Yuletide Menus Call For Fancy And Light Salads In Variations

By ROSEVA EYRE

The problem of what to have as a salad for the Christmas dinner is one that confronts the average homemaker each year as she plans her menu for perhaps the most elaborate dinner of the twelvemonth. It is the vogue just now to have the salad as the "starter," but if you prefer a cocktail of some sort it may be served with the entree or directly following it. I have listed below several delightful salads which are appropriate to the Yuletide season, and sufficiently light to serve with turkey and all the "trimmings" or roast pig and cornmeal dressing.

CHRISTMAS BELLS

Take 8 halves of canned pears, 8 strips of pimientos and 8 almonds. Arrange the pears hollow side down on lettuce to represent Christmas bells. Arrange pimiento strips at top for the "bow" and almonds for the "clappers." Serve with French dressing or mayonnaise.

CHRISTMAS CANDLES

Take slice of pineapple for each salad plate, place cheese ball in middle of slice and in this place miniature red candles. Use this salad as a starter and light tapers just before your guests enter the dining room. It's most effective, especially when your table is decorated with the Christmas motif.

RED AND GREEN SALAD

Place alternately slices of sliced red pickled beets and green cucumbers, overlapping, on hearts of lettuce. Serve with French dressing.

CHEESE & BAR-LE-DUC SALAD

Work cream cheese with enough salad dressing to mold in small balls. If desired, roll in chopped nut meats or parsley. Top with a spoonful of Bar-le-Duc currants and serve with French dressing.

AVOCADO AND PIMIENTO SALAD

Cut avocado in horseshoe-shaped pieces. Arrange to suit thin slices of pimiento over the avocado and serve with French dressing. Tomatoes may be substituted for the pimiento.

MALAGA SALAD

Take white grapes, skinned and seeded, English walnuts, broken in pieces, French dressing, lettuce and Maraschino cherries. Marinate the grapes and nuts with the dressing. Serve on lettuce and garnish with cherries.

WALDORF SALAD

Take 1 cup of diced apple, 1 cup finely cut celery, lettuce, 1/2 cup walnut meats broken, and mayonnaise. Serve on lettuce. Nuts may be omitted.

CRANBERRY JELLY SALAD

Take 2 cups of cranberries, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup sugar, 1/4 tablespoon granulated gelatine, soaked in 1/2 cup cold water. Then take 1/2 cup finely cut apple or celery, 1/2 cup chopped nut meats, mayonnaise and lettuce. Cook the cranberries and water for 20 minutes. Force through strainer. Add soaked gelatine, stir until gelatine
