EASIER TONE OBSERVED IN BUTTER TRADE

Portland, Sept. 21 (AP)—With an increased supply of butter on the market here as a result of increased price, the situation presents a slightly easier trading tone although prices in general are practically unchanged for both prints and cubes. While the late centralizer churning was a fraction below the total displayed last week, the outside supplies available here were more than sufficiently increased to make up for this shortage. This together with rather liberal withdrawals from storage, gave the trade a very considerable increase in supply.

All last week there was a constant movement out of Pacific coast coolers, practically all points showing profit taking by speculative interests. The same situation prevailed in the country generally, total stocks of coolers everywhere showing a decrease. Butterfat values are unchanged.

Market for eggs continues to reflect strength and the surprising feature is that demand gains as the price ascends. Slight increase in receipts is suggested with the gain principally in pullets.

With local prices seriously below California values and with the latter still buying in this territory, chicken prices here are practically unchanged for all classes of live stuff.

All through the peach trade a better demand is showing considering the season. The clings are now coming in for attention including the Phillip and the Orange. Both are firmly priced.

There is a weak tone in the market for country killed lambs but no further cut is indicated in prices. Hogs are continued on a steady basis with calves firm, especially for the better sorts, which are scarce.

Indicating that the general public is not at all inclined to view current values on cranberries with satisfaction, is the fact that sales are practically almost too nominal to note. Values on the coast are above an eastern basis and shipping orders are absent as a result.

Market for dry beans is a trifle dull with a tinge of weakness underlying the California and Idaho whites but reds are quoted firm. A late review of the bean trade suggests recent strength in California but weak elsewhere, which unsettled the entire trade.

Limited carload business is confirmed in the cauliflower market, with the latest business appearing from the Atlantic coast. Owing to the extreme dry weather real No 1 is difficult to secure. Plenty of good No. 2s.

Advanced orders on cocoanuts being taken at $4 sack, which is the lowest opening price known here.

All citrus fruit prices are unchanged. Dillard cantaloupes are being sold $1-$1.10 for best with fancy Eugene stock mostly $1 crate.

Pomegranates are being offered $1 box. Yakima potatoes more active but locals are scarce. Cabbage market continues to weaken.

Pickling cucumbers again higher with continued scarcity.

BRITISH TO INCREASE CANNED GOODS DUTY

Increased duties are announced as having been imposed in the United Kingdom on canned cherries, candied fruit peel and a list of other items, says the California Fruit News. Three new general tariff rates, applying to imports from all non-British sources, include a duty of 25 per cent ad valorem, in addition to the existing specific rates depending upon sugar content, on canned cherries and on pitted cherries canned or bottled in syrup.

PRUNE HARVEST IN CALIFORNIA EARLY

California prune harvest has been relatively early. As harvest has advanced, growers report slightly lower production than expected, placing the present forecast at 209,000 tons, says the California Fruit News. The entire morale of the prune industry seems to have been strengthened by the successful sign-up and organization of the California Prune Pool. Crops of other recent years have been: 208,000 tons in 1931, 274,000 tons in 1931, 274,000 tons in 1930, 103,000 tons in 1929 and 221,000 tons in 1928. It is estimated that of the 1930 crop only 261,000 tons were actually harvested.

The forecast of probable production of dried prunes in Oregon is 20,000 tons. In addition to these amounts the forecasts of prunes for fresh consumption are: Oregon, 34,000 tons; Washington, 27,000; and Idaho, 25,000 tons.

Poultry Display Exceptionally Big

Visitors to the 71st Oregon state fair which opens Monday will see the largest livestock and poultry display in the history of the exposition, the exhibitors including many who never before have shown in the state.

Horses and cattle are arriving daily and are being gotten in condition for heavy competition in all classes. Included in the early arrivals this week are four herds of purebred swine from the Lillard farm, at Arlington, Texas, which include four breeds. These have been shown at various fairs throughout the country.

New bus lines are being inaugurated in West Java.

STOCKS BOOM WHEN MARKET SETS FAST PACE

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—All markets soared upward today.

Stocks soared 1 to more than 10 points; bonds, 1 to 5 points; curb stocks, 1 to 17 points; bank stocks, 1 to 15; wheat, 2½ to 2¾ cents a bushel; cotton, more than $2 a bale. Coffee, wool, silk, rubber and silver also were higher.

Trading in the share market began at a fast clip with blocks of 100 to 6,000 shares appearing. Tickers fell behind then and at intervals during the day. Volume expanded from the recent million-share pace to around 4,000,000 shares, or the largest since September 13 when 5,100,000 shares were transacted.

Steel shares were the features today. Pressure lifted from steel preferred in the early trading and it went up more than 10 points.

A long list of industrial issues rose 5 or 6 points and a few made wider gains. Short covering provided much of the impetus.

Case shot up more than 9 points with the spirited recovery in wheat.

Chrysler was the active favorite in the automobile division. General Electric rose more than 2 in the electrical equipment division where Westinghouse Electric gained 4 points. Douglas Aircraft made a ne whigh for the year, following the lead set by United Aircraft.

Tobacco shares experienced one of their best sessions for that group this year. Railroad shares furnished a group feature throughout the day. American Telephone crossed 115 for a gain above 7 points. Consolidated Gas rose nearly 4 points and other utilities were strong.

According to preliminary calculation, the Dow, Jones and Co., industrial average stood at 75.16, up 7.67 points, railroad 36.13, up 3.65 and utility 33.01, up 3.59.

Sales were 4,300,000 shares, compared with 1,300,000 shares yesterday.

Aggregate market value of 10 leading stocks was $6,444,706,439 against $5,856,747,330 yesterday, an advance of $588,019,109.

HOOVER FEELS PINCHOT PROD

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 21 (AP)—Governor Pinchot today telegraphed President Hoover that his refusal to take a hand in speeding reconstruction finance corporation aid to Pennsylvania "came as deep great disappointment."

The governor yesterday requested an appointment Friday to discuss with the president means by which the corporation's action on the state's application, now two months old, could be expedited.

The president advised him that if he studied the law he would realize that the corporation alone could determine its loans and that he was without authority to advise it in the manner the governor requested. Although Mr. Toover did not refer to the governor's request for an appointment, it was said at the White House that he would not be received.

"I cannot concede that you are powerless to help," Pinchot's telegram today said. "Whatever may be your legal authority over the reconstruction finance corporation its members are your appointees, and would unquestionably respect your wishes.

"You suggest that I study the law. I did so most carefully before making application and found in it no requirement whatever beyond the application and certificate of need by the governor, which I made two months ago. Your board has read into the law finespun red tape which congress never wrote into it, and is using it to starve our unemployed.

"Red tape does not interest the hundreds of thousands of destitute families in Pennsylvania, now on the verge of winter without resources and without hope. What they want is help. All the help private charity, the commonwealth and the nation can give will still fall far below their bitter need.

"You yourself have given the guarantee that no one shall starve in this country. I ask you to make that guarantee good in Pennsylvania."

PRUNE HARVEST STARTS

Amity—The prune harvest has started in this locality this week in earnest with the three dryers, two south of town operated by W. R. Osborne, and the Ray Jones dryer, one mile northeast of Amity are running full capacity. The prune crop is much heavier than anticipated earlier in the summer and the quality is excellent.

Practice Committee Of Fruit Association Tests Samples Here

The field practice committee of the Northwest Dried Fruit association met in Salem yesterday to inspect samples from various prune sections. The committee is made up of men who handle prunes and receive delivery on them for the various packers and co-operatives. The idea of the meeting is to fix standards for the year on prunes which must pass inspection at the dock.

The dried fruit association handles its own inspections at the dock and the men who handle prunes go over the situation in the field practice committee so that just the standards on prunes allowable for the year are known to them.

These standards vary somewhat according to the years as in certain seasons it is manifestly impossible to put up the same standard pack of dried prunes as it is in other seasons. Consequently various factors are gone over, tolerances fixed and thus it is made possible for the association to either certify or not certify the prunes for passing inspection at the dock, over which the bulk of the dried prunes of the northwest passes.

This year the prune quality is reported very good and the samples shown indicated a nice prune as a general thing.

The field practice committee is in its second year this year. It is understood it was largely an outgrowth of the move started by the government a few years ago to clean up the prune industry. The dried fruit association immediately took up the proposition and it was tacitly understood between representatives of the government and the prune packers and growers that ample opportunity would be given to the industry to take care of its own problems. However, government inspectors indicated that if this was not done then they would step in and take a hand.

A committee was named headed by William G. Fisher, well known prune buyer, to work out a plan to meet the situation and the filed practice committee is understood to have been an offshoot of this plan. Under the field practice committee a standard is arrived at as to how the prunes should be handled under good, careful care for the conditions existing as of that year. The plan seems to have worked admirably and but little criticism has been found by the government with the packs offered for shipment.

Prune drying is expected to continue for another 10 days while prune canning will probably be better well wound up by the end of this week.

Crop estimates do not vary much as a general thing although straight through it appears that the crops which were predicted as light ran possibly little lighter than estimates while the heavy crops ran a little heavier than estimate. Prune men state that growers' estimates as a general thing are influenced to some extent by the crops of the previous year on their own holdings and may vary accordingly.

FARM PRODUCTS MOVING WITH LOWEST PRICES

Corvallis, Ore., Sept. 21 (AP)—Heavily increased produce movement in the northwest is reported in this week's fruit and vegetable review issued by the O.S.C. extension service and the government bureau of agricultural economics. Unfortunately, the review says, prices are still so low that growers are netting little or nothing above cost of production.

Volume of carlot movement last week reached 3036 compared with an average of 1800 for the preceding four weeks. Most of the increase was in Washington apples, Idaho prunes, Idaho and Yakima potatoes, and Oregon and Washington pears.

Pear shipments reached the peak last week for the season to date with 909 cars, about equally divided between Oregon and Washington. Northwestern Bartletts from storage averaged, on eastern auctions, around $1.50 to $1.75 which leaves producers little profit. Cannery Bartletts closed strong with some late bids at $15 to $16 per ton compared with mid-season prices of $8 to $10.

Continued dry weather has cut the estimated crop of fall cauliflower in half, although the same dry weather has provided ideal dried prune harvesting conditions.

Y ACTIVITIES STIMULATED

With the opening of school and the return of cooler weather, activities at the Y. M. C. A. are increasing rapidly and many classes have been organized or are in the process of formation. Swimming promises to take up a great deal of time of the instructors since Salem high and Willamette university students will use the Y pool during the winter. Men students at Willamette will receive swimming instructions between 1 and 3 Monday and Fridays' while women from the university will have one class each Wednesday between 1 and 3 and another on Friday from 3 to 4 p. m.

Tuesday of each week will be given almost exclusively to high school girls with the boys scheduled to occupy he pool on Thursday. Fred Smith and Bob Boardman will instruct the boys, while Esther Arnold will have charge of the girls classes.
