LaGuardia planned a vacation to recuperate from the hard-hitting campaign in which he rolled up a 262,000 plurality. Graft must go, he said, and expenditures must be cut to the bone. He also aims to revise the city charter, abolishing the board of aldermen and making other fundamental changes.

Concerning the disorders at the polls Tuesday, LaGuardia said elections during the next four years "are going to be so nice and orderly that little children will be able to skip rope outside of any polling place in the city."

Washington, Nov. 9 (#)—Disclosure that the New York stock exchange is investigating a huge oil stock pool in 1929 through which insiders received $12,200,109.41 profit without putting up any cash was made today to the senate banking committee.

Arthur Cutten, noted trader who managed the pool, told of the operations of the huge account in Sinciair Consolidated Oil company stock, replying briefly in a low voice to questions by Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel.

He said he did not know why $300,000 was paid out of the pool's profits to William S. Fitzpatrick, an official of Prairie Oil, which then was a competitor of the Sinciair company.

Pecora asked.

The gray haired, taciturn trader, nodded his head in agreement.

Profits from the pool to Harry F. Sinciair, an official of the oil company who negotiated the transaction, were listed by Cutten as $2,632,962.

Rue Drager brought to the county clerk's office this morning the pelt of a huge female coyote, the largest one he ever shot, according to Drager, who has caused many a coyote to bite the dust.

But the size of the coyote is not the most unusual feature in the kill as the animal was shot and killed on the old Waldo farm near Macleay not over 10 miles from Salem.

The animal got away with 10 turkeys before he was brought down. The autrkeys had been missing and it was known some animal or varmit was getting them, but a coyote was not susplicioned because of the location of the ranch in the heart of the valley. A man on the place looking after sheep spotted the coyote and Drager was called with his rifle and hounds. After a chase the animal was brought to earth.
