January 6, 1934, a civil service examination will be held to determine eligible applicants for appointment to the United States naval academy at Annapolis. The first congressional district of Oregon will have no vacancy at that academy in 1934. The successful candidate will enter the academy next June. Congressman James W. Mott is anxious that all ambitious young men in the first district, which he represents, have an opportunity to try for this coveted appointment. Any young unmarried man not less than 16 years of age nor more than 23 years of age on April 1 may compete. In order to make the required arrangements it is necessary that the applicant notify Congressman James W. Mott, Salem, Oregon, not later than November 27 of his desire to participate in the examination.

The Drama class of Mrs. Elsa Ebsen will meet with Miss Alice C. Brown at the A. N. Bush residence in North Capitol street, Wednesday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock.

The depression has had no effect in keeping the birth rate down in Marion county, according to figures compiled by Dr. Vernon A. Cooper, county health officer. During the first 10 months of the year there have been 11 more births than during a similar period in 1932. Sixty eight births were reported in October or a total of 714 for the 10 month period. Thirty eight of the babies born in October were male. While the number of births this year are in excess of those last year, deaths have shown a slight decrease. During October 48 deaths were reported, bringing the total for the 10 months up to 548, a decrease of 7 from last year.

Crawfish, Eckerlen Beer Garden.

Rose and Harold Ames were released from the county jail Tuesday, following trial in justice court Monday on a charge of larceny of onions from a Japanese gardener at Lake Labish. They were sentenced to 30 days each in jail, but since each had been in jail about 27 days awaiting trial that time was deducted and they were paroled on good behavior on the remainder of the sentence.

Ernest S. Nolsler pleaded guilty in justice court Tuesday to a charge of driving his car without a rear light. He was fined $5 and costs, and, failing to pay, a commitment was issued. Ralph Boje was fined $7.50 and costs for passing another vehicle on approaching the crest of a hill, and commitment was issued when he failed to pay the fine. C. H. Harris paid a fine of $1 and costs for driving without a rear light.

Tamalis, spaghetti, Uncle Tom's cabin.

Buddy Haken took 24 hours in which to decide on a plea which he hailed into justice court on a charge of disorderly conduct. He is alleged to have broken in a door at the E. C. Jones place on Division street.

Acting at the request of the school board of Salem Heights school, the state police were yesterday and today checking speeders in that school zone. Three arrests have been made so far, Ralph Boje, William Norris and Samuel B. Davidson. The police said they would continue to bear down on violators in the district until the fine is a stopped. Salem Heights is located in a dip in the highway, and with clearance ahead offers a temptation to fast driving. Near the school is a cross road intersection and a store, and for that reason fast driving is a menace not only to school children but to others as well. Most of the violators are said to be residents of the neighborhood. The legal rate of speed in school zones is not to exceed 15 miles an hour.

SUSPENSION OF DRUM CORPS HAS POST APPROVAL

Suspension of future activities of the drum corps was approved by the membership of Capital Post No. 9 American Legion Monday night when the post unanimously adopted the resolution offered by the executive committee calling for the sale of uniforms and equipment. No opposition was voiced by members of the drum corps though several expressed regret with the passing of the organization as many have been with the unit from seven to nine years. Drum corps members may be given the opportunity to purchase the old blue uniforms and their personal equipment prior to sale by the executive committee.

Formal protest of the decision of National Chairman Hawks in regard to the awarding of places at the national convention was telegraphed to the national executive committee now in session in Indianapolis, Ind. No results are anticipated but the post membership refused to take the matter "lying down."

The annual Thanksgiving dinner will be given to the unemployed and needy of the city by the Associated Veterans. Last year approximately 800 were accorded a meal on that day and another on Christmas day. Report on Armistice day by Dr. Laban Steves showed a net profit of $208. Tom Hill, manager of the drum corps, was placed in charge of the drum corps which will handle the membership solicitation until December 4. Billy Brazeau brought his Hollywood Wranglers, a group of youthful musicians dressed in cowboy outfits.

Interclass debate got under way at Salem high school Tuesday afternoon, when sophomores met with the coaches. The juniors will meet Wednesday afternoon and the seniors Thursday.

HEAR MILL CASE DECEMBER 18

Portland, Nov. 21 (AP)—The demand of the Willamette Valley Lumber company of Dallas for a permanent injunction restraining the NRA lumber code authority from imposing production restrictions, will be heard in federal court here Monday, December 18.

This date was set Monday by Federal Judge McNary when attorneys for all parties appeared before him.

The Dallas mill brought suit against the West Coast Lumbermen's association, lumber code administrator for this district, and Carl Donagh, as United States attorney, in an attempt to prevent imposition by the administrator of one-shift operation at the mill. Attorneys for the Dallas company said the mill has been operating two shifts for the past five years, and if the 120-hour maximum of operation is enforced, more than 200 men will have to be discharged.

The mill now is operating under a temporary injunction which prevents the lumber code authority from interfering with the plant's working hours.

7 UNCONTESTED DIVORCE CASES

Judge Lewelling today granted two default divorce decrees and this afternoon was hearing five other uncontested default cases.

The two decrees granted were as follows: Thelma Brunelle against Gordon Brunelle, custody of child temporarily given to defendant; C. G. Hemenway vs. Gertrude Hemenway.

The default cases being heard this afternoon are as follows: James Wallace vs. Baudie Wallace, married at Vancouver, Wash., January, 1923, desertion charged. William P. Miller vs. Irma Miller, married at Vancouver, Wash., January, 1923, desertion charged.

Sarah Fay Buswell vs. Earl Hewitt, married in Junction City, in June, 1913, cruel and inhuman treatment charged. There are two children of this marriage. Phyllis Gast vs. Victor Theodore Gast, married at Aberdeen, S. D., in September, 1928, desertion charged.

Margie Teider vs. Joel Clinton Teider, married in Junction City, in March, 1912, cruel and inhuman treatment charged. There are three children of this marriage. An order has also been issued in connection with this case dismissing it as to Gervais State bank made a defendant due to financial matters between the couple.

Don Poulin was elected president and Dr. F. D. Voight, vice-president of the Y.M.C.A. handball players, when the group met Monday night for their annual dinner. Walter Winslow was named chairman of the committee which will take charge of the tournaments which will be played during the winter. Two tournaments will be arranged, one for the younger players and another for the older members. Although the attendance Monday night was not quite as large as usual, those who did attend enjoyed the exchange of persiflage which characterizes the affairs.

5 CITIES ASK LOANS SEWERAGE PLANTS

Portland, Nov. 21 (AP)—Five cities in the Willamette valley will apply for loans from the public works administration for construction of sewerage disposal plants. They are Astoria, Salem, Oregon City, Beaverton and Portland.

This was announced by Marshall N. Dana, regional P.W.A. adviser who reported to Bert E. Haney, chairman of the Oregon state advisory board. Other cities which may join are Silverton, Hillsboro and Gladstone.

The Salem unit of the United States naval communication reserve will be favored with a trip down the Columbia river Sunday on an eagleboat. The boat will leave Portland early in the forenoon and will anchor in the Columbia giving those aboard opportunity to learn at first hand, a great deal about radio communication. The local unit has received permission to use the civil service room in the local federal building for a meeting place. The organization needs three more recruits to fill its minimum quota. Those interested are asked to call 3417.

George B. Mitchell and Henry Leland Ross were to appear in justice court Tuesday afternoon on charges of violating the state motor transportation act.

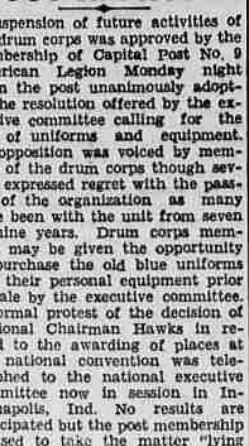

Workmen were busy today installing at street intersections in the business section lines of metal markers which will designate pedestrian lanes. They take the place of the yellow painted stripes that have been in vogue for some time. The change was authorized by the city council several weeks ago for the reason that it was considered more economical. While one painting was not so expensive, it was found necessary to renew the paint frequently, causing the expense to mount rapidly.

Motor vehicle accidents reported overnight were: Earl D. Jones, route 9, and an unidentified motorist, in front of Hollywood theater. C. B. Surry, Lyon, and a motorist named Baker, near West Station.

Jaak Raschke, 240 North Capitol street, is on the police blotter for disorderly conduct.

SEEK TO OUST HENRY HANZEN

Organized revolt of a legislative bloc against leadership of Governor Julius L. Meier appeared imminent today.

Introduction of an "economy" bill by Senator W. E. Burke of Yamhill county was the first indication that relations between the executive and legislative departments of Oregon's government might not be as harmonious as administration spokesmen claimed.

The bill would abolish the office of state budget director, held by Henry Hanzen, Meier's closest political adviser. It would reduce the salary of the state purchasing agent, William Elting, another Meier protégé, to $3,500 per year. Duties of the budget director would be transferred to the state board of control.

Elimination of the budget department would save $6,000, the director's salary, as well as pay of assistants and clerks. Elting received $7,000 a year before being hit by the 1933 salary reduction bill.

Asked whether he expected to meet Henry Ford at Warm Springs Johnson replied:

"No. At least not this I know of." The NRA head said he expected to be able to announce by tomorrow part at least of the new compliance setup, designed to overcome what has been described as widespread "cheating" under the blue eagle and also expected to clean up a great number of other pending matters before going south.

He said the newspaper code was settled except for one point which he declined to reveal, observing there had been "practical agreement" on everything else.

LONG PROBERS SHY OF FUNDS

New Orleans, Nov. 21 (AP)—Chairman Tom Connolly of the United States senate sub-committee investigating the Huey P. Long political regime in Louisiana, announced a resumption of hearings today that the committee's funds were so low it could not complete the scheduled work.

There was an original appropriation of $25,000, but not enough remains to finish the two weeks hearings mapped out, the Texas senator said. He added he hoped that congress would appropriate enough money to take care of the deficit.

Reflecting the situation, the committee was concerned today over failure of witnesses to respond to summons. It was indicated that deputy U. S. marshals might be sent to arrest them.

Today's first witness was Arthur Cambas, defeated candidate for the board of education on the ticket of Edwin S. Broussard, senatorial candidate who in turn was defeated by John H. Overton, Long-backed candidate for the senate. Anti-Long groups combined to charge Overton's election was fraudulent.

LUMBER OUTPUT UP 30 PERCENT

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—The National Lumber Manufacturers' association today predicted a 30 per cent increase in lumber production in the United States for 1933 over 1932. The estimate was based on figures for the first 44 weeks of the year.

The association's report to the industry said this year's production would approximate 13,000,000,000 feet of which about 2,000,000,000 feet will be hardwood.

In 1932 the hardwood production as reported by the United States census bureau was 1,405,596,000 feet while softwood production was 8,745,636,000 feet.

All regions this year, the report said, will show substantial gains over last year. Washington, Oregon and California, the regions in that order, as they were in 1932.

PROPOSE CREATION OF SEWAGE DISTRICT

Creation of the Willamette valley sewerage purification district with powers to supervise construction of sewerage disposal plants in 35 valley cities is authorized in a bill introduced in the house today by Rep. John Lewis, Multnomah.

A commission of six appointed by the board of control would supervise sewerage disposal projects. The commission would have power to issue warrants for preliminary projects and would fix the ratio of assessment for maintenance of sewerage disposal plants each year. An expenditure of not to exceed 50 cents per capita to finance preparation of preliminary plans is permitted under the act.

AUTO BUILDERS PLAN TO INVADE AIRCRAFT FIELD

(Copyright, 1933, by United Press) Detroit, Nov. 21 (AP)—The nation's largest industry—that of building automobiles—is read to adopt the robust, growing infant of the industrial world—aviation.

All along the automotive front of giant factories a general movement to take over the business of producing airplanes is spreading with all of the major manufacturers participating. The movement has been marked by a number of recent developments:

1.—The Chrysler corporation, through its subsidiary, the De Soto corporation, has employed Major Alexander P. Seversky, New York aircraft designer and holder of the world's record for amphibian planes, as a consulting engineer. Seversky, it is known, has perfected plans for the production of small, all-metal planes to sell under $1,500.

2.—The General Motors corporation, controlling a major portion of the automobile industry, has acquired the North American Aviation corporation and through it is acquiring a large number of aeronautical holdings.

3.—William B. Stout of Dearborn, former Ford Motor company designer and engineer now head of his own aviation company, is working on plans for a "flying filiver." The Ford Motor company is reported to be watching his work with interest.

4.—Hudson-Excess employed several eastern aircraft engineers in the development of its "Terraplane" car. Hudson executives are strengthening their connections with an auto-giro manufacturing company.

5.—The Cord corporation, makers of Auburn and Cord automobiles, has acquired control of at least one large commercial air line and a number of airplane factories. At the present time, Cord through the subsidiary Stinson Aircraft corporation here, is concentrating on the production of "air freighters," airplanes built to carry heavy freight loads at little cost.

PRESS CODE TO BE SENT F. D.

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—Hugh S. Johnson at a press conference today said he expected to take the newspaper, motion picture and several other codes to President Roosevelt when he goes to Atlanta and Warm Springs Thursday.

Asked whether he expected to meet Henry Ford at Warm Springs Johnson replied:

"No. At least not this I know of." The NRA head said he expected to be able to announce by tomorrow part at least of the new compliance setup, designed to overcome what has been described as widespread "cheating" under the blue eagle and also expected to clean up a great number of other pending matters before going south.

He said the newspaper code was settled except for one point which he declined to reveal, observing there had been "practical agreement" on everything else.

ASKS $31 MILLIONS FOR POWER LINES

Bonneville power became a legislative issue today when Representative John Lewis of Multnomah county introduced a bill proposing a $31,000,000 bond issue to finance state-owned lines to the dam.

The measure proposes creation of a state power commission, appointed by the governor, to supervise distribution of Bonneville electricity. The commission would have authority to fix rates based on cost of service.

Bonds should be used as security for a federal loan of $31,000,000, to be obtained on basis of 30 per cent grant and 70 per cent loan.

"The proposal would kill the referendum power bill. If the state failed to obtain the federal loan, the commission could issue $50,000 bonds to cover preliminary costs and prepare a statewide development plan for submission to the voters."

LEE TRACY HELD ON MORALS CHARGE

Mexico City, Nov. 21 (AP)—Lee Tracy, American moving picture star, faced arraignment today on charges of violation of public morals and insulting the government, the result of a personal appearance, informal and undraped, on a hotel balcony.

Specifically it was alleged that Tracy, clad only in a blanket, appeared on the balcony Sunday during the mammoth parade in celebration of the anniversary of the revolution against the dictator Porfirio Diaz.

Tracy, police charged, shouted "insults" while the crack corps of cadets from the Chapultepec Military academy, the Mexican West Point, were passing.

To make things worse, they said, the blanket slipped off.

Brought against 11 city boys were members of the "Pee Wees" committee and members of the city council at the special meeting held during last week. The 1934 budget specifies a 16 per cent reduction over that of 1933.

Mehama—John Allen, who was injured some time ago while working at the Parry Lumber company, is unable to be out and around again. He was confined to his bed for some time.

Silverton—The members of St. Paul's sewing society will be guests Thursday of Mrs. George Uphoff at her home on the Salem road.

Lyons—Mr. and Mrs. Earle Phillips of Seio and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Donevan of Mill City were Sunday guests at the R. A. Brown home.

Proposal Referred To Run Incinerator

Robert M. Allen of Portland last night submitted to the city council a proposal to take over and operate the city incinerator under a contract good for five years.

Allen's proposal offered to pay the city $250 a year. The contract would not bar any person from hauling his own garbage to the incinerator.

The proposal was referred to the incinerator committee for report at a later meeting.

CLEANING OUT OF OLD DUMP AS RELIEF JOB

Cleaning out the old city dump adjacent to and now part of the state fairgrounds property and opening a proper road into the grounds from the south on 18th or 19th streets, is a project advanced before the county relief committee for civic works financing. This is one of a number of improvements sought by Max Gehlhar, director of agriculture and head of the fair.

The city dump was flooded to the state fair several years ago with a plan in view of cleaning it up and making it a vast parking place, with an entrance through on 17th street and proper landscaping for the grounds. It has remained one of the worst eyesores of the city.

"It is within the corporate limits of the city of Salem and is without doubt the most unsightly piece of property within the city limits and located where it may be viewed by over 100,000 visitors to the state fair," writes Gehlhar to the relief committee in his plea for the improvements at the fair.

In addition he asks for other improvements as follows: Opening and cleaning approximately 1 1/2 miles of drainage ditches; spading and putting into shape over two acres of additional park; grubbing out part of oak trees in park; repairing and leveling dirt floors in barns; improving and repairing sewage and drainage system in fair grounds; repairing exposed wiring in agricultural building; new wiring in automobile building; shingling several buildings; painting exterior of some buildings, and interior rearrangement of exhibit buildings.

The state fair, he states, will furnish all building materials required and every dollar of civic works money will be expended for labor on any or all of these jobs.

MOSES TO DISCUSS COUNTY FINANCES

Judge Moses, head of the legislative committee of the state county judges and commissioners association, was expected in Salem this afternoon to confer with County Commissioner Smith, also a member of the committee, on proposed legislation in which the counties are interested.

In particular Judge Moses has caused to be prepared a complete chart showing the financial situation of the counties and the state as to the old age pension law and its financing.

It is expected the legislature will be asked to perfect some method of financing the old age pension law if it is to remain on the statute books. The principal reason the counties have refused to budget the item for old age pension, it is pointed out, is because the legislature failed to provide any machinery or method for paying the pensions.

M'KAY HELPS OLSON WITH FIRE BILL

Mayor Douglas McKay came to the assistance of Alderman O. A. Olson last night and made it possible for Olson's fire prevention bureau to come before the city council for approval or rejection at a later date.

Olson last night made effective for the arrest of all violators, regardless of their social station. The police department reported last night that 628 cars had been tagged for overtime parking, nine for parking in alleys, 96 for parking in restricted zones, and 34 for other violations.

The police judge reported that only $42.50 had been collected in fines.

SNELL ADDS FOUR TO STEERING BOARD

Earl Snell, speaker of the house of representatives, today named four new members to the special session business committee, known as the steering committee.

The new members are B. F. Nichols of Douglas county, E. C. Judd of Clatsop county, V. B. Staples of Multnomah county and T. J. Weyer of Hood River county.

The members appointed to the committee yesterday were Earl Hill of Lane county, chairman, Romeo Gouley of Marion county and Lowell Paget, Frank Lonergan, Harvey Wells, Herbert Gordon and Estes Snedecor, all of Multnomah county.

KIWANIS HEARS GOSS DISCUSS LIQUOR PROBLEM

The first thing the Oregon and other legislatures should do in consideration of liquor control is the eradication of the bootlegger and racketeer during the next few years in order to clear the deck for more constructive legislation along this line, Senator John Goss, of Cook county, told the Kiwanis club Tuesday noon. Law itself cannot suppress bootlegging as long as this provides inordinate profits, he said.

Drinking habits cannot be changed by law as suggested by the Knox report which seeks to make this a country of wine and beer drinking. These habits, he said, are national and developed from youth. The greatest cause of prohibition was held to be the breeding of disrespect for all law and order in general.
