Public Works Program

In a summary of progress made in creating jobs for the unemployed by the $3,300 million public works fund, Secretary Ickes, director of the national recovery campaign, states that over $1,000 million has been already allotted to specific projects since the passage of the act by congress on June 16 and actual construction work is now underway.

While all reasonable safeguards for the public's money are being evoked and every possible effort made to prevent profiteering and graft, delays have been avoided as far as possible and the utmost speed required. The full force of the public works effort will not be felt for some time, but it is working and will be cumulative in effect. Mr. Ickes says:

Our decentralized state organization for handling the program intelligently on a low-cost basis with slashed overhead has now been completed and is functioning. But while we were building, we could not hesitate, for ours was an emergency task for which there was dire need. Therefore, the public works administration drove on with immediate and continuous action, turning dollars into jobs. Available machinery was invoked. The first heavy blow to unemployment was taken at the earliest moment possible, when President Roosevelt allotted $400,000,000 for road building. The money was immediately assigned to the states. They have now qualified their roads projects with the government through the United States bureau of roads and the advertising of contracts and other requirements for protection of public money has gone forward with minimum delay.

Three hundred road projects giving employment to 27,000 men in 185 counties of 19 states have been approved by the government and more are to follow. Navy shipbuilding to put $238 millions at work in creating jobs and buying materials is also underway. With the completion of state organizations, many allotments to non-federal projects will be made—and many projects will also fail to win endorsement, for no fund would be large enough to finance all the schemes offered.

"The public works program is well launched and getting results," concludes Mr. Ickes.

The Cuban Revolt

The Cuban revolt to end the ruthless dictatorship of President Machado ran true to form of Latin American revolutions. Political factions in these republics are powerless without the military and the army and navy decide the fate of government. Deserted by the army, which had hitherto upheld him, Machado had no alternative but resignation and flight. All the many changes of government that have swept South America the past few years, were due to military discontent.

Fortunately for the United States the overthrow of Machado was brought about without intervention. The mediation proposal advanced by Ambassador Welles, that harmony be restored by the resignation of the president, proved sufficient to induce the army leaders to desert Machado, lest intervention follow. And like all other dictators, the Cuban executive refused to recognize the situation until the storm broke.

Cuba, like other Caribbean nations, is dependent upon Washington, for it is the United States that finances and develops their industries and furnishes their market. And we haven't done a very creditable job in exploiting them, for we have made them one crop countries in which economic distress flourishes and human misery thrives.

Machado was generally credited with being the tool of certain American financial interests engaged in exploiting the sugar industry. Whether he was or not, a new deal is now in prospect for President Roosevelt has plans for reorganizing the industry and placing a sugar export quota in effect, so that the over-production problem will be solved and a diversified agriculture be introduced.

Pear Prices

$20 a ton pear it can do so not only as to pears to be bought the balance of the season but to cover the pears already purchased and add a $5 a ton price on them. Cannery men who have purchased pears, from what can be learned will not do much kicking on this as long as the price is made compulsory on all sorts and classes of pear buyers. If the price on the product is forced up it is understood the government will also force up a proportionate price on future contracts in the can, although under these conditions it is not clear that the cannery men will not be forced to buy but if he does buy we will have to take his pears on the new price.

There were no new developments in the situation as far as learned here today other than that cannery men are willing to take the dose prescribed if the medicine is dishied out all around in like quantities.

At the meeting last week in Seattle with W. G. Allen, George R. C. and W. H. Paulus present from Salem when a $15 price was agreed to provided it was made compulsory all around the telegram framed covering the cannery men's agreement as follows to the adjustment administration at Washington: "At today's meeting attended by committee of Northwest Cannery Association and committee of Northwest Fruit Industries, Inc., after a thorough canvass of the crop and economic situation a substantial majority of cannery men present agreed to purchase their requirements at not less than $15 a ton for No. 1 Bartlett's and $10 for No. 2s, provided: AAA will protect them by bringing California and other northwest cannery men including cooperatives and so called profit sharing operators into line so that they will not buy for less than above prices. Cannery men in these groups would like to draw up temporary agreement among themselves as above stated pending permanent agreement with secretary of agriculture and would

Business Better

Increases in lumber prices have been recorded in the last three months which have gone far toward restoration of price levels that will avoid further capital loss. Rapid and unbalanced price advances should be discouraged, it said, and gradual advances to cover expected advancing costs made.

"The great public and industry need is consumption increase which awaits increased public buying power," the committee said.

"Every effort should be made to promote this purchasing power by co-operating with the action of the national recovery administration toward increased employment and wages without excessive or too rapid price advances.

"There is impressive evidence that the general business trends are upward."

The committee consists of Thomas S. Holden, vice president F. W. Dodge Company, New York; M. W. Stark, lumber and coal economist of Columbus, Ohio; Calvin Penitrest, chairman of the board of Baker, Fenestra 5 company, Chicago; Dr. Wilson Compton, secretary and manager, National Lumber Manufacturers Association, and Axel A. Ochsola, chief of the Lumber and Paper Division, department of Commerce.

like a reply from you as to how far they can proceed as outlined above under this emergency.

It is believed it is this telegram which brought the answer Saturday from Washington protesting the $15 price as too low.

In the meantime the pear season moves nearer apex. It was expected pears would start moving north from Grants Pass and Medford today toward Salem and a week from today from Roseburg. The first pears are expected to arrive here about Wednesday with the pear canning season probably starting in about 10 days. Large packs are expected to be put up in California and Oregon.

BEAVERS DROP SERIES WITH SEALS, 4 TO 3

By Associated Press

Despite two week-end trimmings by Seattle, Los Angeles continued to pace the Coast league today, a few points ahead of Portland and Sacramento, who likewise received for double linkings.

The last place Indians outslugged Los Angeles 11-10, Saturday and thumped them again 6-1 in yesterday's opener behind George Caster's and lusty triples by Toot Stank and Gene Lillard helped the league leaders to a 7-2 win in the 7-inning nightcap. Los Angeles took the series by a 5-3 margin.

Winning 2-1 Saturday and 15-1 in the first game yesterday, San Francisco added Portland to its victim list with a 4-3 series triumph.

The Seals beat Oakland three times ago and walloped Sacramento the week before last. Saturday Lee Stone stopped the Beavers with 5 hits. Jimmy Zinn granted ten blows in yesterday's opener, while his mates banged Jacobs, Fitzke and Wilson for 17, including a home run, triple and single by John Bottarini. Portland won the short second game 4-1.

Although defeated 3-2 Saturday 4-7-5 in the second half of yesterday's twin bill, Sacramento came out ahead in its series with Hollywood, 4-3. Tom Flynn hurled the Senators to a 4-1 victory in the morning game at Stockton.

Oakland divided yesterday's doubleheader with the Missions to walk off with the series, 5-2. Nifty 6-hit fling by Lloyd Johnson gave the Reds the Saturday game, 8-4. With Bill Ludolph and Glenn Gabler liming the Missions to 5 scattered games, the Oaks came back to yesterday's opener, 7-1. Four Oakland double plays were not enough to keep the Reds from capturing the nightcap, 8-7, helped by three Oak Errors to two unearned tallies.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS BY PAUL MALLON

Washington, Aug. 14.—If there is any fire in the eye of State Secretary Hull, it is well under control.

He has been the perfect gentleman in the Moley case, openly and privately. Not a word has he uttered, except confidentially to President Roosevelt.

The ship news reporters asked him about his relations with the No. 1 brain trustee when he arrived from Europe. He turned his head aside and looked at the ground awaiting the next question. No one has mentioned the subject to him since.

Prof. Morley is maintaining his war debts and Russian office in the state department as well as his kidnapping office in the department of justice. He is rarely in either of them. For days he has been out on the trail.

For all inner and outer appearances, Mr. Roosevelt has smoothed over the first threat of a break in his topmost circle.

Much has been laid at Moley's door with which he had nothing to do. One injustice was done him in this column.

It was related that he wired Hull from the ship coming back, asking for press comment on his departure and received the answer: "Press un-commented." Further investigation indicates such a wire was sent and Moley's name was signed to it, but he had nothing to do with it.

Apparently his name was used by a member of his party more interested in publicity than he was.

Poison Pen. A hundred other yarns with less foundation in fact have been whispered around the professor. Some were invented by adversaries in the inner circle (not Hull). Others were conjured by gossippers who like a good story whether it is true or not.

To keep the inside history straight, the following facts may be set down as gospel: Mr. Roosevelt was responsible for Moley flying up to the Amberjack, wiring him to come that way.

The President did not communicate with Moley about calling off his plane flight from Southampton to London. Moley cancelled the arrangements on his own initiative.

Moley sent personally only one wire from the returning ship Manhattan. That went to departmental adviser Bullitt. It is not involved in the current debate.

There is no question but what a good many people have been shooting at Moley on the inside. Even before the inauguration they inspired a story that Mr. Roosevelt was getting rid of him.

Moley saw the headline while coming down to Washington on the Presidential train. It read: "Moley to be ousted."

He dashed into the midst of newsmen on the train demanding to know where they got such stuff. They had nothing to do with it. The story had been written by someone outside the regular White House press corps.

In the recent publicity fracas he has kept as mum as Hull, his friends whisper he will have something to say later. He has obtained copies of messages from the radio log of the Manhattan to publish when he is ready.

Power. Sad news for the power companies has been in the making at the federal commission for several days.

It will include a much more specific promise of a general water power investigation that was publicly offered by the commission a few weeks back. Apparently the commission is literally going to count the drops of water involved in the National power situation.

The inquiry will lay the basis for future legislation to promote public power development. That is what Senator Costigan had

ELKS DEFEATED BY MT. ANGEL

The Mt. Angel club of the North Marion county division, Mid-Willamette Valley, stepped near the championship Sunday when it beat the Salem Elks, Yamhill county winners under a blazing sun on Olinger field 11 to 6. Wolf pitched excellent ball for the winners, holding the Elks to eight safeties. Zorn, pitching for the Elks, was nicked for 12 runs, however, was a trifle off and kept himself in trouble. He was relieved in the ninth by Heenan. Zorn struck out 3 and Wolf 4.

The Elks scored two in the first, one in the second, two in the fifth, four in the fourth, two in the sixth and three in the eighth.

The real reason Johnson feels differently about coal is that the government can make its best case on that issue. It is an interstate natural resource. The government has legal rights over natural resources that it does not have over private industries like steel and automobiles. Also, the larger mine operating side with the government. They want the chafing finances required to complete on a fair basis.

Beyond either of these considerations backstage is the question of public opinion. The NRA experts are confident of popular support in a conflict with the coal industry that they might not have in some other cases.

Notes. Ex-Treasury Secretary Mellon intended to live in Washington when he left office. A few weeks afterward he found himself charged with organizing the fight against the administration's gold waiver. He left town then and has not returned. A Republican who called on Mellon some weeks ago found that the man who never reads newspapers had a newspaper clipping on his desk. It was a story charging that Treasury Secretary Woodin was not getting along well. Mellon made no comment about it.

from the special service squadron on the Atlantic coast. Swanson said that if it were necessary the navy would be able to land 2,000 men "within a reasonable time" to carry out the president's American plan for the rescue of Americans on the disordered island.

Havana, Aug. 14 (AP)—As two United States ships of war steamed into Havana harbor today to inspect the Cuban coast, renewed outbreaks of looting and arson impelled the Cuban military authorities to order their soldiers to fire on all persons violating public order.

Carlos Manuel De Cespedes, the new president, completed a cabinet which virtually ignored the claims of all of the old political parties, and the principal followers of the deposed president, Gerardo Machado followed their leader's example by fleeing the island.

Two of General Machado's country estates were sacked in celebration of the victorious revolution which forced the general to abdicate and take refuge in the Bahamas.

The presence of two American warships in the harbor—the destroyers Taylor and Claxton—exercised, officials said, and hope was expressed that quiet and order attending the revolution was near its end.

The U. S. S. Sturtevant was at Manzanillo on a similar assignment of protecting American lives and property. These warships did not indicate intervention by the United States and their presence was approved by the new president.

In Havana hundreds of Cubans gathered at the docks to see the American men-of-war. Naval officers arranged a conference with President De Cespedes.

Disorders during the night resulted in the death of one person and in grave injury to another. Sixty combatives of the Cuban company, now bankrupt, were burned by company employes who had demanded that their $25 deposits, previously posted to insure the honest performance of their duty, be returned.

A military edict barred parades and manifestations of all kinds and prohibited the carrying of con-coated weapons. The sacking and burning of houses will be severely repressed, the edict said. It cautioned all citizens to remain in their homes after 8 p. m.

Police announced they were searching for 27 cars which, they said, belonged to the "Machado gangsters." Thirteen of these cars were armored and it was said their occupants were disguised as soldiers, sailors and members of the police force. Others carried banners of the ABC society, one of the organizations which led the successful fight to oust Machado.

Dr. De Cespedes himself will hold the important portfolio of secretary of state in the new cabinet.

ORDERS WARSHIPS Washington, Aug. 14 (AP)—President Roosevelt watched the Cuban situation intently today, still determined that the three destroyers he had sent to the island republic shall not intervene in domestic affairs but just protect the lives and persons of American citizens.

After considerable study, and with the approval of the new Cuban president, Carlos Manuel De Cespedes, Mr. Roosevelt last night dispatched two destroyers to Havana, on the north, and one to Manzanillo, on the south side of the island. He issued this statement:

"Latest advice as to the effect that domestic disturbances, including acts of violence, are occurring in parts of Cuba among certain elements of the population.

"In these circumstances, I feel constrained as a matter of special precaution and solely for the purpose of safeguarding and protecting the lives and persons of American citizens in Cuba, to order certain vessels to points on the Cuban coast.

NO INTERVENTION "The change of government now taking place in Cuba is in entire accord with the recognized constitution and laws of that country, and no possible question of intervention or of the slightest interference with the internal affairs of Cuba has arisen or is intended by his precautionary step to protect, if necessary, the lives of American citizens, pending the restoration of normal conditions of law and order by the Cuban authorities.

"I am giving strict instructions accordingly to the commanders of each vessel.

"The American people deeply sympathize with the people of Cuba in their economic distress, and are praying that quiet and order may soon prevail in every part of Cuba. The American government will lend all aid feasible, through constituted Cuban authorities, for the relief of the distressed people of the island."

before he passed sentence. The defense was given until September 30 to file a bill of exceptions, but Banks was taken immediately to Salem where he will be dressed in at the penitentiary this afternoon.

Both Banks and his wife, who was acquitted of a similar charge by the same jury which convicted Banks, smiled broadly and nodded to friends in the court room.

Banks was convicted of shooting Constable resort when the latter sought to serve a warrant on the publisher, charging complicity in the theft of 10,990 ballots from the Jackson county court house.

The case was moved here on a change of venue.

son Arman and Arman's wife Oleta, and Earl Brown, father of Oleta. Bailey's capture, Cummings added, was accomplished after a wide search by airplane, automobile and other means.

The place where he was taken has been identified as the hideout where the kidnapers confined Urchel until he was released on payment of the ransom.

Confessions from three others who took part in the kidnaping have not been obtained, but Cummings would not announce their names. He did say, however, that department agents had been asked to arrest on sight George Kelly, also known as R. G. Shannon, and George Bates, also known by seven other names.

He said Kelly was not the R. G. Shannon taken near Paradise, because there was no resemblance to a picture they had of Kelly. Kelly, it was said, has served in Leavenworth penitentiary and the state prison at Santa Fe, N. M., and has been absolutely identified as one of the kidnapers.

Bates, Cummings said, is believed to be one of the occupants of a 16-cylinder car with a big black trunk on the back, in which Kelly has been traveling over the middle west.

Bates is also wanted in Washington, Nebraska, Nevada, Utah and bank robbery.

The three persons who Cummings said were under arrest but whose names were not announced, also had large sums of the Urchel ransom money on their persons when captured, he said.

Cummings complimented local authorities for their cooperation in capturing Bailey and said the newpapers had cooperated 100 percent in agreeing not to publish news of the raid until the department gave the word.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 14 (AP)—Department of justice agents announced today the arrest of Harvey Bailey, fugitive Kansas convict who has been sought in connection with the slaying of four officers and Frank Nash, escaped federal convict, at the Kansas City Union station June 17.

Bailey, an associate of Nash, was seized on a farm at Decatur, about 50 miles northwest of Dallas, and brought here.

Officers said Bailey was asleep when department of justice agents entered his bedroom after capturing two men and two women in the farm house.

In his bed was a submachine gun, beneath his pillow a revolver. At the bedside stood an automatic rifle.

Awakened by the officers, Bailey slowly sat up, rubbed his eyes and said:

"Well, it looks like it was too bad, don't it?"

Bailey was the leader in the Memorial day break from the Kansas state prison at Lansing in which 11 convicts escaped. He was serving 10 to 59 years for the $22,000 robbery of the Citizens National bank at Fort Scott.

Wanted for wholesale murder, a $2-million dollar bank robbery, the kidnaping of a prison warden and other crimes, the middle-aged desperado has been known to law enforcers as a dangerous will-o-the-wisp.

The gunman has roamed the Midwest several years with only one previous arrest on his known record.

Others wanted in the Kansas City slaughter include some of the Midwest's most deadly killers, Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd, Oklahoma outlaw, Verne C. Miller, machine gunner, and Wilbur Underhill.

Bailey was sought in connection with the "world's largest bank robbery," the $2,000,000 looting of the Lincoln (Neb.) Bank and Trust company, September 17, 1930. While on trial for another bank robbery he was identified from the witness stand by an officer of the Lincoln bank as the leader of the raid.

He was co-leader with Wilbur Underhill, slayer of a Wichita policeman, in the escape from the Kansas penitentiary in which the then warden, Kirk Prather, and two prison guards were taken as hostages in a commandeered motor car to North Oklahoma and there released.
