Great Britain also bluntly stated

Great Britain also bluntly stated that should payments be resumed she would have to atrengthen her exchange position and "this could only be done by adopting measures which would further restrict Bri-tish purchases of American goods." English taxpayers, she argued, would suffer as much as American taxpayers by wiping out all war debt agreements because England would no longer be collecting the debts and reparations due her. The note asserted that England during the war did trade with America

The French text of the note which had previously been sent to Washington was made public short-voluest for suspension of the $20,-100,000 in interest. In closing the document says

"The reception which will be given the request is awaited with onfidence by the French government, which realizes all of the con-sequences which the decision of the president of the United States may have for improving or making worse the tragic situation resulting from the World war." As for the recommendations of the American president, which was contained in his original reply to the Prench request for mostoonethe French request for postpone-ment, the communication said that Washington was made public short-ly afternoon today and renewed the all powers.

Livesley company, which had a part of the building leased for hop storage, reports damage by water to 20 bales of hops, well insured, which can be partially salvaged at least by re-drying. The Oregon Fulp & Faper company has 250 or 300 tons of shipping stock stored in the building, but believed it was not damaged. While the department was at the building, but believed it was not damaged. While the department was at work on this fire the call came in from the Producers' Cooperative plant. Frank Gibson, manager of the company, said that J. B. Put-nam, night watchman, had made his rounds of the plant at 3:45 o'clock and found nothing wrong. An hour later he discovered the fire at the south end of the plant. It had just gotten a start, and Putnam attempted to quench it himself but also called the fire de-partment. Upon returning from making the telephone call he found that the fire had grained rapid head-way and was being fanned by the
