ROTARY TOLD ABOUT FORESTS

Too much reliance is being given to nature and forest lands are being denuded four times faster than they can be replaced, Dean Peavy, head of the forestry department at the state college, told the Rotary club Wednesday noon. He held there is a marked tendency towards a national policy with the states also taking an important part. Such a policy is necessary to shift the tax burden which increased as lands are allowed to go delinquent. While the speaker favored private ownership, with cut over lands re-planted to provide crop rotation, he held this to be doubtful though in many instances it is to the advantage of the private concern to do so.

Major uses of forests, as outlined by the speaker, are to grow timber for commercial purposes, provide water shed protection and recreational facilities, a need that will be greater in the future than at present, he said.

Originally the total forest land of the United States was 850,000,000 acres. Much of this was reduced by the natural development of civilization and its needs, but it has been reduced to approximately 100,000,000 acres today, Dean Peavy said. There are, however, about 200,000,000 acres of second growth timber but there remains in the country approximately 600,000,000 acres of land suitable only for the production of timber and its allied grazing purposes.

Washington, Dec. 13.—Optimism—The confidential reports of Mr. Roosevelt are getting on the business outlook are highly optimistic.

The experts who work in his own private economic laboratory have advised him that things generally look rosy for at least three months to come.

That is NOT propaganda, but apparently sincere opinion. Such opinions have not been worth much since so many of them went wrong in 1929, but these are as good as you can get.

Factors—Their conclusion is somewhat amazing. Most of the business indices have been slipping a little during the last few weeks, or at best, holding their own with difficulty. Steel automobiles, car loadings and even commercial electrical consumption have been frozen by the first winds of winter.

The optimism is based on obvious expectations. Banks are generally in good shape for year-end statements. The money policy howl has died down to a gurgle. The belief is general that the gold price will not go much higher.

The government is passing out money on a scale which will reach its height some time during January and February. Its financing worries are largely over until April 1.

Christmas sales reports are generally good. The money policy has helped cotton immeasurably through the south. The wheat and corn-hog checks are doing the same thing for the west. The Hopkins relief checks are thawing the purchasing power of the city poor. Legislative repeal has started a large legitimate new business.

The Wall Streeters decline to credit any bad news and are sending the market up. The belief is general that higher market levels will be reached within three months. On top of all that you have the normal business trend expectations. Business always starts to awaken as a normal prelude to spring.

Congress—Usually the experts become frightened at the convening of congress. Not so this time.

Mr. Roosevelt has congress fairly well under control. There will be no appreciable split in democratic ranks on the money issue. Senator Glass may cause a little but the democratic majorities of both houses will be largely with the president.

In addition he will have the progressive republicans. That leaves about 20 per cent of congress, the group of republican conservatives, as the only opposition. That kind of opposition may help Roosevelt's game more than it will hurt.

His prospects therefore favor a tame Roosevelt session rather than a lively opposition one.

Money—The one trouble spot to which the experts are looking forward is the financing the government will have to do in the spring. They are going to make financing more difficult. Action must be taken regarding a billion in liberty bonds coming due April 1.

Also there is the troublesome question of capital financing. Opinions about it differ. The majority says Mr. Roosevelt will have to have the capital finance market or his recovery will hit a spring setback. They are demanding amendment of the securities act.

There are some, too, who believe the wild men in congress will remain placid only for the first few weeks. If they do, you can mark it down in your notebook that Mr. Roosevelt will veto greenbacks, and they cannot pass such an idea over his veto.

Anyway the problem of crossing these bridges will be more important when we come to them.

Leak—The treasury investigators believe they have found out what caused the gold leak.

The figure is telephoned to the Federal Reserve bank of New York as soon as it is fixed. The Federal Reserve bank has open cable connections with the Bank of England. The news gets to London almost instantaneously.

In announcing it here, officials

HUGE BOOTLEG WHISKEY TRUST USES AIRPLANES

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—Operations of a huge bootleg whiskey trust which owns distilleries in all parts of the United States and uses airplanes to transport its illegal product, were described today to the joint house and senate committee on liquor tax legislation by J. W. Murray, Holyoke, Mass.

Murray told the committee he could not describe "inside operations" of the "trust" because he "feared bodily harm" might result from such disclosure.

Earlier at the hearing, which is hearing testimony to determine liquor taxes for presentation to congress, Paul Garrett, New York wine maker, advocated the elimination of all taxes from wine used in the home.

"Wine should be as free as cider," Garrett said.

Garrett followed Frank Vandell, Henderson of Yale university who proposed a tax of $4 a gallon on whiskey with a low levy on diluted spirits throughout the country. The use of airplanes to transport liquor by workmen for the "trust" was common, Murray said.

He estimated a liquor tax of $1.10 per gallon or less would be sufficient to enable the government to realize substantial revenue and at the same time "put this illegitimate brother of ours—the bootlegger—out of business."

Murray told the committee he had been informed that some members of the "whiskey trust" were trying from business and purchasing airplanes from the company which they intended to use to bring alcohol into this country illegally.

Rep. Knutson, (R., Minn.), suggested a bounty of $2,500 a head on bootleggers to "drive the wolves out."

Murray said he would be glad to reveal more about the "whiskey trust" in an executive session of the committee, and withdrew requesting it.

"If anything happens to me as a result of my testimony, please notify my family."

FRUIT GROWERS OF STATE IN SESSION

Medford, Ore., Dec. 13 (AP)—The 48th annual meeting of the Oregon State Horticultural society opened here today for a two day session.

Dr. William B. Schoenfeld, dean of the Oregon state experiment station was the principal speaker at the morning session. Dr. Schoenfeld said that "controlled inflation" should be increased the buying power of the British pound, and should increase the export to Europe.

Dr. Schoenfeld said he believed the dangers of over-inflation by congress would be controlled by the present, and the administration would continue its present monetary policy, "with a firm hand on the steering wheel, and a heavy foot on the brake." He cited the German mark, as a sample of over-inflation.

ENGINEER DIES IN TRAIN WRECK

Hot Springs, N. C., Dec. 13 (AP)—Engineer H. A. Hobbs, Knoxville, Tenn., was killed last night when his engine and three cars of the Southern Railway's crack passenger train, No. 27, left the rails and tumbled down an embankment into French Broad river.

Fireman Fred Harrison, also of Knoxville, was critically injured. He sustained a broken shoulder, two broken arms, and a sprained neck. Seventeen other passengers, including 13 passengers, were less seriously injured.

The train, known as the Carolina Special, was enroute from Charleston, S. C., to Cincinnati.

BRITAIN SENDING TOKEN PAYMENT

London, Dec. 13 (AP)—A check for $7,500,000 is expected to be handed over to the United States in Washington Friday by Great Britain as a token payment on its war debts.

It was authoritatively stated here today. The check will be written on the British dollar account in the United States. It was said.

Great Britain owes the United States on December 15 approximately $11,770,000 in principal and interest on the semi-annual installment.

AUSTRIA DEFAULTS UPON WAR DEBTS

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—The Austrian government has notified the United States that no remittance can be made to cover the sixth installment amounting to $460,093 due January 1, on its debt to the United States.

Formal notices also were received from Belgium and Estonia that they would not meet their payments of $2,859,453 and $435,407 respectively. Both these countries defaulted on their two previous payments.

What he believes the only clock of its kind west of the Rocky mountains is in the possession of Ralph Cochran, 735 South street. The clock came into his possession through his grandfather, who acquired it when he first started housekeeping. With the exception of one wheel, all wheels are wooden and in spite of this it keeps excellent time after at least 100 years of service. The clock stands 25 inches high and is operated by weights. It is necessary to wind it every day, a small crank rather than a key being used for this purpose. Roman numerals are used on the face. Cochran extends a welcome to any interested person to inspect his property.

Contest Of Will Of Eccentric Recluse Opens In Los Angeles Court

Los Angeles, Dec. 13 (AP)—Attorneys for the contestants against the will of Miss Margaret Keith, before a jury in the superior court, drew word pictures today of the wealthy and eccentric 49 year old recluse who chloroformed herself in her Beverly Hills unfurnished home last April.

The attorneys pictured her as a woman of great beauty and physical attractiveness, who nevertheless was not interested in men, but who spent most of her time alone, with black earphones tied to her head, listening for a ghostly hum that she thought was the voice of spirits.

None among those who served her, or with whom she only business, saw her features because she always wore a black veil. Few in the home.

"Wine should be as free as cider," Garrett said.

UTILITY ISSUE STUDIED CLOSE

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—The administration is making an intensive study of the communications problem toward the creation of merged telephone, telegraph and radio agencies under strict government regulation.

A special committee of the department of commerce has submitted a tentative report to the president, who is reserving an opinion pending further study by the congressional committees involved.

The report sets out the three possibilities:

1. A continuation of existing conditions.

2. Creation of monopolies in the telephone, telegraph and radio fields under strict government regulation.

3. Government ownership of communications.

The preliminary report was stated authoritatively to tend toward the second proposition—monopolies under federal control.

This would involve, of course, a merger of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph in the telegraph field.

The report indicates a virtual monopoly at present in the telephone business and a rather scrambled condition in the radio industry.

The report also takes up the question of foreign communications and the problem of regulating the cable and radio in this field.

President Roosevelt is going to forward the report to the chairman of the senate and house interstate commerce committees for their study, and meanwhile he is reserving decision.

ELECTRIC CHAIR PREFERRED TO KNIFE

Ossining, N. Y., Dec. 13 (AP)—Death in the electric chair rather than possible death on the operating table was the choice of a prisoner in Sing Sing today.

Critically ill with acute appendicitis, the prisoner, Ross Cammiche, 44, balked on the operating table of the prison hospital and said: "I won't go through with it."

Cammiche is sentenced to die in the electric chair for the killing of Edmund P. Van de Water in Monroe county, New York.

Dr. Charles Sweet, head surgeon, and attending nurses were astonished at the patient's protest, which was not made until he reached the operating room. He had been carried on a stretcher from the death house.

Cammiche has an appeal pending. If he loses, he would not be executed before April 1.

$54,376 OREGON'S SHARE FROM FORESTS

Oregon's $54,376.15 share of rental and timber sale receipts the past year from Oregon federal forest lands was received today from the federal government, the state treasurer announced. The state receives 25 percent and the government 75 percent of the receipts.

The receipts will be apportioned to the various counties in which the federal forest reserves are located. Last year Oregon's share was $122,357.57.

Bert W. Macy, Salem attorney, has been appointed to a position in the legal department of the Federal Land bank in Spokane, it was learned here today. Macy is said to have left here for Spokane about two weeks ago.

While attorneys employed from various northwest states were in the office prior to Macy's appointment, Macy has offices here in the Guardian building.

Kenneth Plank, route 3, was arrested on a charge of passing a truck without giving sufficient clearance after he had crashed into an automobile driven by Sydney Jary at State and 14th streets Tuesday night. In police court Wednesday the case was continued to Friday.

Walter A. Dawes, route 3, and A. Youngblood, 239 South 32nd, reported a collision between their cars without serious damage.

Possibility of separation of India and Burma is being discussed in England.
