Women interested in learning to ride a bicycle will be given the opportunity Wednesday night at Sweetland field when Salem's first free "riding academy" will be presented by Harry Scott, cycle man, assisted by a corps of able instructors. Bicycles of all sizes and types, including those equipped with the balloon tires, will be available without cost or obligation. Scott decided to open the "academy" in response to a general desire of a great many women to learn to ride a bicycle in order to keep abreast with the times. Under a new system, it is possible to teach a person to ride a bicycle in a comparatively few minutes. Scott asserts. The academy will be in session from 6 to 9 o'clock and if there is sufficient interest, other classes will be held.

G. R. Stover of Salem was today elected commander of the state department of the Sons of Union Veterans who are in convention in Salem simultaneously with the state G. A. R.

Other officers elected were: Senior vice commander, John L. Mars, Eugene; junior vice commander, J. D. Carlton, Portland; secretary-treasurer, John Thompson, Salem; patriotic instructor, C. O. Gosney, Marshfield; chaplain, Carl Williams, Portland; guide, Dr. L. L. Baker, Eugene; council, E. B. Perrine, Salem; William McConnell, Portland; K. Clements, Newberg; color bearer, Dr. W. E. Buck, inside guard, F. B. Byes, Newberg; outside guard, R. E. R. Raynard; correspondent, Eugene Prescott, Salem.

The Sons of Union Veterans met yesterday in Knights of Pythias hall with Commander C. O. Gosney of Marshfield presiding. Reports indicated that the department was in good condition. New camps are being organized and other new ones in sight.

Activity is still going ahead looking to the erection of a monument on the state capitol grounds in honor of the union veterans of the Civil war. Had it not been for the present economic condition it is said the monument would now have been erected. A drawing of the monument may be seen in the window of the Allen hardware store.

Delegates are present from Portland, Hood River, Marshfield, Eugene, Grants Pass, Newberg and Salem.

SALEM GOES TO DOGS TO AID DRUM CORPS

Salem may have gone to the dogs Tuesday, but it was a profitable visit and the entire proceeds contributed by 10,000 spectators in addition to many tickets that were sold but not used at the dog races in Multnomah stadium in Portland will be used to send the national champion American Legion drum corps of Salem to the national convention and world's fair at Chicago in October.

Many "long shots" came under the fire at the night greyhound session, with the "Daily Double" in the eighth race paying $301 for a $2 ticket and the "Quiniela" on the first race paying $237.50 for the same investment. In the second race, "Distant Shores", a "long shot," sprinted at the stretch to win, paying $47.50 on a straight ticket.

The Southern Pacific special was well-patronized on the trip to Portland, with an even larger crowd returning. The train left the union station shortly after midnight, arriving here a little before 2:30 o'clock this morning. J. T. Delaney, through whose efforts the Portland chamber of commerce and American Legion posts got behind the plan, remained in Portland Wednesday to complete a checkup on receipts.

FIRE HAZARDS AT SCHOOL REMOVED

A number of fire hazards have been removed from the Salem high school building, according to a report made by officials following an inspection made on June 14. The inspection was made by Fire Chief Harry Hutton, Captain B. O. Faught, inspector for the city, E. A. Taylor, representing the state fire marshal's office, E. C. Bushnell, city building inspector, and Alderman O. A. Olson, chairman of the fire and water committee of the city council.

The improvements made were removal of a gas meter from the fan room, installation of a metal roof fire escape and two exits from the gymnasium, installation of a new fire alarm system, a change in the method of egress to the fire escape from the assembly rooms, and the removal of large supplies of dangerous acids from the laboratory.

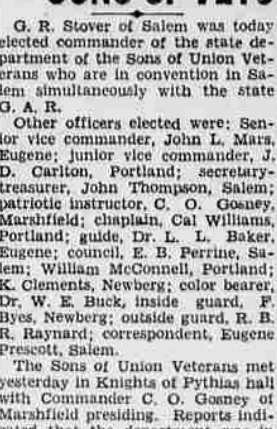

Improvements which the inspectors hope still to see made at the high school building are a more simple method of reaching the fire escape from the girls' restrictive room and band room, and removal of the heating plant from the main building to a detached building.

J. M. Devers, attorney for the state highway department, today telegraphed from Washington, urging immediate preparation of the design and other information in connection with the proposed five new bridges which it is proposed to construct on the Oregon coast highway with funds obtained under the federal public works bill.

Thirty per cent of the cost of the bridges would be obtained through a direct grant while the remaining 70 per cent would be borrowed from the government. The loan would be repaid from tolls. The cost of the bridges was estimated at $3,400,000.

Plans for these bridges must be approved by the war department for the reason that they will span navigable streams.

REGISTRATION FOR Y ANNUAL OUTING

Registration for the annual outing of boys of the Salem Y.M.C.A. July 25-Aug. 3 at Oceanside, Tillamook county, is under way. Just 13 boys have signed on the dotted line although many more are known to be making their plans so that they may take part in the annual outing. Those having signed are Frank I. Page, Thomas Roen, Jr., George Alexander, Jr., George Arbuckle, Jr., "Doug" Chambers, Richard Chambers, D. Compton, Gordon Krueger, Bob Pundt, Bill Shinn, James Spitzer, Wm. Laughlin and Dale Krueger.

Dwight Adams and Gus Moore, young men popular with the youngsters by reason of their activities at the local association building over a period of years, will be in charge of the camp this year, while "Pop" Cray will again furnish the meals. Prof. DuBois, naturalist of Portland, will teach the boys of birds, flowers and other things.

Although the younger and older boys will be in camp during the same period this year, they will be divided into two sections while at Oceanside, each group having its own particular activities.

40 PERCENT OF TAX ROLL COLLECTED

Figures prepared by Sam Butler, deputy tax collector, for the state tax commission, show that shortly after the middle of the month approximately 40 per cent of the first half of the county's tax roll had been collected. This is about a 5 per cent better showing than last year when 35 per cent had been collected at about the same time. But Deputy Butler stated it must be remembered that this year's roll is considerably smaller than was last year's roll, so the showing is not so much different with everything taken into consideration. He stated that his computation showed that the collections up to the time his check was made amounted to about $100,000 less than half of the total roll, which made the collection as near 40 per cent of the total roll as could be easily figured.

Letters and affidavits demanding the removal of Walter Dry as superintendent of the state school for the blind were the product of disgruntled employees, the state board of control held in refusing to take any action on the charges.

The affidavits charged partially toward a number of students, and that Dry had allowed the boys and girls to go from place to place unchaperoned, and that his conduct was not becoming an officer or institution superintendent. The letters and affidavits were signed by Nellie G. Mitchell, W. F. Hombrook, Susan E. Yoder and Don Thomas.

CARSON TALKS ON PHILIPPINES

Independence to the Philippines means that whatever commercial activity they have will be ruined unless they have free access to the ports of the United States, Joseph K. Carson, Jr., mayor-elect of Portland, told the Rotary club Wednesday noon. Withdrawal of the American fleet or soldiers leaves the acquisition of the islands open to some Oriental power, he said. The Philippines want full protection of the United States with its own regulation of internal affairs. In support of his statements, Carson declared that the peso is the only coin in the Orient that has not depreciated in value because it was backed by the government of the United States.

Turning to world affairs and problems Carson declared that a practical application of the principles of the league of nations depends upon recognition of racial equality, this not to be construed as meaning inter-marriage of races, but more along economic lines.

To bring faith back to the world Carson urged that payment of debts should be accepted in whatever amount or commodities available and to discontinue loans to foreign nations, holding that this imperils the peace and security of the nation as has followed the loans of international bankers, at high rates of interest and through corrupt public officials.

Continuation Of— G. A. R. Convention

learn their identity. This evening at 7:45 will occur the annual campfire, at the armory. Russel C. Martin, national senior vice-commander-in-chief of the G. A. R. will deliver the main address while greetings will be extended by Allan G. Carson, commander of American Legion, Capitol post, LeRoy Hewitt, commander Spanish war veterans and M. B. Hayden, commander Veterans of Foreign Wars. J. G. Chambers, past department commander, G. A. R., will give the response.

The memorial ceremonies at the armory early Wednesday forenoon were very impressive. During the services representatives of the G. A. R. and various auxiliary organizations placed bouquets on a table in honor of those who had passed on during the last year.

No longer able to keep pace with the younger generation, the handful of veterans, whose numbers are dwindling rapidly, were transported over the parade route in automobiles. Their sons and daughters, however, were well represented and with flags and banners waving, they marched to the martial music of file and drum while the crowds on the sidewalks bared their heads in respect.

Disbanding at Wilson park, following the parade three presentation ceremonies and one dedicatory took place. A huge American flag was presented to Leslie Junior high school by the Women's Relief Corps. Mrs. Frances Curley, patriotic instructor, made the presentation address while Mrs. LaMoine Clark, principal of Leslie accepted the gift. The Ladies of the G. A. R. then presented the Yew Park school with a likeness of Abraham Lincoln. Bearnie Skeen, principal of Yew Park, accepted the picture. The presentation occurred when the Daughter of Union Veterans gave an American flag to Troop No. 5, Boy Scouts. Rex Smith, a representative of the troop, made the acceptance talk.

From the bandstand in Wilson park, the crowd moved to a spot in the northwest part of the park where during appropriate exercises a Colorado Blue spruce was dedicated to the civil war veterans by Daughter of Union Veterans. Planting of the tree was done by James W. Jones, commander of Oregon department, G. A. R. Mrs. Fred T. Warren, state president, Daughters of Union Veterans and Mrs. Paul D. Boides, president of the local organization.

Wednesday afternoon was given over to business sessions and the election of officers of the various groups.

At 6 p. m. the veterans will be guests at a banquet given by the Women's Relief Corps at the First W. E. church.

The encampment will be brought to a close Thursday when officers of all departments will be installed.

NO MORATORIUM ON AUTO TAGS THIS YEAR

No moratorium on purchase of new automobile licenses will be granted, officials declared here today.

Licenses for the six-months period must be obtained by July 1 for cars which are subsequently driven. The fee for the new plates is $5 for all passenger cars.

Approximately 30 days prior to July 1 has been given for applicants to obtain their plates. The low fee makes it impractical to allow any extension, officials stated.

Competition Rodeo Events Cut Out Of July 4 Celebration

With all competitive rodeo events eliminated to prevent unfair competition with the Molalla Buckaroo, to be held on the same dates, Salem's Fourth of July celebration sponsored by the state fair management, Ed Wright, rodeo promoter, and Capital post of the American Legion will be held as scheduled on July 2-3-4, it is announced following a conference between Max Gehlbach, director of the state fair, and Claude McKenney, chairman of the Legion celebration committee, and members of the board of directors of the Molalla show yesterday afternoon.

Led by Mayor J. W. Avison the Buckaroo committee came to Salem Monday to lay before Governor Meier and Gehlbach a protest against the state fair's participation in a celebration in competition with their established annual show.

Most of the local program will be in the nature of novelty vaudeville acts differing widely from the events Wright has contracted to put on at Molalla, said Gehlbach. All competitive bucking, bulldogging and similar competitive rodeo events which would attract riders and performers will be left exclusively to the Buckaroo.

The original program for the celebration here was drawn up after a conference with F. N. Zenriksen and E. R. Wallace of the Molalla show, who understood that Wright was contracting to provide the entertainment features here, Gehlbach said yesterday. Under its contract with Wright the fair gets a percentage of the gate receipts and agrees to handle the advertising and publicity for the event.

Salem Scout troop, No. 6, received the national colors from the Daughters of Union War Veterans of the Civil War following the parade this morning. Jack Smith responded. Directing traffic during the parade were Billy Tracy, Cameron Butte and Blaine Stewart. Harvey F. Finn directed the scouts. The colors will be presented to the Temple Baptist church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock at an impressive presentation ceremony.

Etta P. Hall has been named administratrix of the $3800 estate of Eimer N. Hall.

DISTRICTS PROVIDE TRANSPORTATION

School districts which wish to provide group transportation for pupils attending high school will not be effected by the recent election which resulted in a majority of the voters registering opposition to the bus transportation law, Mrs. Mary L. Pulkerson, county school superintendent announced today after taking the matter up with the state department of education. It was the general impression, Mrs. Pulkerson stated, that Monday's election would result in the complete abandonment of bus transportation. However, under an act passed in 1931, it was provided that where individual districts wished to transport students by groups, they could do so under regular procedure. In this case the county would pay the tuition while the taxpayers of the district would take care of the transportation cost.

A few districts voted Monday in favor of board candidates who were pledged to continue bus transportation and it is expected these sections will arrange to transport their high school students by groups.

SALEM MAN DIES IN ROSEBURG COURT

Roseburg, Ore., June 21 (AP)—T. C. Petersen, 1747 Broadway, Salem, died from heart failure at the U. S. land office in Roseburg shortly before noon today during the progress of a contest brought against a homestead entry made by Baxter Moore of Myrtle Creek, covering a 40 acre tract upon which Petersen claimed to hold a mineral filing.

Mr. Petersen had just left the witness chair, after being questioned at considerable length regarding his claim, and collapsed as examination of his cousin, C. L. Ayers, also of Salem, a party to the contest, was started. He died almost immediately.

He was 48 years of age and for several years had been engaged in the barber trade at Salem. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Marie Petersen of Salem, and a daughter who resides in Tulsa, Oklahoma. He was a member of the firm of Meyers & Petersen, 341 N. Commercial.

Petersen, according to information received at his shop, was 53 years old and had been a resident of Salem for the past ten years. He and Ayers, with another man, have a group of mining claims and it was in connection with an alleged "jumping" of these claims for homestead purposes that the men were called to Roseburg in defense of their property. The shop, known as Meyers & Petersen's, is located at 341 North Commercial street.

When it comes to beer the steins have it. Tri-State Beverage Co., Portland, Oregon's ninth brewery filed articles of incorporation here today. Members of the firm are H. M. Hornstein, I. Hornstein, D. Hornstein, M. Arnstein. The filing was made by Morris A. Goldstein, Portland attorney. The new brewery is incorporated for $10,000.

A dance hall license has been applied for by Norman Pfaffinger who wishes the license for a hall one mile west of Monitor. This is an entirely new license.

RENEW EFFORT TO ACQUIRE CITY WATER SYSTEM

Operating in the belief that the decision of the state supreme court yesterday affirming the validity of the municipal water bonds voted by the people of Salem 18 months ago will terminate the long drawn out litigation which has resulted, Mayor Douglas McKay, City Attorney Kowitz and members of the council utilities committee were seeking today to arrange a conference to consider steps to be taken to complete acquisition of a municipal water system.

They were, however, cognizant of the fact that the Oregon-Washington Water Service company will probably attempt to secure a rehearing of the bond case, appeal it to the United States supreme court or push a suit already pending in the federal district court to declare the charter amendment and bonds invalid.

City officials predicted that the federal courts would refuse to take jurisdiction after the decision of the state supreme court, but admitted that further delay is in prospect while this question is being threshed out in the courts.

The city is preparing to apply for a federal public works loan of $2,000,000, secured by bonds authorized by the charter amendment, with which to acquire the local system of the Oregon-Washington company and to construct a supply system to bring water in from the Little North Fork of the Santiam river.

Negotiations with the company for purchase of the system is indicated as the city's first step. The company has already refused an offer based on the $2,000,000 appraised value of the properties fixed by the city's engineers. Monday night the council by resolution requested the state public utilities commissioner to make an appraisal of the plant here which, it has been indicated, will be made the basis of condemnation proceedings if the city is unable to negotiate a purchase.
