

WEEKLY REVIEW of BUSINESS and BUILDING

This is a bungalow type house suitable for a man with a small family who has modest capital with which to build.

It has exceedingly compact design, and can be built for as little as $2,000 to $3,000, depending on locally and owner's choice of materials. Also, it may serve as a summer camp at the lakes or in the woods.

The living room is reached directly from the entrance porch, and is spacious with a fireplace at the end. The kitchen serves as dining space at breakfast and lunch. The end of the living room, provided with a table, can take care of more formal meals. A hall off the living room to the rear left joins the two bedrooms and bath.

Exterior walls are of ship-lap siding exposed about eight inches to the weather. The end wall, where the chimney is, can be of brick, together with the chimney, which is topped by red chimney pots. Shingles, slate or flat tile may be used for the roof. Shutters are blue green and the woodwork, ship-lap siding, porch posts and pediment are all painted white.

This house can face in practically any direction, but west would be most satisfactory. In a suburban or rural area it would fit on almost any sized lot from 50 feet wide on up.

SALEM UPSETS ALBANY HIGH. SCORE 29 TO 0

Scoring four touchdowns and a safety Salem high's husky football team ran rough shod over the Albany Bulldogs on Sweetland field last night to win 29 to 0. It was just a case of too much Nicholson, for this first-footed youngster, taking advantage of the openings made by the forwards shot through the line and ran the ends in bewildering manner. Nicholson scored three of the four touchdowns, two of them coming on successive plays after runs of 40 and 55 yards respectively in the third period. Salstrom, who, too, exhibited a lot of speed, carried the ball for the other rally, outfooting the Albany secondary on a sweeping end run. The safety, accounting for two points came in the third period when the Albany kicker fumbled a bad pass and was tackled behind the goal.

Salem played a much improved brand of ball Friday night. However, the tendency of the players to hold was pronounced and resulted in penalties aggregating some 140 yards being assessed against them. Penalties in fact cost the red and black at least one additional touchdown.

Albany's much talked of air offense did not click consistently, due to a large degree to the watchfulness of the Salem backs. Late in the game, Ike Wintermute checked what appeared to be a successful offensive by the visitors when he intercepted a pass on his own goal line and ran it out of danger. Coach Ellingsen's men had little opportunity to threaten for during most of the contest they were fighting with their backs to their own goal line and were forced to play a strictly defensive type of ball.

Salem scored early in the first period after Albany had fumbled a punt. With the ball on Albany's 30, Wintermute and Nicholson pounded to the seven from which point the latter scored through tackle. The attempted kick for goal was low. After Albany had staved off an offensive a little later when a fourth down pass did not yield sufficient yardage, the visitors kicked and Salem took the ball on Albany's 35. Nicholson then dodged his way to the Albany three and Salstrom hot-footed it around left end to score standing up. Nicholson kicked goal.

With Albany once more backed up against its own goal, an attempt to kick out was muffed by reason of a bad pass from center and Salem added two more points when an Albany back was tackled behind the line.

After the intermission Albany started a passing game. One lob was successful but a second attempt was intercepted. Albany eventually took the ball on downs on its own 11 and kicked out to its 39. On the first play Nicholson sprinted around left end for a touchdown and then kicked goal. He repeated the performance a moment later only this time the run was for 55 yards.

Aided by two or three penalties for holding and piling on, Albany worked the ball into Salem territory during the final period and opened up through the air. With the ball on Salem's 6, Wintermute intercepted a pass and the threat ended.

Salem's starting lineup was Coons and Engel, ends, Yada and Grabenhorst guards; Moody and Drager, tackles; Halvorsen, center; Nicholson, quarter; Knight, fullback; Wintermute and Sherill halfbacks. Substitutes included Doerfer, Anderson, Hastings and Salstrom.

Filbert Crop Runs Heavier Than Estimates With Extra Quality

The filbert production for the Salem plant of the North Pacific Nut Growers' association is expected to run at least a tenth heavier than first estimated, from deliveries made to date. Manager Fred Ewing made an estimate of 100 tons for the season at the start of deliveries. Deliveries up to this morning had reached fully 90 tons and Ewing was confident that probably 20 tons more will come in before deliveries are over by the end of another week.

Quality is holding up as well as at the start, with grading running to a fine percentage of large sizes and a very low percentage of blanks so the crop is panning out in exceptionally fine shape.

The central selling agency at Dundee is also pushing its units on the back for deliveries as fast as possible and the nuts are going out of here as rapidly as they are being put into shape. The entire filbert crop of the association is reported to be sold and now the buyers want to get them into circulation for the holiday trade.

The filbert harvest is reported to be practically over. Some of them are yet in the driers and it is likely a week will elapse before the final filberts are put into the plant for grading, blowing and packing.

The walnut deliveries have not yet started, but Manager Ewing expects them to start early next week, or by the middle of the week anyway. Walnut harvest is getting pretty well along but the nuts are still being dried.

Estimate on the walnut tonnage is still up in the air due to the fact none have come in, but there is no question it will be very light, possibly only about 25 per cent of last year's tonnage, and the total tonnage this year may be less than the total filbert tonnage although last year the walnut tonnage was three or four times the filbert tonnage.

Walnut prices this year will be uniform up and down the coast with the selling agreement between the three coast states, and the same is true of the filbert tonnage for Oregon and Washington.

HARVEY COUCH MAY BE CALLED FOR DEPOSITION

Washington, Oct. 21 (AP)—A letter purporting to have been signed by Harvey C. Couch, a director of the reconstruction finance corporation, relating to transactions in securities of the Seaboard Airline railroad, may lead Couch to the witness chair in the senate stock market investigation of the Chase National bank, the United Press learned today.

The letter found by senate investigators was said to be written on stationery of the RFC. It was addressed to C. W. McCain, chairman of the board of the Chase bank, and referred to previously undisclosed discussions of transactions in Seaboard securities.

The United Press asked Couch by telephone whether he had written such a letter and whether he desired to appear before the committee to discuss the transactions to which it referred. He denied knowledge of the communication.

"I haven't written a letter and I haven't anything to say," Couch said. "I don't know anything about it."

Couch was one of scores whose names appeared on so-called bargain or selected stock lists of J. P. Morgan and Co.

The Seaboard securities to which the letter referred slumped with collapse of the market and now are in default. During the Dillon, Read and Co., investigation Couch was revealed as having borrowed $20,000 from the bank on Jan. 16, 1928 and as of Dec. 31, 1931, still owed $150,000.

Economy Grocery Moves

W. G. Walker, who established the Economy Grocery at 150 North Commercial street in March, 1933, has moved his business to 112 North Commercial street, and is now serving his many customers at that place. Mr. Walker is well known in the grocery business having been connected with another local store for several years and his many friends wish him success in his new location.

Garner's Barber and Beauty Shop

For the past 14 years the name of Garner's Barber Shop has been one of the best known establishments of its kind in the city and vicinity and today is enjoying a very attractive business both in the barber shop and the beauty shop, which was added to the shop's equipment on January 10, 1933, when the shop moved to its present location in the Ladd & Bush bank building.

Mr. Garner went into the barbering business in Salem in the Marlon hotel in September, fourteen years ago. He conducted this shop for several months, leaving the city in the spring of 1926. He returned to Salem later and after conducting a shop on High street and the one at the Bligh hotel, moved to his present location where he has spent every effort toward fostering the principles of the NRA since its inception. The barber shop keeps two barbers busy all the time and two operators are regularly employed in the beauty shop which is also under the personal supervision of Mr. Garner.

L. G. Prescott, Jeweler

For the past 40 years L. G. Prescott, has been in the jewelry business in various sections of the country, and since October 15, 1928 has been one of the cogs in the wheel of Salem business, since the establishment at that time of the store which bears his name at 423 Court street.

Prior to entering the jewelry business, Mr. Prescott was time inspector for the Northern Pacific railway, with headquarters at Forsyth, Montana. He came to this city from Montana and operates a jewelry store at the above address. He specializes in cutting and mounting the famous Montana agates and also does guaranteed watch and jewelry repairing.

One of his hobbies is the copying and manufacturing of copies of famous violins. He has made and sold a number of excellent replicas of the famous Stradivarius violins and is considered an expert at the work.

D. A. White & Sons

Few residents of Salem or the surrounding vicinity, who have not had the opportunity to thoroughly inspect it, have even the most remote idea of the equipment and the various processes employed at the plant of D. A. White and Sons, located at 251 State street, and keeping approximately 15 persons busy daily turning out the large quantities of feed handled by the retail section of the business.

The business was established by D. A. White, in Salem in 1891 and the firm has been in its present location since 1910. Just across the alley is the interesting portion of the business, however, where various kinds of machinery are busy daily, turning out all kinds of prepared feeds and where thousands of bushels of feed and grain are always in stock.

Actively associated in the business at the present time are F. M. and H. O. White, sons of the founder. The firm today is featuring its own brands of feed, manufactured in Salem and have brought to Salem the idea of the use of paper bags for feed—Oregon made paper bags—that have been found clean and sanitary and cheaper than the usual burlap bags.

H. J. Ostling Garage

Ten years ago last May, Herbert J. Ostling, who had spent ten years in thoroughly learning the auto repair business, came to Salem and established the garage bearing his name. Last February he moved his repair shop from 375 Chemeketa street, where he had been located for five years, to his present larger and more satisfactory quarters at 352 North High street.

Mr. Ostling employs three mechanics besides himself and furnishes the better class of service for all makes of cars. He is authorized distributor and service specialist for Franklin cars and handles service for Nash and International Truck owners. He also handles a complete line of the famous Richfield Oil company products.

New Bicycles Arrive

Lloyd E. Ramsden, the "Bicycle Man," whose display and repair shop is located at 143 South Liberty street, has received and is displaying the first shipment of new Emblem bicycles ever put on the market, and that they are the last word in bicycle manufacture goes without saying.

The Emblem Manufacturing company of Angola, N. Y., are the makers of the bicycle, which is completely equipped, together with red rubber balloon tires, manufactured by the Gillette Rubber company and which is comparable in price to other less attractive bicycles. Cycle enthusiasts are cordially invited to inspect the new bicycle.

sandwiches to the service the little shop renders the public and has associated himself with Frank P. Marshall, who is also well known about the city. The shop remains open until midnight every night, and expects shortly to put in a complete line of sandwiches and light lunches.
