

MEN TO PRESENT PROGRAM AGAIN FOR CLUB GROUP

Labish Center—A capacity audience heard the men's program in the community club contest Friday night at the schoolhouse. Following the program the judges, Mrs. Burley Lavette, H. F. Hanes and Al Potts, gave their decision in favor of the men.

The program was announced in a novel manner through a radio set by means of a microphone off-stage, with Harold Springer and Valmer Klump as announcers. The station call was M.A.L.E.

The farce comedy, "When Doctors Disagree," was well presented, with the difficult role of Skipper Benson admirably interpreted by Gus Harris. Others in the cast were Vernon Dow, Harvey Aker, Nathan Kurth, Bob Gwinn, Jim Sewell, Harry Bennett and Arthur Miller.

An excellent array of musical talent added variety to the program, with a five-piece orchestra from Salem composed of Chester and Clarence East, Henry Newman, Mr. Byers and Harold Springer; a three-piece Hawaiian ensemble from Parkersville; a male quartet, and several vocal numbers by Everett Sisco, The Grassy Pond Yodelers, four boys from the Grassy Pond school, were a hit with the audience.

The stage was completely redecorated for the performance, and an illuminated silhouette of a ship, bidding everyone welcome, was placed about the stage curtain.

During the business meeting, the committees for April were announced as follows: Program, Mrs. Eula Bennett and Mrs. Agnes Boehm; refreshments, Mrs. Alice Jefferson and Mrs. Amy Bear.

The committees which were responsible for Friday's program were H. E. Boehm and Harry Bennett, program, assisted by Valmer Klump; and Harry Love and J. W. Burr, who took charge of the jitney lunch served in the basement.

By decision of the executive committee of the club, the men will present their play again here in two weeks, at which time judges from the federated club body will be present.

Others in the cast were Orva Barrett as the modest widow anxious to live in the city; Marie de Lorraine, Sis Hays, who agreed that she is "pretty cute" for as she explained folks did call her pretty and she admitted she was cute. She was the widow's helper both in her housework, her wooing and in spending the money made from the sale of the farm.

Tom Higginbotham made quite a hit with the audience in his interpretation of Mr. Merriwell, the rich city man who wants to buy the widow's farm. His niece Gladys, played by Frances Leffler, proved equally interesting as she ran screaming first from a gentleman cow, then from an angry tom turkey. Both were given enthusiastic applause.

Ed Erickson, the detective who turns wailer in the last scene, and Beatrice Claypool, the girl in red in the cabaret scene, were likewise applauded. Both did their bits with sincerity and good effect.

Between the acts the community orchestra under the direction of Dr. A. F. de Lorraine played a diversified program. In the group were Edith Painter, Cokie de Lorraine, Dorothy McKee, Clarence Bevens, Franklin de Lorraine, Janet McKee, Louise Grims and Don Covey.

A home-made candy booth in the rear of the hall was presided over by women of the community guild. The play was sponsored by the community guild of women and the money realized will be used for church purposes. BIRD HOUSE TO BE OBJECT FOR MONMOUTH CLUB

Monmouth—Two new ventures for the improvement of Monmouth and the encouragement of the younger citizens of the town and nearby rural communities were launched last week by the garden club of the civic club.

The first is the beginning of a series of birdhouse building contests consisting of groups of different ages with cash prizes and other awards to the winners. J. A. Allen of the manual training department of the high school has charge of the work and has entered into the plan with enthusiasm, feeling it is a very worthwhile project. Mr. Allen himself sponsored a contest last year which was most successful. Definite plans and rules will be posted within the week if possible.

The second venture is one in amateur gardening. The civic club hopes to provide every boy and girl who will promise to try to make them grow, with slips, seeds or bulbs for the beginning of a garden. Prizes will be given according to effort and results and every child who succeeds in getting one slip or flower to grow will be rewarded by additional plants or bulbs. Cash prizes are also to be given, later in the summer probably, for the best project. Every school pupil is eligible to enter and it is urged to do so. It is hoped that a number will use their spare vacation time in this enjoyable and constructive way.

The slogan of the civic club is to "Make Monmouth Beautiful" and in so doing, encourage progressive people to locate here as permanent residents.

If the older citizens enter into the projects of these younger citizens as enthusiastically as they themselves do, Monmouth will benefit in many ways.
