BRITISH BAN ON RUSSIA TO AID COAST LUMBER

Seattle, Wash., April 19 (AP)—A possibility that the embargo placed upon Russian lumber imports today by Great Britain may aid soft wood lumber export sales in Oregon and Washington and particularly British Columbia, was held out today in a statement by the West Coast Lumbermen's association.

The association, however, pointed out that Russia, denied the British market to which she sold 45 percent of her exported lumber last year, may decide to "dump" the lumber elsewhere, threatening international number trade at other points.

The $4 a thousand import tax on lumber levied by this country would not keep Russia from "dumping" a half million feet of lumber in the states, if she wanted to, in the opinion of the association.

If the embargo is maintained, the association believes Great Britain will probably first turn to the Baltic countries for her lumber. However, reports from the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce have indicated low stocks in these countries, Finland, Sweden and Norway, are low because of lack of demand during the past three years.

"The effects of the embargo reported as placed by Great Britain on Russian lumber shipments, if the action remains in force for any length of time, will be felt in the lumber trade throughout the world," the association's statement said.

"It may be of great importance to the lumber industry of Oregon, Washington and British Columbia, depending on the duration of the embargo and the amount of stock on hand in Sweden, Finland and Norway."

"However, if the pound continues to go up and the dollar down, we may be able to move into the market. Due to superior manufacturing conditions we can get lumber into shape in about a week or 10 days, whereas it takes six months in the Baltic states."

The association revealed that Russia has taken over which formerly went to Washington state, and that the embargo might put new life into that division.

SCHERER ELECTED BY PRESBYTERIANS

Officers of Salem high school chapter of Future Craftsmen of America may attend one or two sessions of the state convention of Future Farmers of America which will be held at Corvallis April 30 to 22. T. T. Mackenzie, director of vocational education announced today. Salem will have no representatives in the Future Farmers division.

POETIC NAMES SELECTED FOR OREGON MINES

Oregon miners, who have dug and delved in search of fortune that more often than not eluded them, have an occasional imaginative twist of mind, a perusal of the names of mining companies shows.

Hope, so some epigramist said, springs eternal, and it is presumably that eternal hope that led to the naming of some of the mines of Oregon. For instance, there is the Cinderella at Halsey. It is not recorded that the Cinderella produced gold that like magic changed the life of her founder, but it is apparent that the owner knew his fairy tales, and that he hoped his fairy tales. Hope, by the way, is the name of a Meador mine.

Then of course there would be a Bonanza, all mining states have one or more of them, which supposedly produce gold in great quantities to the delight of everyone. Along the same line of thought is the Cornucopia, the horn of plenty, at Baker, and the Eldorado, the fabulous city of good fortune, at Weston.

Someone who remembered the story of the king who turned everything he touched to gold christened the Mida gold mine near Medford, but the tale of golden touch which might have been given the Oregon man remains untold. The Green Back mine was founded, evidently by a man who considered other forms of currency just as good as gold.

The discoverer of the Lucky Boy mine at Blue river considered himself just that at first, and Bullion Mountain, at Grants Pass, was apparently over-optimistically named. A miner who thought he had struck it richer than most other men christened the Daddy Lode at Baker. This can be matched with the Mother Lode, also at Baker. The Gem at Baker was a good producer.

Whoever named the Golden Cross mine at Bend may or may not have been an admirer of William Jennings Bryan, but he apparently knew his politics. So did the man who named the Gold Standard at Ashland.

Someone added a Spanish touch with the El Oro at Baker. There is a touch of the Old West glamour in the name of the Jack Pot at Grants Pass, and how the High Bar at Burns came to be named can be guessed. There are many versions as to the origin of the name Jump-off-Joe located near Grants Pass, and one guess is as good as another.

The Red Boy at Baker can be matched with the Yellow Boy in the same territory. The latter may have been named for some of the Chinese miners who had phenomenal luck occasionally in the early days of Oregon. The Red Bird and the Cardinal, also at Baker, may be added to the color scheme. The Titan mine at La Grande must have been named by someone with at least a smattering of classical history, while the Giraffe was probably only a fantasy.

Names of girls or women figure in Oregon mining too. Most noted was the Josephine, for which Josephine county was eventually named. Others include the May Belle, Salem; Pearl, Central Point; Rowena, Springfield; and possibly, the Virtue, Baker.

Geographical names are found in the Pleasant, Baker; Polar Star, Portland; Rising Sun, Canyon City; Tunis, Portland; and Vesuvius, Eugene.

There are approximately 250 mining companies chartered for operation in Oregon, in addition to numerous independent operators. In addition to gold, other minerals and metals are found such as silver, copper, mercury, iron, coal, oil, gas, and building stone.

JAPS MAY BUY SOVIET INTEREST IN RAIL SYSTEM

Tokyo, April 19 (AP)—A foreign office spokesman intimated today that Japan might seek to purchase Soviet Russia's interest in the Chinese Eastern railroad in behalf of Manchoukuo.

The spokesman denied Japan had been responsible for difficulties along the important rail line which inspired a sharp note of protest from Leo Karakhan, Soviet commissar for foreign affairs, which was forwarded to Tokyo yesterday. Karakhan made his "primary error," the spokesman said, in assuming that the Japanese members of the Manchoukuo government received orders from Tokyo.

The purchase scheme now under consideration would call for cancellation of Japanese debt claims against Russia in return for the Soviet's half interest in the road. The debt claims total 500,000,000 yen. The spokesman emphasized that any cash outlay were demanded, Japan would not be interested.

Japanese officials studied the text of Karakhan's protest in which he accused the Japanese of violating an agreement to protect Soviet property, and charged that Manchoukuo authorities had countedenance bandit raids on the road and imprisoned Soviet employees.

Foreign Minister Takahashi Uchida will reply to Karakhan orally through the Russian ambassador at his convenience, the spokesman said. He intimated that Uchida would insist upon a direct Manchoukuo-Soviet solution of the difficulties without Japanese collaboration.

The sales tax plan will be voted on at the special election July 21.

Boston, April 19 (AP)—"Paul Revere" and "William Dawes, Jr." galloped through Middlesex villages again today in commemoration of the 158th anniversary of the battles of Lexington and Concord.

Despite lowering skies, patriots' day was observed with traditional ceremonies in Boston and nearby communities whose history is closely connected with the stirring events of 1775.

A rider impersonating Revere started from North Square and another impersonating Dawes left Elliot Square, Roxbury, to re-enact the famous rides.

Shortly after the arrival at Lexington of Revere and Dawes, another rider, "Dr. Samuel Prescott," carried a message from Mayor James M. Curley of Boston to Concord bridge, where was fired "the shot heard around the world."

Thirsty Bay Folk Much Disappointed

Marshfield, Ore., April 19 (AP)—Restaurants, newspaper offices and rail officials were bombarded yesterday with a barrage of queries concerning the contents of several refrigerator cars brought in by the Southern Pacific and left on a siding here. Rumors spread high, wide and handsome that hundreds upon hundreds of cases of amber fluid called beer reposed behind the locked doors. It seemed that the city was thirsty.

Hope was dashed to earth however, when it was announced the cars had been brought here merely in anticipation of the opening of the fish packing season.

Kid of 19 No Logger Says Flop House Man

A new kind of youth movement is reported from "Hotel De Minto"—Salem's "flop house."

Manager R. N. Yonkers reports that boys only 16 years of age are flocking the rooms and that over half of his "patrons" are under 22 years of age.

From New York, Pennsylvania and points north, south and east they come, Yonkers said. There is little talk among the tramping youth of getting work; they are out for a good time.

"What gets my goat," Yonkers added, "is when some 'punk' 19 years old comes in and says he's a logger."

STORMY LIFE OF JUDGE ENDS

Boston, April 19 (AP)—Webster Thayer, the Massachusetts judge who pronounced sentence of death upon Nicholas Sacco and Bartholomew Vanzetti, was dead today at the age of 75.

The jurist succumbed to a cerebral embolism, suffered Friday in his room at the University club here, and his condition had been too critical for him to be moved. His wife was with him from the time he was stricken.

Judge Thayer's conduct of the trial in 1920 of Sacco and Vanzetti, worker radicals charged with shooting a paymaster and his guard during a holiday, had denied a new trial for the convicted men, and his imposition of the death penalty seven years later, caused him to be one of the most bitterly attacked judges in legal history. Likewise, he was one of the most stoutly defended.

Social issues grew out of the trial which have reverberated around the world. Each anniversary of the execution on August 23, 1927, have been marked by meetings in various countries, and the names became a symbol among liberal groups.

Last fall the Thayer's home in Worcester was destroyed by a bomb which slightly wounded Mrs. Thayer, and a movement was pending in legislature to reimburse the jurist $25,000 damages. After the bombing a state trooper in plain clothes was assigned to guard the judge and remained with him wherever he went.

CONSTANTINE TAKES DRY CHIEF'S OFFICE

San Francisco, April 19 (AP)—John L. Constantine was today named to federal prohibition agents in northern California today and William G. Walker, erstwhile administrator for the district, was taking "a few days off."

Constantine, appointed by A. V. Dalmryple, national prohibition chief, and Walker, asked by Dalmryple last week to resign, conferred amicably at prohibition headquarters yesterday. As friends of 25 years standing, they decided to keep the peace until a definite ruling came from Washington, where the situation was somewhat complicated.

While Walker was declining to quit, pleading that his tenure was protected by civil service regulations, and while Constantine was moving in and issuing orders, U. S. Attorney General Hugh Cummings, at Washington, said Dalmryple acted without his knowledge. Dalmryple is a subordinate of the attorney general.

"I'm just taking a few days off," said Walker. "I won't admit I'm officially out until I hear from Washington."

PAWSON WINS IN NEW RECORD FOR MARATHON

Boston, April 19 (AP)—Leslie Pawson, Pawtucket, R. I., millhand and one of the favorites, smashed the course record today in winning the 37th annual Boston A. A. marathon over a field of 210 runners.

Pawson's time of 2 hours, 31 minutes, 3-5 seconds was 2 minutes 7-1-5 seconds faster than the course record established by Johnny Miles of Hamilton, Ont., when he won the event in 1929.

A crowd estimated at a half million saw the Pawtucket plodder, with two important victories to his credit, over shorter distances, place a field which included four former winners of the road classic.

Dave Komonen of the Monarch A. C. of Toronto, Ont., finished second, more than five minutes behind the flying Pawson.

Komonen's time was 2:36:27 3-5. Dick Wilding of the Silverthorns A. C. of Toronto finished third. His time was 2 hours 38 minutes 3-5 seconds.

Another Torontonian, Harold Webster of the Hamilton Olympic club, was fourth, only yards behind Wilding. Webster's time was 2:38:31 3-5.

The veteran, Willie Kyronen of the Finnish-American A. C. of New York, placed fifth after
