Roseburg, Ore., Feb. 21 (AP)—The first anti-farm mortgage foreclosure demonstration in Douglas county took place here today when a group of approximately 150 farmers gathered at the courthouse at the hour set for the sale of the Montgomery farm at Day's Creek on a mortgage judgment. There was no disorder. The sale was postponed, however, upon assent of the bank holding the mortgage, when a committee from the Douglas county farmers' protective league conferred with the bank officials. This league, organized last night, announces that it is forming committees to investigate cases where farmers are in danger of losing their property, and through cooperative effort will try to assist such farmers in renewal of obligations or in securing sufficient financial aid to make partial payment that will postpone foreclosure.

MILK STRIKE IN WISCONSIN NEAR REAL WARFARE

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 21 (AP)—Wisconsin's milk war strike veered toward a "milk war" today, with thousands of strikers picketing highways and unsympathetic farmers and deputies armed with tear gas bombs and revolvers clashing with them, at a dozen points. Ominous events of the past few hours were:

Pickets dumped milk in seven counties, forcibly closed cheese factories and poured kerosene over cheese after beating proprietors.

The scope of the strike spread to rail shipments as 250 pickets prevented the Green Bay and Western railroad from picking up carload of 8,000 pounds of skimmed milk.

Non-striking farmers banded into picket groups to reinforce 500 special armed deputies.

Persons fearful of widespread bloodshed and violence appealed to Governor Albert C. Schmedeman for state troops.

Added to those disturbing developments was discussion within the ranks of the strikers. Hundreds of dairymen gathered at Madison for a meeting called by Walter M. Singler, dapper young head of the Wisconsin Co-operative milk pool, which is sponsoring the strike.

That meeting was to determine whether the strike shall continue on the basis of demanding $1.40 per hundredweight for milk, whether it shall be broadened to include higher prices for all dairy products, and whether attempts shall be made to extend the strike to other states.

Singler, husky Shiocton farmer who wears a goatee and spats, uttered the following warning regarding use of tear gas bombs by deputies:

"They better lay off that stuff. Two can play that game. Pickets will not use violence if let alone but no one will be able to stop them if treated roughly by officers."

Advised in a telegram from Senator Charles McNary that there is little prospect that congress will enact any legislation setting up the machinery for electing delegates and holding constitutional conventions in the states to vote on repeal of the 18th amendment, Representative Romeo Gouley today asked action of the house committee on elections on his constitutional convention bill.

Immediately following passage of the Blaine resolution by the national house yesterday, which completed submission of the repeal question to the state, Gouley telegraphed to Senator McNary asking full data as to the congressional program and advice as to what should be included in his bill before the legislature to set up the machinery for a constitutional convention bill.

Senator McNary today replied that it is practically certain that the task of providing the machinery for the conventions will be left to the states.

Gouley announced at noon that he ask amendment of his bill in committee to include the proviso that any and all congressional provisions for holding the conventions, if any are enacted, shall prevail over the terms of the state act.

It is expected that the committee will report the Gouley bill out favorably to the house not later than Wednesday and that it will be placed on final passage in the house Thursday or Friday.

Minor Opinions by Supreme Court
Opinions handed down today by the state supreme court follow:

John R. Hill, respondent, vs. George G. Wood, defendant, and Brookings State Bank, a corporation, appellant. Appeal from Cuddy county. Judge J. T. Brand affirmed. Action by plaintiff to recover from defendants certain sums of money paid to Brookings State bank by mistake. Opinion by Justice Bailey.

BAROMETER TO RULE BEHAVIOR

Fort Worth, Texas, (AP)—When the barometer reads 29.70 or below, be careful.

That figure is the barometric dividing line between cheerful, good behavior and the feeling that leads to murder and suicide, according to D. S. Landis, retired weather observer and student of the effects of weather on crime.

"When the barometer falls low, one finds a condition of rarified air that allows less oxygen per intake of breath. That means a lack of proper amount of oxygen in the blood, a situation which sets up mental and physical stagnation," Landis explained.

Contrary to romantic novels, the moon has nothing to do with it. It's barometric pressure that makes one feel exhilarated or depressed.

"Varied climatic factors produce varied mental products," Landis believes.

"Whittier wouldn't have written his great poems had he lived in South America. Lowell would not have seen 'The Vision of Sir Launfal' had his home been in Russia.

"And I wouldn't have produced the thousands of pictures in 'This is the World' in Michigan," said Landis, indicating his book cabinet.

When not busy on the treatise on "The Police Blotter and the Weather," Landis' chief hobby is poetry.

ARCHERD CASE TRIAL ORDERED NEXT FRIDAY

Circuit Judge Lewelling this afternoon denied a motion for a continuance made in the case of Charles R. Archerd, charged with larceny of certain wheat, and stated that the case will go to trial next Friday morning unless a demurrer to the indictment is sustained prior to the trial.

The motion was filed this morning by mail from C. F. Pruess, Grants Pass, attorney for Archerd. It mentioned the fact that a demurrer to the indictment was still pending without argument and that the defense had not had time to prepare its case and asked continuance until the week of March 12.

"How long ago was this offense alleged to have been committed?" the court asked District Attorney Trindle, who was resisting the motion for continuance.

"Over a year," said the district attorney.

"And when was the plea entered?" asked the court.

"On February 6, if I remember rightly."

"The case will go to trial," said the court. "In the first place the motion is not sustained by affidavits. But, nevertheless, the offense, if alleged to have been committed a year ago, should not be hanging over the defendant. He should be tried, and if innocent, acquitted, if guilty he should be given what punishment he deserves. If he entered his plea February 6 he had plenty of time to prepare his case."

"That is why courts receive criticism, why lawyers receive criticism, these dilatory tactics, hanging on and hanging on, with continuances and pleas. This case should go to trial."

Who will try the case is the next question. It will be either Judge Lewelling or Judge Arlie Walker of Polk and Wallowa counties. Judge Walker took this evening over with Judge Walker, to have Judge Walker come here, try this case and at the same time dispose of other matters he has pending in this court, and Judge Lewelling will go to Dallas to handle matters for Judge Walker there.

District Attorney Trindle stated as to the demurrer to the indictment that he has written stipulation with Pruess that this may be decided at the morning of the trial. If the demurrer is sustained it will automatically prevent the trial as the indictment will be thrown out.

SEEKS TITLE TO SALEM BREWERY

An amended complaint has been filed in circuit court by S. R. Stevenson against the Northwest Fruit Products company to have his title to the old products company and brewery company property made good as against bondholders. Stevenson claims fee title to the property by virtue of a tax title for which he paid, it is said, in excess of $25,000.

He filed complaint some time back but a motion was interposed to require him to name holders of the bonds of $200,000 issue against the property. The amended complaint sets these out naming H. R. Crawford, Northwest National bank, West Coast Bancorporation, Schmidt Estate, Inc., Larable Brothers, bankers, Fox Security company, Olympia National Bank, Capital National Bank and C. M. Mill, as the only known bondholders and as holders of all the bonds.

The suit takes on added interest in light of the fact that Frank Schmidt, former heavy holder of brewery stock, was recently in Salem and announced negotiations were under way for again using the properties for brewery purposes as soon as anti-prohibition legislation is enacted to make it possible.

TO GET THINGS STARTED AHEAD ROOSEVELT AIM

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—President-elect Roosevelt said today he had discussed the world economic conference and inter-governmental debts with Ambassador Claudel of France. The president-elect declined to go into details with either his talk with M. Claudel or Douglas D. Herdridge, the Canadian minister, another caller.

Mr. Roosevelt issued the following statement late today:

"After conferring with Secretary Stimson in Washington on Monday, the French ambassador came to see me in New York today.

"We discussed unofficially all questions relating to collaboration between France and the United States in world affairs.

"These included, of course, the world economic conference and inter-governmental debts.

"These conversations will continue and the new secretary of state, after his selection is announced, will doubtless see M. Claudel.

"I had a delightful meeting with Mr. Herdridge, the Canadian minister.

"This was the first time I had the privilege of meeting him and we discussed many matters of mutual interest to Canada and the United States."

The president-elect declined to amplify this statement and said he had no more dates either with foreign envoys or with Secretary Stimson. He explained to newspapermen that the big purpose of today's meetings was to "get things started ahead of time."

It was said authoritatively that the Far Eastern situation was not mentioned at all.

Mr. Roosevelt declined to say whether the French had made any representations for payment of their December 15 installment on the war debts, which was defaulted.

He described today's meeting with Professor Moley, Bernard M. Baruch, and other economic experts as relating to the agenda of the world economic conference.

He said this meeting was wholly unofficial.

GLASS' REASONS FOR STAYING IN SENATE

Washington, Feb. 21 (AP)—Senator Glass (D., Va.), denied in a formal statement today that he had declined an invitation to be secretary of the treasury in the Roosevelt cabinet because of differences with the president-elect on fundamental issues.

"The simple fact is that I prefer to remain in the senate because nobody has shaken my conviction that I can be of more usefulness there to the country and to the incoming administration, than at the treasury."

"This conviction, urged by President-elect Roosevelt at the outset, has persisted to the end prompted my final answer. It was confirmed by the unanimity of expression in the senate and in Virginia. I deeply regret that I could reach no different conclusion."
