BASEBALL RELIEF WORK COOPERATION HIGHLY PRAISED

Efficiency and cooperation by the Marion and Salem relief committees in presenting projects for consideration were highly complimented Monday noon by Burton Palmer, Portland, chief engineer for the state BERA, who spoke before the chamber of commerce in place of Ivan White, of Salem, who was called to Washington, D. C. The projects offered were ones which required little material and most of the cost going to labor.

While Oregon stood 14th in the United States in the percentage of direct federal relief funds, it stood first in the northern group of states, those above it being all in the south. Direct relief funds provided by the government were 86.5 per cent with 69.8 per cent the average for the nation. Connecticut was at the bottom of the list with 11.6 per cent.

Why the CWA was discontinued and the BERA launched in its place was refuted by Palmer. It became necessary to have a dollar to double duty, going for actual relief and making the subject work for it. When the CWA went into effect there were 117,000 registered unemployed with Oregon's quota, upon which funds were based, set at 28,000. It became necessary to give work only for cases of actual necessity and even then to resort to lottery to allow the work. Under the system at its best, injured cases, Palmer said. To take care of the situation, with the government spending $2,000,000 in January, a peak month, it would have been necessary to increase this to $8,000,000 if all were given work, a program that would have cost the government over two billions a month throughout the nation.

Administrative costs have been cut to the limit, Palmer said, with Oregon standing fifth from the bottom on the list in this connection.

791 ARRESTED DURING APRIL

Sentences totaling 31 years were meted out and fines assessed were $10,921. Fees collected in the traffic division totaled $2,628, Charles P. Fray, superintendent, reported here today.

Of the 182 arrests in the regular law enforcement, the most were for larceny under $50, of which there were 26. One murder arrest was made, but the case was still pending. The largest sentences were also meted out to the petty larceny cases, while the greatest fines, $1,000, were for illegal transportation of liquor.

In the traffic division, most arrests, 191, were for failure to have public utilities commission permits. Fines totaling $1,452, were assessed for driving while intoxicated, also resulting in sentences of 1,330 days. Failure to have license plates resulted in fees collected amounting to $1,051.

Fishing without license and hunting in closed season netted $2,025 in fines in the game division.

Overhauling active strike difficulties was the threat of a thump in the vast steel industry over the matter of union recognition. The Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers at Pittsburgh sent their demands to employers country-wide, with the acceptance deadline set at June 10.

San Francisco, May 21 (AP)—Two determined groups—the 15,000 Pacific coast longshoremen and their ship-owning employers—kept coast shipping in almost complete paralysis today by their refusal to concede ground on recognition of the International Longshoremen's association.

Federal mediators, led by Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward F. McGrady, admitted prospects of an early settlement are poor, but planned further conferences with the disputants today.

The threat of a month's shutdown on all coast shipping activity was heard after shipowners met here. The employers refused to confirm the report but they said an "important announcement" can be expected soon. Workers countered with discussions of a general strike, affecting every organized craft associated with the shipping industry.

Either move would affect all ships except those holding mail contracts. It would mean stagnation of many industries. It would produce food shortages in communities dependent on water transportation. And it would cause a severe setback to President Roosevelt's recovery movement.

While efforts to effect arbitration of the bitter dispute were in progress, the waterfronts in the principal ports remained quiet. No moves were made in Portland or Seattle to load or unload cargoes. Some ships were cleared from San Francisco and Los Angeles by strike breakers.

Portland, May 21 (AP)—Aids from the restriction by waterfront employers that they oppose the closed shop, the strike situation remains unchanged in Portland today. No effort was made to move cargo on any ships or docks.

The Waterfront Employers' association issued a statement in which they asserted the strike was fomented by "communistic and radical labor politicians," and the entire real issue was the closed shop.

The statement indicated that there was no immediate chance for any compromise in this port.

Seattle, May 21 (AP)—A strike in ship officers on Alaskan waters in sympathy with longshoremen was

PLANET PLUTO TINIEST OF ALL

Cambridge, Mass., May 21 (AP)—Planet Pluto, newest known member of the solar system: Is not more than seven-tenths the size of earth. It some 3,753,600,000 miles from earth.

Has no atmosphere, and hence could not support life in any form. Requires 248 1/2 years to journey around the sun.

Will make its closest approach to earth September 30, 1989.

Is scheduled for special observations in 1968 when it will pass near enough to Uranus for one to expect its "pull" upon the other, and thus give astronomers a better idea than now as to its mass.

These are some of the new facts about Pluto which have come from intensive research by astronomers since its discovery four years ago and which were given today by Leon Campbell of Harvard observatory.

When Pluto was discovered by Lowell observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz., it was estimated to be somewhat larger than earth, more than four and a half billion miles from earth, and that it would require more than 330 years to rotate around the sun.
