Willamette Sororities Announce Pledge List For Winter Semester

Co-Eds To Be Pledged Sunday Morning;

FOR the past two weeks, with thoughts entirely focused upon impressive affairs for the rushee, life indeed has not become monotonous for the sorority girl on the Willamette campus. There have been clever affairs galore—luncheons, casual teas, informal dinners—which, for the new co-eds, help to make life one big dream of expectation and afford unforgettable incidents to paste in their memory books. Nervous anticipation was over Friday night when the pledge lists were announced by the sororities and from now on interest will be centered upon crisp, cold football days and Salem folk will see boys in leather jackets and girls in fur coats emerging from their homes, and athletic-minded alumni and parents gather at Willamette—all enthusiastic over college youth.

Formal pledging ceremonies will be held at the respective chapter houses early Sunday morning. After the pledge service smart breakfasts will be given in compliment to the pledges who will attend services at local churches in company with sorority members at 11 o'clock.

The following girls were pledged Friday evening: Alpha Phi Alpha, Rachel Yocum, Jean Gladek, Margaret Magin, Esther Anderson, Eva Cochran, Jean McWhorter, Margaret Howerton and Betty Gallogay.

Beta Chi, Jane Fisher, Dorothy Keeton, Margaret Doege, Helen Purvine, Edna Savage, Julia Johnson, Frances Ellis, all of Salem; Frances Clatke, Puget Sound; Lucille Brainerd of Idaho; Jay Road, Helen LaFollette, Betty Swift, Dorothy McGee, Marguerite Clark, Lillian Graham, all of Portland; Mabel Worrall, Dallas; Ruth Billings, Ashland; Pauline Winslow, Tillamook.

Delta Phi, Gwen Gallaher, Evelyn Hagg, Helen Worth, all of Salem; Helen Carlson, Eugene; Edna Danford, Ashland; Thelma Gillette, Independence.

Racing to and from classes this past week Miss Co-Ed has been glimpsed in many a good-looking campus ensemble. Hats have been found to be only a top-knot and she must have a dozen, one to match each frock and the twin sweater suit that stylists are displaying for Miss 1933 and '34 in the campus style parade. She also finds that the bet is come to stay for sleeves may change, skirts may be longer, the feminine trend more pronounced, but the bet is that youthful accessory, is everlasting. The only change in the outlook is that its back is raised and its front line is slanting over so much more, over one eye. And that one little trick, making Miss Ingenue more intriguing, is really its excuse for such wide popularity.

Coats for Willamette girls have great stitched sleeves with inverted puffs and dyed fur trimming. Dresses have peplum flares from sophisticated black satin—and sweaters for the campus favor the woody shades that tell us it is autumn. Popular colors are ecru, tan and pearly blue. Such alluring names that add just that enchanting interest to a costume.

And so the Willamette school year is off to a grand start. The freshman's heart is all a-flutter as regards to pledging and that sorority and friends and families are equally as interested. For until a telegram or phone call arrives at home telling the bid to the preferred fraternal group, those at home experience the same kind of an interest that only those who have gone before may understand.

Sororities Give Formal Dinners

Outstanding during the past week was the last rush affair to be given by the Willamette sorority groups on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings, when Beta Chi, Delta Phi and Alpha Phi Alpha entertained, respectively, at the chapter houses with beautifully appointed formal dinners.

Guests at the Delta Phi house were entertained at a candlelight dinner. Long tables, illuminated by the light of white tapers, in brass candelabra, were centered with large baskets of fruit. The atmosphere was one of simplicity and formal charm. During the evening Miss Betty Martin gave a reading, Miss Jeanette Scott a violin solo and Miss Elizabeth Clement a vocal number.

The Beta Chis carried out most effectively the ultra modern idea in black and white, with large bouquets of white flowers in black bowls decorating each end of the "T" of the long table. Black tapers in black and silver holders were placed down the middle of the table and were separated by a small black vase in which floated a large white aster. During the dinner hours, Mrs. Malcolm Bruce Spaulding sang "I Love Thee" and "Trees."

Large Audience Will Greet Michio Ito Here On Tuesday Evening

Japanese Dancer and Company Evince Interest
Of Salem Folk

GRAT interest is already evident in the coming of Michio Ito, world-famous dancer, to Salem on Tuesday, October 10 at the Grand theater under the sponsorship of the Salem MacDowell club. The dancer brings with him five American dance soloists—Lillian Powell, premiere danseuse, Waldeen, Betty Jordan, Marjorie Booth, Warren Crosby, and Anton Rolland, pianist. With such a galaxy of brilliant artists, a program of great variety may be confidently expected.

The opening number will be "Eccelesiates," danced by an ensemble, and displaying the marvelous Japanese technique of arms and hands. Ito's numbers will include his fascinating "Pair of Fans," "Impressions of a Chinese Actor," showing his mastery of the art of pantomime; the irresistibly droll "Gollwog Cake Walk" (Debussy); his far-famed "Tango" (Albeniz) and numerous other uniquely picturesque offerings.

He and Lillian Powell will do the captivating "Dance Carosse" of Scriabin and a Chopin Waltz which a New York critic describes as "blending perfectly into a wonderful expression of grace and beauty." His program closes with the "Placidi" suggested by the great Paviola.

Mrs. W. S. Levens, president of the Salem MacDowell club, received the following telegram from P. Shipman, manager of Ito, on Thursday morning: "Last night's sensational successful dance concert by Michio Ito company can rightfully be called Hollywood's greatest yearly contribution to the dance world.
