Dance Revue Planned for June

Preparations are being made by the Barbara Barnes Studio for the 6th annual dance revue to be given in the Elsinore theatre during the early part of June.

The theme will be the Modern Mother Goose, the younger students taking the parts of characters such as Humpty Dumpty, Jack and Jill, Baby Tunting, Old King Cole and many other famous persons in Mother Goose rhymes.

The program will include an Algerian solo, control acrobatics, a group in rhythmic design, tap on toe, toe ballet, specialties and divertissements by the older members of the school.

Willard Women Plan Program

Silverton—Mrs. Robert Janz was chosen president of the Willard Woman's club, Thursday afternoon at the social and business session held at the home of Mrs. Ted Finlay in the Evergreen community. Mrs. Karl Haberly was the guest speaker of the program, talking on the "Literature of the Scandinavian People."

Mrs. Miles Ottoway will be hostess to the group at the May 3 meeting. Other officers placed for the year were Mrs. Harold Roop, vice president; Mrs. May Finlay, secretary and Mrs. Fred Knight, treasurer.

The club, assisted by others of the community, is making plans for the evening's entertainment during music week, the date to be determined definitely at the meeting May 3.

The programs throughout the winter have been studies of Scandinavian customs, literature and music. The three Norwegian churches of Silverton will aid in the program. The entertainment will be at the Waldo Hills hall and residents of all surrounding communities are invited.

Miss Vera Ottoway is committee chairman, assisted by Mrs. Robert Janz, Ethel Knight and Sylvia Overland.

ent impossible.

The report carried importance because of its possible effect on the president's attitude toward prices.

If the advice is accepted, it was said, a continuation of the experimental attitude toward the question may be expected, at least until completion of a more thorough inquiry.

This has been the essence of NRA's attitude, based on the belief that far too short a time has passed to determine results definitely or to correct all evils that may have occurred along the line.

The special cabinet committee's report reached the president just a step ahead of that from the national recovery review board. The latter is to determine the effect of codes on small business.

Clarence Darrow, head of the review board, has arranged for a conference at the White House and may hand in his findings today. It has been forecast freely that his report will condemn price fixing.

The consumers' advisory board, a section of NRA, also has issued a general condemnation of present practices, but has indicated approval in general of certain price control methods by a special committee of high NRA officials.

NRA is now engaged in preparing another report which will include the opinions of several widely known experts, as well as a great amount of new factual material.

approximately 2,000,000 gallons annually, expires May 1. It was doubtful if any tanks could be constructed before that time, Schnell's statement made it appear that the state might be put to considerable expense in handling the gasoline once it arrived here.

The matter of state purchases of gasoline arose last Monday when Elsnig told the board of control he could force gasoline prices down in Oregon if given permission to purchase fuel outside the state. Such authority was granted by unanimous action of the board.

prestige it could ill afford. Now, with Japan having announced its withdrawal from the League, and taking the position that the League has no concern with Japan's affairs, the League's position is made doubly difficult.

Initiative in raising the entire far eastern problem at the May 14 meeting was expected to come from Wellington Koo, Chinese minister at Paris. Even before the Japanese pronouncements of this week Koo had intimated that he would make every effort to bring China's troubles up before the committee.

Until the latest developments, it had been indicated that the meeting would be one in which some delegates demanded that as a practical matter, aside from diplomatic niceties, League members ought to recognize Manchukuo.

But now, with League officials believing that Japan is defying the world, the feeling was that an approach toward recognition would only be a confession of helplessness.

Also the League as a body is anxious regarding its own plans for reconstruction of China. The Japanese pronouncements apparently included such plans in those over which Japan intended to assert the right of ownership.

kind, say relief committee members, or work for their board, as it were.

The state relief committee in a letter just received by the county committee explains that the state committee has set up a general rural reconstruction program looking to permanent rehabilitation of rural families which has been submitted to Washington for final approval and it is the opinion of the state committee this rural rehabilitation program will offset the alleged discrimination in the manner of payment of urban and rural workers.

However, the letter from Lane county sets up complaint similar to that already heard here and members of the local committee have expressed themselves as fearing difficulties may arise when actual work starts under the new setup.

"We believe that there would be a grave injustice in any plan that would not treat all citizens alike and already there is a growing complaint on the part of rural people that they are being discriminated against," says the letter from Lane county. "This tends to broaden the already too broad gap between your city and country folks. It breeds anything but good citizenship on the part of our rural people and it is our opinion that no plan should further embarrass our administration which breaks down citizenship.

"Further, it is the unanimous thought of the committee it would be unthinkable from our standpoint to put these rural people to work and pay them in necessities and especially when their city cousins receive cash for their labor. Lane county is not an industrial county, in fact Oregon as a whole is mainly rural, hence we have nearly parallel needs of those living in the so-called urban districts and rural districts. Seasonal work is also much participated in by city and rural folks and this seasonal work is not due to start until about June 15. We believe such a procedure would actually precipitate trouble, hence we are hesitating to put such a plan in operation."

Further criticism is heard in Marion county as well from the fact that Salem, Silverton and West Salem have been put in urban areas where cash is to be paid while other cities of the county like Woodburn, Stayton, Mt. Angel and smaller places apparently are left in the rural areas where workers on any projects in those places would be repaid in kind. Some members of the local relief committee say they cannot understand why Woodburn, Stayton and Mt. Angel folk and people of other small towns are not accorded a place in urban areas, even if the original plan is adhered to as to rural communities and they believe this will cause further difficulties if adhered to.

the city for regular Sunday morning worship.

The state executive committee will attend a luncheon at the Court Street Christian church Sunday noon.

Sunday afternoon session will be devoted to election of officers, reading of resolutions and an address "The Race Before Us," by Dr. Poling.

Prior to the parade Saturday forenoon, the delegates attended conferences on Christian Endeavor methods. During the afternoon the young people's oratorical contest was held with Miss Rose Bates in charge. This was followed by the C. E. World presentation by Grace Adamson and Ross Culley and an intermediate dramatization contest with Miss Wilma Eddy in charge.

The official banquets of the organization was scheduled to be held in downturn churches Saturday evening at 6 o'clock.

Kenneth Holler, United Brethren church of Salem, today was awarded first prize in a poster contest held at the state Christian Endeavor contest at Willamette university.

Warner Jackson of First Christian church of Salem was awarded second, and Nina Nosler, Coquille Church of Christ, third.

dically, described the bullet holes discovered in Horan's clothes and the scar on the chair where he sat across a desk from the veteran attorney who is now on trial for his life.

Heinrich, star witness for the state, said the condition of the coat and chair indicated thoroughly that the young legislator's clothing was drawn tight across the piece of furniture when a bullet passed through his heart and came out below the left shoulder blade.

This second day of expert testimony undoubtedly will be linked by the state to show that the slain man was in his chair at the time of his death. The prosecuting expects to prove by Heinrich's remarks it would have been impossible for Horan to have been on his feet scrambling for a gun.

The trial proceed slowly today with the presentation of the criminologist's minute findings. Because the state will not be able to complete its case today, the court will adjourn at noon.

Dr. Heinrich told the jury this morning that had Horan's coat been hanging free the broken fibers about the bullet hole would have been ragged. But since they were matched cleanly, he declared the coat must have been pressed firmly against a hard surface.

The bullet scar on the chair revealed bits of cloth and the surface around the hole in the seat showed pieces of wood.

All this evidence was presented with the aid of enlarged, microscopic photographs.

Direct examination of the criminologist was conducted by Guy Cordon, district attorney of Douglas county who was called by the state as an assistant prosecutor.

George Roberts of Medford, chief defense counsel, objected repeatedly to the doctor's testimony. Although Judge Fred S. Wilson refused to sustain the requests, he permitted exceptions to be entered in the court records.

Children Run Still While Dad Hunting

Beaumont, Tex. (AP)—"Daddy's gone a-hunting," explained a 13-year-old farmer boy and his 15-year old sister when federal agents found them operating a whiskey still.

The children said their father had left them in charge while he went in search of rabbits. The agents, who seized the still, 750 gallons of mash and 50 gallons of freshly made whiskey, said the boy and girl were the youngest still operators they had ever arrested.

Both children and their father were charged with manufacturing liquor without a license.

SEEK SLAYER OF WILLIAM CALL

Sacramento, Calif., April 21 (AP)—The sheriff's office today enlisted the aid of the California highway patrol and sheriffs of northern California counties in an effort to capture the slayer of William Call, who was fatally shot yesterday while standing near the highway that leads to Reno.

The slayer after firing two bullets, one of which pierced Call's chest, left the machine, grabbed a suitcase Call had been carrying and escaped.

Deputy Sheriff Charles Ogle expressed the opinion Call had been overtaken while escaping with the proceeds of some robbery, perhaps that of the Orpheum theater in San Francisco last Sunday, and that the killing was the result of Call attempting to "double-cross" his companions.

Call purchased the machine in San Francisco April 13 and gave as his address what proved to be a vacant lot in Sacramento. He told the automobile salesman he had lived here for 12 years. His police record included an arrest in San Francisco 10 years ago, and arrests in Phoenix, Ariz., and Wasco county, Oregon.

Two witnesses of the killing gave the sheriff the license number of the auto.
