HATS ARE MADE WHILE YOU WAIT

London (UP)—Hats while you wait can now be obtained in Mayfair by London's "bright young things." Aage Thaarup, clever young Dane, is the originator of the idea. He made three exclusive models for the United Press correspondent in eight minutes, the first from a dish rag bought at a nearby five and ten cent store, the second out of a piece of blue felt and fancy paper, and the third with a piece of floor carpeting and red felt.

Thaarup uses anything from a shoestring to a boy's school-cap to make his models. His models follow the trend of the news. One of his models, a Hawaiian sun-hat with imitation palm leaves, is named "Mrs. Massey." A hat modeled after those worn by clergymen is called "The Hector of Stiffky." And the wearers, too, have well-known names. Thaarup made his first hat when he was six. His aunt was taking an old hat to pieces and remodeling it. Thaarup grabbed some old feathers and fashioned a hat out of them.

Now Thaarup is doing well. Society is gradually getting used to his unusual models. But there is one model which even the "bright young things" won't wear a hat made of electric flexible wire and a bell push-button.

Gervais—F. B. Turner of Portland spent Tuesday here, his daughter, Ione and Doris, returning to Portland with him where they will remain for 10 days visiting.

More than 1,000,000 straw hats were exported from the Philippines this year.

Future Predicted For Silverton Boy With His Dancing

Silverton—Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Sewell and their son, Eugene, familiarly known as "Buddy," have returned from a two weeks' visit with friends in San Francisco. They made the trip as guests of Werner Kellerhal, who drove to California on business.

Young "Buddy," a dancing pupil of Barbara Barnes of Salem, is a favorite dancer of Silverton and Salem folk and was no less popular in San Francisco than at home. He appeared on a two-night program at the Golden Gate Post No. 40, American Legion series of entertainments and also danced two evenings with Red Dockwood's Victor recording orchestra at Patsy's Room. He was praised highly by Mr. McClain, dancing instructor. Little Buddy was urged to remain for the week on the Shireners' program but the family had planned to return home the previous week.

The Sewells were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Roehlein and of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Roehlein, former Silverton residents, during their stay in San Francisco. Ben Roehlein is commander of the Golden Gate post of the American Legion.

Dayton—The Dayton Methodist church was filled with an appreciative audience at the presentation of the musical program Monday evening. A silver offering was taken and the entire proceeds were for the benefit of the negro school at Piney Woods, Miss. All the musicians and manager in the program were white people.

Air passenger and mail routes in Europe now cover 72,084 miles.

LYOYD GEORGE STILL JUSTICE

Caerphartion, Wales (UP)—Lloyd George is apparently never too busy being a member of parliament in London to be a justice of the peace among his own people here.

For the first time since his illness he presided here recently as chairman of the county magistrates over the county quarter sessions.

Dame Margaret Lloyd George, another member of the bench, took a seat next to her husband. The building in which the court was held was the scene of Lloyd George's practice as a local solicitor nearly half a century ago.

Immediately upon conclusion of the session, Lloyd George and Dame Margaret made the long journey back to London by automobile. It so happened that there were no grants for actual trial before the distinguished magistrates, and the granting of an appeal in a motoring case was hardly enough to have fatigued them. To commemorate the clean docket, Lloyd George was presented with a new pair of white gloves.

Nearly 6,000,000 telegrams were transmitted in Mexico in the last fiscal year.
