We took our bearings, saw we were in marsh ground, surrounded by woods and that it would be best just to put up for the night. So we got out of the gondola, wrapped up in the balloon and slept for the night.

"Leaving 'Tex' to stand watch over the balloon, I struck out for civilization."

As he talked the Major was helping himself to a breakfast of fried ham, potatoes and black coffee. Meanwhile, by telephone, he was relaying cross country the details of the balloonists' experiences as they soared 11 miles above the earth yesterday.

As he chatted gaily Major Fordney glanced occasionally at his muddy shoes, and the marks of water which at times had almost reached his waist.

According to the altimeter within the gondola, Major Fordney said, the highest altitude reached was 59,000 feet. The actual height attained must be officially checked.

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—With the stratosphere height record set by three Soviet balloonists still unbroken, Maxim Litvinoff today telegraphed to Lieut. Com. T. G. W. Settle a hope that "our countries continue to contest the height in every sphere of science and technique."

The Soviet commissar of foreign affairs, who has just gained recognition for his country here, sent the following wire to Settle at Bridgeton, N. J.:

"Hearty congratulations on your great achievement. I am sure your colleagues in the Soviet Union have watched with greatest interest your flight. May both our countries continue to contest the height in every sphere of science and technique."

On September 30 three Soviet balloonists, George Prokofiev, Konstantin Godunov and Ernst Birdnbaum, surpassed a height of 60,000 feet.

tion with the League of Nations.

The laborite's voice rang out from the crowd of black-coated commoners assembled at the bar of the house of lords.

The gorgeous assembly seemed stupified. Peers in their brilliant robes and peeresses in exquisite gowns and tiaras, their hands, arms and necks sparkling with diamonds; foreign ambassadors and diplomats in formal uniforms and court officials and functionaries with breasts blazing with decorations, all turned eyes toward the glowering laborites.

Several members of the house moved toward McGovern, but nobody interfered with him.

Following custom, the royal procession left the house of lords and then the commoners trooped back through the long corridor to their chamber.

After his outburst about cuts of unemployment pay, McGovern followed with a growling protest about the magnificent scene of riches and splendor around him.

REBEKAHS TO MEE

Silverton—The annual Rebekah homecoming will be held at their hall Thursday of this week. A program and supper has been planned.

STORM CLOUDS HOVERING OVER EXTRA SESSION

After setting sail under clear skies on the opening day of the special session, the course of the Oregon legislature appeared heavier the second day and stormy clouds loomed on the horizon. Three chief items were the cause of worry to leaders of both houses.

The seat of Donald J. Ryan of Clackamas county was expected to be contested, and should this arise, personal feelings may split the house. Ryan appeared yesterday and took his seat under a legal opinion by the attorney general that he was not ineligible because of a jury verdict convicting him on charges of misuse of county funds. The attorney general held the conviction was no disqualification until sentence was pronounced by the judge in the case. Sentence was suspended pending an appeal.

The protest was understood to come from southern Oregon and if it should be proposed it would take two-thirds vote of the house to unseat Ryan. The house would go into executive session if such an action should be started.

FILLING VACANCIES

The filling of vacancies in the seats in the house and senate will also be up for consideration today. In the house two seats are vacant from Jackson county while in the senate there is a vacancy from Washington county.

At the present time there is a bill in the senate to have these vacancies filled by appointment of the governor for this particular session, while in the house a bill authorizing the county courts to appoint has been introduced.

Earl Day, member who resigned from the house because of his appointment as county judge of Jackson county, arrived here today to protest the appointment to fill vacancies by the county court. He stated he did not wish to fill his own seat in the house from Jackson county nor that of Ed Kelly, also resigned. He is here urging adoption of the senate proposal.

The third issue on which there have been protests is the new special session business committee. Members today found the bills introduced yesterday in the house had not been printed and it was understood the new committee would not print them until approved by this group. It was expected this procedure would be changed today.

STEERING COMMITTEE

Another criticism directed at the committee was the fact that of the seven members five were named from Multnomah county. In answer to this Speaker Earl Snell, himself from eastern Oregon, said he did not select the committee geographically, but picked men of a type necessary for the control committee. He said he could not let sectional issues enter into this special session. However, he said the committee will be enlarged to 11 members.

The members of the committee, with Earl Hill of Lane county chairman, are Romeo Gouley, Marion county, and Lowell Paget, Frank Lonergan, Harvey Wells, Herbert Gordon and Estes Snedecor of Multnomah county.

Repeal of the gin marriage law, put into effect this year, will be sought at this session, it was announced last night. The law provides for a three-day lapse between notification of intention to wed and the issuance of the license. Taxation of slot machines, thus legalizing them, and a general relief bill for the dispersing of the liquor revenue were also to be introduced.

Representative F. H. Dammasch of Multnomah county, said he would introduce a bill today calling for an elective office of comptroller to handle all business of the state and the institutions. The new official would take over many duties of the board of control at the present, he said.

BROADWAY IN TRIBUTE TO 'TEXAS'

Broadway paid its last tribute to "Texas" Guinan, night club hostess and actress, at her funeral services in New York. Her casket, banked with flowers, is shown being carried from a Broadway mortuary. Thousands followed the body to the grave. (Associated Press Photo)

Victor Point—Miss Letha Bell Gilmour and George H. Lovett were married Thursday morning, November 16 in Portland at a quiet ceremony at the home of the officiating minister, Rev. J. A. Bennet, former pastor of the Silverton Christian church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merton M. Gilmour of this place and is a graduate of Stayton high school and attended Linfield college at McMinnville. The groom, who is the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis H. Lovett of Silverton, is a Silverton high school graduate and is connected with the Silverton postoffice.

November 16 was chosen as the date of the wedding as it was also the twenty ninth wedding anniversary of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilmour.

After a short wedding trip to Seattle and other northern cities they will return to Silverton where they will live at 311 Silver street where they have during the past two weeks fitted up their home.

ATTITUDE ON PUBLIC DOCK IS LUKEWARM

The city council was only lukewarm last night towards a resolution introduced by Alderman S. A. Hughes providing that another application be filed with the public works administration for a loan with which to build a public dock on the Salem river front. After some argument the council adopted the resolution, but only with a motion that it be referred to committee for study during the next two weeks.

In the discussion City Attorney Chris J. Kowitz explained that the project would require a special city election for approval or rejection of revenue bonds to secure the loan. It was not necessary, however, he said, for the election to be held prior to filing the application. This information had come from official sources. Alderman Townsend recalled that recently it had been proposed to create a port district, so a loan could be secured without the necessity of an election.

"Why the change of front?" inquired Townsend.

Hughes explained that the change of front was due to the fact that creation of a port district would require a port commission, which would be another tax-levying body, and he and many others didn't want any more tax-levying bodies.

Alderman Henry Vandevort stoutly opposed the proposal, calling it "just another airport."

"If the navigation company using the river front can't pay rent now, how in the name of common sense is ever going to pay rent?" he demanded to know.

His question didn't bring any definite answer. Alderman O'Hara objected that the resolution was irregular in two respects. One was that it would submit to the people a proposal that had once been voted down by the people. The other was that it proposed adoption of a resolution without previously referring it to any committee. As an amendment to Hughes' motion that the resolution be adopted O'Hara moved that it be referred to committee. The amendment was adopted and the motion passed.

putting a trail through connecting up the Santiam highway with the Mackenzie highway. These two tractors left Fish lake Wednesday morning of last week and arrived at Breintenbush hot springs last Saturday, coming up over the new North Santiam highway and forest road links.

The new road out of Breitenbush will be known as the Olialla-Skyline road and it is stated the work is far enough advanced now that a car can be driven in four miles beyond the hot springs. Five tons of powder have been hauled in for the work.

was not in place when Leo Hartoin, manager of the apartment unlocked the door and found Akin's body. The body was several steps from the door and because Dr. Warren C. Hunter, pathologist who examined the body said death had been instantaneous, police drew the conclusion that Akin could not have staggered from the doorway to the spot where his body was found.

This led them to the tentative conclusion that Akin knew whoever went to his apartment yesterday morning, had no reason to fear the person and admitted him or her to the apartment.

A conference of all officials working on the case had been called for this morning by Deputy District Attorney George Mowry.

ARE STARS PERFECT BEAUTIES? ARTIST SAYS, "NO"

Despite all the superlatives used in connection with the stars of filmdom, Penrhyn Stanlaws, portrait painter, is convinced that there is not a single perfect beauty among Hollywood's' stars. Of Greta Garbo (left), he said, "She has a sleepy look, attained by deep eye sockets and a peculiar slant of the upper lid which doesn't aid beauty." The figure of Lupe Velez (center) is the "true maidenly" one, he said, and her face is mobile so she "can look sophisticated or innocent at will." His critical eye fastened on Katharine Hepburn (right) and he found that the lower part of her face projects too far. (Associated Press Photos)
