obtained by questioning Harry Fleischer, former Purple gangster who recently surrendered after a long police search for him. No report had been received concerning the examination of Robert Burns, who also is held in Detroit.

London, June 13 (AP)—Bitter newspaper criticism that New Jersey police "third degree" methods had driven Violet Sharpe to kill herself reached the house of parliament today.

Some members were prepared even to raise the question of representations to the United States government on the ground that the police had "hounded the girl to death."

Many British newspapers displayed New York dispatches suggesting that the police methods were responsible for the death of the servant, in the Dwight W. Morrow household. "There is strong belief in some quarters that an innocent girl was bullied by police into taking her life," a cable to the News of the World said.

"Hounded to death" was the title of an editorial in the Laborite Daily Herald, which urged parliament to take up the queston of the Sharpe suicide with the American government, and said:

"A wave of revulsion will quite rightly be started in this country at the disclosure of American police methods whereby Violet Sharpe was driven to her death.

"The British government should make the strongest representations and demand the most searching inquiries."

The Herald said that Frederick S. Socks, laborite member of the House of Commons, would ask Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon whether representations would be made to the United States.

LITTLE NORTH FORK MINING GETS START

Bunker Hill-Sullivan mining properties in the Coeur d'Alene range in northern Idaho. The ore has a general average of 37½ per cent metal and is found in a vein wider than any known similar vein in the country, mining engineers report. Output of the mine has been contracted for two years and the ore will be trucked to Lyons for shipment to Salt Lake City for smelting.

Open house was held from 8 o'clock until noon for a general inspection of the mines and ore bodies. Mine officials furnished automobiles to transport the guests to the mine located about a mile above the mill. Following luncheon the concentrating mill was inspected, men being stationed at every piece of machinery to explain the functions of each unit. A short dedicatory program was held on the bunker ramp at 1:30 o'clock with the introduction of each of the directors a feature. Upon signal the machinery was started and the visitors permitted to watch the mill in operation, the bunkers, containing 3600 tons of ore, having been filled for the occasion.

Less than $1000 worth of stock is held outside the state, it is claimed, and finances for the operations were raised in Oregon, chiefly in Portland, with 300 stockholders listed. There has been no generale sale of stock and that which has been subscribed has been without the employment of a salesman, all moneys so raised going back into the development of the property. Construction of a private road nearly five miles long from the ranger station and of the road to the mine was completed at a cost of $26,000. The mine is 28 miles above Mehama and motorists take from an hour and 45 minutes to two hours to reach the holdings because of the mountain road. Men were posted at the start of the private road to prevent any motorist coming into the mine while the guests were departing and all machines were held at the mine until the last of the visitors arrived as there are practically no passing points along this section of the road.
