INDEPENDENCE LANDMARK SET BY FIRE 'BUG'

Independence——Fire broke out in the residence section down town adjoining the Southern Pacific warehouse Thursday night. After the extremely hot day the citizenry gathered quickly in response to the call and the firemen sensing the danger also put forth special effort to reach the scene of the blaze in record time, but were too late to save the dwelling which burned to the ground.

The place belonged formerly to Jimmy Jones, a former business man, then to Leslie Clemo, who purchased it a few years ago and lived there until last fall when he moved to 7th street. The building was vacant and the origin of the fire is unknown.

Title of the property passed to other hands when Clemo moved out, and it has been occupied at times by renters. No one has occupied it for several months but it was connected with gas, electricity and city water. The first to see the blaze reported that it went with a flash and it is thought by some that it was a gas fire, as gas is still burning near the meter.

Small grass and roof fires were started from the embers which were carried about the neighborhood by the strong north breeze. Garden hose kept water on the roofs of adjoining properties. A large willow tree on the south side of the property was badly burned but probably saved other buildings in the vicinity from burning. Property in close proximity of the blaze was the Southern Pacific hop warehouses and the Spaulding lumber yards, dwelling of D. B. Boydston, dwelling of Joe Cook, and dwelling of Mrs. Taylor.

The building was entirely consumed and the firemen did everything in their power to confine the blaze to the one building. The Monmouth fire department responded and stood by to offer assistance in case of further outbreak.

A close inspection is being made of the burned property to ascertain the cause but it is generally thought to be of incendiary origin. The property now belongs to a party living in McMinnville and is insured.

It is one of the old landmarks of the community, being among the first houses built in the city.

BECKER FINED FOR ASSAULT

Woodburn—Henry Becker of the Sleepy Hollow district, sometimes known as "Sour Mash Henry," appeared in Judge Overton's court Thursday and entered a plea of not guilty to the chargeof assault and batter filed against him by William Fitch.

The rumpus started over the request of Becker that the Fitch family vacate his house in which they were living. Fitch refused to be ordered out without time to find a place to go to and claimed that upon his refusal Becker struck him in the eye with his fist as he was sitting in a chair.

Lydia Fitch, 10-year-old daughter of the plaintiff, proved a sincere witness and told a very clear and straightforward story of the happenings according to her own observations. She stated that Becker struck her father first and that she tried to protect him with a board but when Becker turned on her she ran. Becker denied striking first and claimed that Fitch shook his finger in his (Becker's) face and he merely pushed his hand down.

After the stories of Mr. and Mrs. Fitch and the daughter had been told, Becker was convicted and fined $15 and costs. He stated that he was broke and would have to go to jail, but as his desire to be once more a guest of the county seemed to be a little too strong some other arrangement may be made to collect the fine. The language used by Becker during the trial was rather unusual, to say the least, for one in the presence of a justice of the peace and had the judge desired to do so he could have been arrested on this charge in addition to the one filed against him.

GRAIN FIRES TAKING TOLL

Perrydale—Fire of undetermined origin caused considerable damage at the I. J. White and Elmer Stultz farms here Tuesday night. The blaze started in a field of shocked wheat on the White farm and fanned by a strong north wind, spread to the Stultz hay field from which the hay had been cut. It also burned the large prune orchard and only with great effort on the part of the 60 men fighting the fire was a stack of 45 tons of hay saved. Men stayed all night watching the fire there was unthreshed grain on all sides.

There has been several fires this harvest, one which might have been tragic occurring yesterday at the Fred Edson farm. A blaze was caused by exhaust from a tractor pulling a combine in a field very close to the house and farm buildings. With quick work and help from neighbors the fire was put out without much damage.

Taking the part of the good samaritan did not prove profitable for Fred Jennings. He was combining wheat of his own when he saw his neighbor, George Shields' field on fire. Stopping his combine he went to help fight the flames burning oats and vetch. While there he looked over to his own field to see it ablaze and burning sacked wheat. A number of sacks were burned and about 10 acres of oats and vetch burned at the Shields farm.

The load of cattle left Mt. Angel Wednesday. The tour will be under the able supervision of Lawrence Thomas, superintendent of the herd. He took along for his assistant Felix Hassing. During the absence of Lawrence Thomas, Albert Schmitz, who accompanied John Roetcisoender on the tour last year, will be in charge of the stock farm.

The first stop will be made at Bozeman, Montana. From there, the next destination will be at Helena and Great Falls, Montana, and then on to Milwaukee and St. Paul. They will also take in several shows in Oklahoma before the her swings south to Texas.

The tour lasted four months, during which time 10,000 miles were covered. The cattle were exhibited at 15 shows and brought home 92 first prizes and 33 championships. This year the herd, which was sent out is even much better than last year, being much superior in a number of ways. RIVER BRIDGE TAKING SHAPE

Jefferson—Good progress is being made in the construction work on the new bridge over the Santiam river here. The concrete pouring for pier No. 2 started this week. Sixty men are now employed and beginning Tuesday of this week a 24 hour shift started.

Last week divers went down to clear the bed for the coffer-dam of pier three, which extends 12 to 14 feet below water level. Two gas pumps and one electric pump are being used to force water out of the hole. Tuesday and Wednesday reinforced steel was laid preparatory to pouring concrete. The pier will be 32 feet wide, 46 feet long and 20 feet deep. A gasoline shovel is excavating for pier No. 2 and men are digging the hole for pier No. 1 on this side of the river.

The bunker is completed. The electric concrete mixer, cement and other materials are housed on the first floor. On the floor above are the self weighing scales for weighing sand, gravel and a 60 gallon water tank. All ingredients going into the mixer are weighed and an hour glass gauges the time for mixing. One man is able to handle this work. A half to three-fourths of a cubic yard is mixed at a time.

Louis Johnson has the contract for the sand and gravel to be used and it is being hauled from the Miller property about a mile and a half down the river.

LITTLE CHANCE FOR LOSSES IN BANK CLOSURE

Silverton—According to developments of the week the general consensus of opinion indicates practically a 100 per cent safeguard for depositors of the local First National bank, and that the losses will not run very large.

Those who made deposits in the bank last Saturday had the funds returned to them by order of the president, E. A. Haight, and the examiner. Doors of the bank were closed Monday by order of the board of directors and Haight, not because of a state of insolvency but because of those in charge seeing an approach of a danger stage and the action was in defense of depositors and stockholders.

The Coolidge and McClaine bank has received the usual amount of deposits and has accepted numerous new accounts during the week, according to authoritative information given out.

President Haight of the First National bank has made a public statement in regard to certain current "whisperings" and post card campaigns, that may restore confidence to any who have been thus approached.

The statement submitted reads as follows:

Silverton, Ore.
August 4, 1932

The same enemies of the First National bank who have for many months carried on a "whispering" and anonymous postal card campaign—advising their acquaintances to withdraw their deposits—are now busy in making statements to the effect "That when the ownership of the First National bank changed hands, July 23, 1931, that no new capital was put into the bank by the new management."

As, from the very first, the new management took advantage of every opportunity to explain the transaction in full to many of the patrons of the First National bank, with the idea of off-setting the apparent lack of confidence then existing in the bank among the depositors. In view of present statements being made, it now seems advisable to place before the community unquestionable evidence of the arrangements made July 23, 1931, to strengthen this bank which were as follows:

At the request of the national banking department "questionable assets" then on the books of the bank to the extent of $28,750 were removed and were replaced by a deposit of $28,750 in cash by the new management. For which cash payment the new management received 287 shares of the capital stock of the First National bank of Silverton—of more than three fourths interest—all of which capital stock is still held by myself.

This transaction is a matter of record on the books of the First National bank and also of record in the minutes of the meeting of the board of directors of the First National bank of Silverton, held July 22, 1931, and attended by all the directors of the board, who have signed the minutes of the meeting referred to.

(Signed) E. A. HAIGHT.
