WILLAMINA CLUB PLANS BIG TREE ASKS OWN ROOM

Willamina—The monthly meeting of the Civic club was held in the community rooms of the Methodist church basement. Mrs. K. E. Shetterly, who is president, called the meeting to order and after the business was attended to there was discussion as to the best location for a permanent clubroom. Nothing positive was agreed upon and the matter was tabled for further investigation.

The roll was called and each responded with a current event. Mrs. Webb and Mrs. Neely had charge of this meeting and the subject was "Interior Decorating." They had arranged for a speaker on that topic, so Miss Helen Park, representing Olda Wertman & King, spoke before the club. She emphasized the value of harmony in decorating and also advised the use of old furniture and told some amusing experiences she had in her work. She showed samples of different materials for draperies, upholstery, etc., and gave suggestions for their use. A rising vote of thanks was accorded her.

A letter was read from Miss Olive Cadneau in which she offered to teach a class in basketry. Several women evinced a desire to learn this and will meet at the home of Mrs. Rex Bissell Monday evening. Mrs. Neely read a paper on the "Origin and Meaning of Thanksgiving." The next meeting of the club will be held in the church, which will be a Christmas program and each woman is to bring a small present to place on the tree, and will answer the roll call with a Christmas quotation.

STAYTON MAN YET MISSING

Stayton—Al Hepburn, former resident of Stayton for a number of years, disappeared Saturday and no trace has been found of him.

He asked for a ride to Stayton Saturday in Turner and as Charles Gladek was coming here he offered to bring him. On the trip when asked as to where he wished to go the old fellow who is around 70 years of age and in ill health, named several old-time friends and Odd Fellows who had passed away several years ago.

Upon arriving in Stayton he mentioned George Davies' name and was taken to his barber shop. He wanted to take his gold watch, saying it was a shame to spilt it and that he wouldn't be here long. It is feared that in a daze he either fell or jumped into the river. A searching party combed the brush until late Saturday night and all day Sunday but no trace of him has been found.

WHAT are the PURCHASING AGENTS DOING?

Every big company has one or more men whose entire time is devoted to buying the things which that company needs.

These men are specialists. It is their business to know prices . . . materials . . . sources of supply . . . present and future trends. They are the shrewdest, canniest buyers in the world.

But all of us, in a small way, are purchasing agents. We have to buy a certain number of things, if only to keep alive. And most of us aren't very skillful at it. We waste a lot of money. We miss the good bargains. In fact, we could learn a great deal by watching a professional buyer at his work.

At this time, especially, it may be helpful to know what the big purchasing agents are going. Are they cutting down? Are they opening up to buy or a bad time? What do they think about the future?

Well, the answer is that they are all buying as fast as they can buy. And they are buying because they know that prices are going up.

"Pig iron has advanced 13%," the purchasing agent of a $20,000,000 corporation recently said.

"Brass is up 42%. I am paying 41% more for lumber than I did in March, and fiber packing cases have doubled in price. In fact, everything we use in this business is costing us more today, and will in my opinion cost us still more tomorrow. I believe . . . that many commodities will be back to or near 1929 levels by spring."

That's the way the professional purchasing agents feel about it. And they know. They have special sources of information. They are closely in touch with industry. They have studied the workings of the NRA codes.

Prices are going up. And it's a good thing for everyone. For things had come to the point where nothing had any true value. A man's time . . . his product . . . his property . . . all had sunk so low in value that he couldn't even get a decent living.

That couldn't go on. So the Government set up the machinery of the NRA codes in order to make everything worth something again.

This process is now under way. Wages are being raised. Commodities are bringing better prices every day. But it is not yet over. Before fair values . . . living values . . . can be reached, prices will have to go higher than they are now.

Before they do, take a leaf from the purchasing agent's book, and lay in a supply of the things you need. There are many good bargains still to be had. But these stocks are strictly limited. Now is the time to buy.
