

COLLEGIATE ATHLETES WOULD ESTABLISH RECORDS

RECOGNITION BY NATIONAL AAU WILL BE ASKED

Los Angeles, June 21 (AP)—National Collegiate Athletic association officials put to rest today all contrary comments with a statement that applications will be made with the National Amateur Athletic union for world's records shattered in the championships here tomorrow and Saturday.

Coch Robert (Dink) Templeton, Stanford's fiery mentor whose team is one of the three favorites to win the meet had suggested recently that N.C.A.A. officials would not stoop to ask the A.A.U. for adoption of the marks—a flare-up of past differences including the use of starting blocks.

"We're not angry with the A.A.U.," said Dr. Nelson Metcalf, athletic director of Chicago and chairman of the N.C.A.A. track and field committee, "and so far as I know it is not angry with us. As a matter of fact the two organizations are on better terms than ever before."

"We plan to make application for all world's records bettered, providing proper conditions for new marks exist."

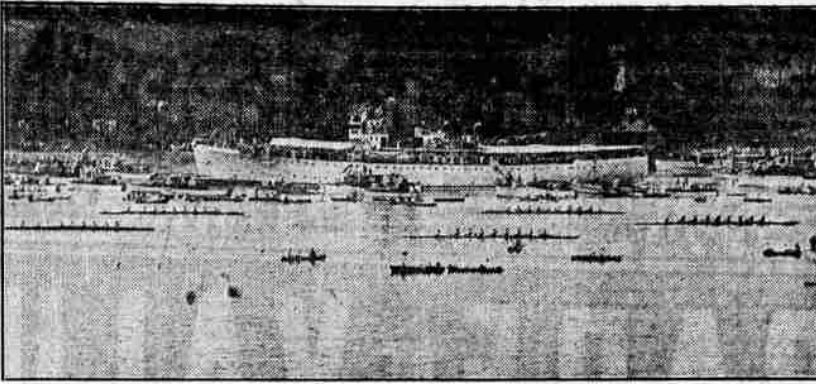

It was an important point, since some world's record eclipsing performances in past N.C.A.A. meets have not had the benefit of applications. Then too, at least half a dozen recognized marks are threatened by the finest array of track and field talent ever collected together in a national meet.

Dean Cromwell, Southern California coach, and chairman of the technical committee of which Templeton is a member, was even more emphatic.

"Certainly we are going to make application for all records broken, we have the best officials and timers ever gathered for a track and field meet. Plenty of wind gages will be set up at all points, and all stop watches will be tested and registered."

As for the question of starting blocks, Coach Cromwell pointed out that some athletes used them in the Olympic games here two years ago, a meet staged by the International Amateur Athletic federation.

GOLDEN BEARS SWEEP TO WIN AT POUGHKEEPSIE

Taking up where they left off in 1932, the eight-oared shell of California won the 37th renewal of the annual Poughkeepsie regatta on the Hudson river. Washington was second after barely nosing out Navy. The shells were so close together that it took the judges several minutes to decide which was second. (Associated Press Photo)

STATE WALTON LEAGUERS MEET AT SILVERTON

Silverton—The local members of the Isaac Walton league are making many plans for the state council of the league that is to be one of the biggest events of the year for Silverton. The council will be a three day event of July 20, 21 and 22, with 250 guests being arranged for.

Marshall Dana of the Oregon Journal will be the principal speaker at the banquet of Saturday evening, the place to be later decided, and William Finley, Oregon naturalist, with both speakers talking on the topics of conservation of wild life and natural resources. Dr. P. A. Loar will be toastmaster at the Saturday night banquet.

A get-acquainted dinner will be served on Friday evening for those coming from a distance in order to be here for the Saturday morning, 9:30 o'clock business session. A tour of the surrounding communities and a golf game is arranged for the women members of the visiting group while the men are wrestling with the more serious questions as concern the sportmen of the state.

The Saturday afternoon program will begin in the city park at 1:30 o'clock, with a band concert. Speakers of the afternoon will be Arthur Moulton, national director of the league, and M. F. Corrigan, chairman of the fish and game commission, of McMinnville. Others will appear whose names will be announced later.

Sunday will be the day of play, with a trek from the North Falls to start at about 9:30 o'clock, and a visit to the many falls enroute to the South Falls grounds, where dinner, a pot luck meal, will be served at 1 o'clock. Irving E. Vining of Ashland, a member of the state fish and game commission, will speak.

Members of the program committee are Dr. Loar, George Steelhammer and Dr. C. R. Wilson. Of the refreshment committee, Roy Davernport, L. M. Larson, and Ed Overlund. Housing, Ernest Starr and Errol Ross.

St. Louis Church Scene for Picnic

Hopmore—The annual picnic will be held Sunday in the St. Louis church grove with a hot chicken dinner served at noon. Entertainment of different kinds will be offered. A musical program in charge of Mrs. Du Boise of the Du Boise orchestra and Mrs. Moses, will be given. The picnic always draws a large crowd from Portland, St. Paul and Hopmore.

American honiton is becoming popular in Britain.

Felicitations Wins

Asco, Eng., June 21 (AP)—The Asco Kahn's Felicitation won the Asco gold cup, one of the world's outstanding races, from a field of international distance talent today.

Marcel Boussac's Thor II was second and Lord Derby's Hyperion third.

The winner was well-liked in the betting at 9 to 2.

SPORT SLANTS Alan J. Gould

They can argue about the longshoreman's brawl between Max Baer and Primo Carnera indefinitely, on a number of disputed counts, but the clear, ringing fact remains that the new champion made a chopping block of the giant from Italy and probably would be quite happy to repeat the experiment in bag-punching any time an adequate stage-setting can be produced.

Carnera, of course, could have fought a smarter fight but he isn't that kind of a fighter and after being filled by two or three of Baer's smashing long rights to the side of the head, it is doubtful whether Primo thereafter was capable of collecting or using his scattered wits at all. The fallen champion believes a sprained right ankle, suffered in his first-flop to the floor was the main cause of his defeat but for a man thus handicapped he moved around at a fairly brisk pace for the better part of eleven rounds, whenever he was on his feet. Carnera's stamina alone enabled him to last as long as he did.

NEVER A REAL PUNCHER

The fight should settle for once and for all the fact that Carnera has nothing that can rightfully be called a real punch. He cuffed and jabbed Baer with amazing courage for a man slowly being beaten to a pulp but not once did he hurt the challenger or do anything more than annoy him by the force of 263 pounds behind a few cumbersome pokes.

Baer, on the other hand, packs the most terrific job with either hand of any heavyweights since Jack Dempsey was in his prime. Whereas the old man mauler was a short-puncher, specializing in devastating left hooks, Baer likes to start them from the floor with his right, followed by a left hook to the right. The combination of these smashing blows reduced Carnera to bulky ruins and will do the same to any man, big or little, who wanders into the trip-hammer counter punches of the Californian. Baer disdains most all of the orthodox ring customer and relies exclusively on his hitting power, with gestures.

IN A CLASS BY HIMSELF

The new heavyweight champion is in a class by himself, as a clown or actor, whichever you prefer. He struts, poses, grimaces, alternating sneering grins with scowling glares. His side-steps like a ballet-dancer, handling his 210 pounds with natural grace. Far more calculating and shrewd than he is given credit.

SIX WEEKS TENNIS DUE IN NORTHWEST

Seattle, June 21 (AP)—Six weeks of title tennis is in store for northwest court pounders this summer, with major meets slated for Portland, Seattle, Tacoma, Vancouver, B. C., and Victoria. Will Warren, secretary of the Pacific Northwest Tennis association announced here today.

The Chase for the various crowns will open in Portland in the Oregon state tournament July 2, and will continue through to the Pacific northwest senior singles and doubles championships ending August 11 at Victoria. The tourney schedule is as follows:

July 2 to 7: Oregon State, at Portland.

July 9 to 14: Washington State, at Seattle, which will include Pacific northwest junior and boys' sectional meets, the winners and runners-up entitled to enter the national tournament.

July 18 to 21: Pacific northwest at Tacoma.

July 23 to 28: Western Canada, at the Vancouver Lawn Tennis club.

July 30 to Aug. 4: British Columbia clay court, at the Jesco Tennis club, Vancouver.

Aug. 6 to 11: British Columbia championships and Pacific northwest sectional senior singles and doubles championships at Victoria.

Kruse Wristlocks Chief Little Wolf

Portland, June 21 (AP)—Bob Kruse's wristlocks were too much for Chief Little Wolf, Colorado heavyweight wrestler, and the Oswego farmer took two straight falls with his pet hold, the first in 25 minutes and the other requiring but 26 seconds.

The "Masked Marvel" defeated Harry Demerit with a headlock in the semi-final. Leo Jensen, Vancouver, B. C., and Louie Miller, San Francisco, went three rounds to a draw and Sam Leathers, Winlock, Wash., and Cliff Thiede, Long Beach, Cal., also went the draw route in three rounds.

GEHRIG READY TO OUST RUTH AS SWAT KING

(By the Associated Press)

With Babe Ruth playing his last big league season—according to his own word—big Lou Gehrig appears ready to become the Yankees' slugging hero instead of merely the Babe's understudy.

For the last couple of days Gehrig has been playing with a chipped bone in the big toe of his right foot but it hasn't interfered with his socking the ball or his iron man streak of playing in over 1400 consecutive games. He clouted his 15th homer of the season yesterday to bring the Yanks the first of two victories over Cleveland that gave them a half-game margin over the Tigers.

With the score tied in the ninth, Lou rode the ball out of the park to gain a 3-2 Yankee victory and give Lefty Gomez his 12th mound victory. Red Ruffing followed that up with a one-hit hurling job to win the second game, 3-0.

The Yanks needed both decisions to stay on top as Mickey Cochrane's Detroit club came through with a 13-10 victory over Washington in an 11-inning battle.

Boston's Red Sox moved into fourth place ahead of Cleveland by slugging out 18 hits and a 14-9 victory over the Chicago White Sox. The St. Louis Browns, hitting almost as hard, rocked the Athletics 11-3 despite Bob Johnson's 20th circuit drive of the year.

New York's other pennant contender, the Giants, added a full game to their National league lead by slugging the third-place Cubs down, 12 to 7. Two homers by Mel Ott, featured an 18-hit assault on four Cub pitchers.

Meanwhile the Brooklyn Dodgers battered out a 9 to 5 decision over the second-place Cardinals as Van Mungo, although touched up freely, who hit his game of the year.

Entrance of Amateurs In British Golf Open Arouses Ire of Pros

By HENRY McLEMORE

London, June 21 (AP)—More than 100 British amateurs have filed entries for the open championship at Royal St. Georges, Sandwich, next week, and the professional golfers are almost sore enough to ask No. 10 Downing street to throw them out.

"Throw out the amateurs, I mean. The pros consider the amateurs not only a nuisance, but a serious handicap to their chances of checking America's eleven-year dominance of the championship."

The professionals argue this way. Of the hundred amateurs entered for the open, fewer than 20 have any earthly right in such high class company. The only other qualifications possessed by the other eighty-odd are a week of leisure, a bagful of shiny clubs, a new plus-four suit for every round, and unimpeachable social standing.

"There's a horde of amateurs entered for the open," one noted British pro said in explaining his side of it, "and most of them are only fair club players, and couldn't win with three figure handicaps. And to make matters worse, they know it, so they don't take their play seriously, and just joke around. That would be alright if they were playing alone, but many of them draw professional players for partners, and that's tough on the pros."

"It's impossible for a man to shoot his best when playing with an indifferent, talkative partner. You can't draw any inspiration from a chap who just hasn't the shoes. It seems to me the field should be limited to players who have some chance of winning, and not open to all whose school ties are the right color."

The professionals are not likely to make much headway in their fight to have the "nobodies" barred, however, for the golfing experts are a bit exasperated with the poor showing of the professionals themselves.

EYE GILL GEOLOGISTS

Brady, Tex. (AP)—Gill geologists proved as strange to people here as the rocks of McCulloch county, which they came to study, seemed to the girls. They are co-eds with a University of Texas summer geology camp. They have quarters in a private home. Eighteen boy students bunk in a large building.

Sacramento didn't even have to work to take its second straight from Hollywood, 10 passes granted by Wally Hebert and Gordon Maltzberger, Hollywood moudmen, and Frenchy Bordagaray's homer with the bases loaded made it easy for the Solons to win, 11-3.

Boats recently ferried a completed bridge weighing 630 tons, a mile from Keeslerover, Holland, where it was assembled, to its pier.
