RACE REVIVAL AT GRESHAM IS COLORFUL

Gresham, July 21—With every stall occupied and nearly 100 thoroughbred clamoring for admission to William P. Kyne's equine colony at Gresham, Oregon's turf revival session got under way this afternoon at the Multnomah county fair grounds.

Portland has become the magnet for everything connected with the turf on the Pacific coast and the stage all set on the new five-eighths mile oval, a gala opening is forecast.

The vastly improved racing plant was pronounced ready to accommodate the expected throng at an early hour this morning. The last rail had been driven home, the racing strip had been honed to proper pitch and the new club house and paddock were made integral parts of the enlarged layout.

Legionnaires and their friends, interested both in the races and in the Legion campaign to send Salem post's national champion drum corps to the Chicago world's festival at the end of the season, were present in large numbers and it became apparent that the capacity of the plant would be taxed to accommodate those who seek admittance this afternoon.

The first race will be started at 2 p. m. It is a futurity course gallop for the cheaper grade of horses stabled at the track. The Puett starting gate will send these sprinters on their way amid the usual shouts attending the opening of a horse race meeting.

The first four races are given over to the more ordinary thoroughbreds but the fifth race finds a field of eight Oregon bred hopefuls engaged in a six furlong test for a $400 purse and much interest attaches to its decision as owners of horses interested and many others anticipate considerable activity in the breeding industry in Oregon, now that Portland has attained a position as a larger turf center.
