BUSINESS STILL SHOWS BETTER

New York, July 13 (AP)—A more definite trend in the upward direction is being established, Dun and Bradstreet, Inc., said today in a weekly Business Review.

"Current developments appear to be fostering preparation for more genuine and lasting recovery than has been attained in the past 15 months," the report said.

"While more interest now is being centered on trade movements than on speculations regarding government, conservative sentiment is on the increase, particularly regarding long-term calculations, as the possibility of inflation looms unless private business can succeed in giving a more decisive impetus to employment and consumer income."

The review said that for the first time in more than a month reports from the east revealed a broadening in retail distribution and the demand in the south, Atlantic, southeastern and middlewestern states was showing a wider sweep. On the Pacific coast, where strikes are underway, business is so disrupted as to cost business men in excess of a million dollars a day.

The Review saw a favorable sign in mounting total of bank deposits. "The plethora of funds now in banks is resulting in growing bank credits as there never has been a time when bankers were so anxious to make loans to well-rated business establishments and current charges for interest are the lowest reached in many years," the report said.

OREGON WINTER WHEAT INCREASES

Portland, July 13 (AP)—Wheat production in Oregon this year will total 10,523,000 bushels of winter wheat, compared with 4,388,000 bushels in 1933. John S. Dennee, agricultural statistician, announced today.

Spring wheat, however, will show a reduction from 13,104,000 bushels in 1933 to only 3,030,000 this year. Total wheat crop in Oregon Washington, Idaho and Montana was estimated at 99,819,000 bushels, compared with 110,000,000 last year. Drought was ascribed for the loss this year.

Winter wheat production in the four states will aggregate 50,308,000 bushels, a gain of more than 19,000,000 bushels over the preceding year. Washington's crop was estimated at 23,325,000 bushels, compared with 13,990,000 in 1933. Spring wheat was 62 per cent of normal, the crop being reckoned at 11,820,000 bushels compared with 33,159,000 bushels last year.

Segregated, the winter wheat yield by states showed: Oregon—58 per cent of normal, 17 bushels per acre. Washington—83 per cent of normal, 25 bushels per acre. Idaho—88 per cent of normal, 17.5 bushels per acre. Montana—94 per cent of normal, 11.5 bushels per acre.

WOODBURN BANK BONDS TO BE SOLD

Authority has been granted in an order by Circuit Judge Lewelling to the superintendent of banks to sell bonds of the Bank of Woodburn at market. The bonds include unpledged securities having a par value of $35,000 and book value of $34,600 and bonds pledged to the reconstruction finance corporation having a par value of $21,000 and book value of $21,000. However, the market value on both sets of bonds varies greatly being shown to range from as low as 18 to as high as 84.

Authority has been given on another order permitting a compromise with creditors of the C. F. Whitman estate of which Mary Whitman is executrix. The order states that Mrs. Whitman gave personal notes of $4,879.56 to cover administration expenses. She has been operating the store at Woodburn and stock there has an inventoried value of $4,639.21. An offer has been made of $2,350 for stock owned by her and the executrix has due her $625. She has agreed to take $1,200 in accounts receivable of the store for her fee and to either turn over the store to her creditors or sell it for $2,350, pay expenses of $950 and divide the balance among creditors. A compromise is also allowed by the Bank of Stayton on the Frank Rohwein debt, settlement to be made in full for $1,500 in cash and federal farm mortgage bonds.

CHERRIANS ATTEND EUGENE JUBILEE

Salem Cherrians will attend the Oregon Trail celebration at Eugene in force on July 29, it was announced by King Bing George Arbuckle following a meeting of the council of nobles of the organization this noon.

"We want every Cherrian who can possibly do so to make the trip to Eugene and are scheduling it far enough in advance so that members can make their arrangements," said Arbuckle.

Eugene has always cooperated generously with Salem in its celebrations and has backed our state fair consistently. Here we have an opportunity to show our appreciation and at the same time fulfill our obligation to Eugene and its interests."

TWO SLAYERS DIE IN GAS CHAMBERS

Carson City, Nev., July 13 (AP)—Joe Behler, 35, convicted three years ago for the murder of Maxine Armstrong, Las Vegas dance-hall girl, died today in Nevada's lethal gas chamber.

He was the seventh person to die here since Nevada introduced lethal gas execution to the world 10 years ago.

Florence, Ariz., July 13 (AP)—Arizona's new lethal gas chamber claimed its third youthful victim today when George Shaughnessy, 19-year-old Albany, N. Y., hitchhiker, was executed for the murder of Lon Blankenship, Tucson automobile dealer.

SCHOOL HEADS TO OPPOSE TAX LIMITATION BILL

Opposition to the 20 per cent tax limitation initiative measure which will be on the November ballot because it has "no provision for our public schools to obtain any portion of the funds taken from them," was voiced in a resolution passed by the county school superintendents' association in session here today.

The resolution, prepared by the committee on "school legislation," of which C. R. Bowman of Jackson county is chairman, stated that "until a plan for financing the schools can be made complete, it is the opinion of this committee that no such drastic legislation can receive its recommendation," adding however that "the idea of obtaining relief for property tax is one in which we are all interested."

The resolution also recommended enactment of a statute requiring the state to contribute a larger percentage of the funds required to maintain the public schools. Further legislation designed to limit the amount of warrant indebtedness which a school district will be permitted to assume and also to some legislation clarifying the fiscal school year for which school budgets are to be made, was recommended.

Repeal of the county high school fund law was urged in the resolution, and changes in requirements for establishing and maintaining new school districts, increasing the number of school children in each instance.

The resolution favored the measure proposed by the state grange which would set up in each county a school equalization district governed by a county school equalization board, although some phases of the measure were not favored specifically. The bill would tend to equalize the taxes paid by the various districts within each county.

The superintendent will send their three-day session here tomorrow following an election of officers.

Continuation of— SHIPPING STRIKE

Picture as Southern Pacific railway officials reported communists were heading for San Francisco from Seattle, bent on destroying all highway and railroad facilities.

State officials to whom the report was given said they had no plans for guarding highway bridges because they were too large to be destroyed easily.

Surrounded on three sides by water, San Francisco itself, with a population of more than 600,000 stood in imminent danger of complete physical isolation in case the fast spreading strikes extended to ferry transportation agencies. All along the highways leading into the city from the southward were blockaded by strike pickets determined to stop commercial activity.

The southward entrance to San Francisco, being a peninsula scarcely four miles wide between the bay and the ocean, was a virtual bottleneck which could be closed with ease.

The city had enough fresh meat, fruit and vegetables to last perhaps three days, and enough tinned and other non-perishable food to withstand a siege of 20 to 30 days. Milk trucks still were running and bakery wagons continued to operate but there was no assurance as to how long this would continue.

Two thousand California national guardsmen continued to hold the state-owned San Francisco waterfront in a military calm. Scattered instances of violence continued elsewhere in the city and the police mobilized for extraordinary duty. The plans of acting Governor Frank P. Merriam were awaited anxiously as to whether he would extend the national guard lines farther into the city in case of recurring disorder.

Besides the striking longshore-

ELLINGSON TO SPEAK TONIGHT TO RAILROADERS

Railroad employees and their families will meet in Salem tonight to hold a pension jubilee in celebration of the new railroad retirement act which will benefit one million railroad employees and their families. Tonight's meeting will be attended by railroad employees on every section of the Willamette valley.

A Salem railroad man, E. J. Ellingson, will be the guest of honor and principal speaker. He has been one of the most prominent leaders in the campaign for the railroad retirement act which became a law 10 days ago when President Roosevelt signed it as the first step in his announced program of social security.

Prominent officials, members of the supreme court, leaders in organized labor, and other prominent men and women who are interested in public affairs have been sent invitations to join the railroad workers at the meeting.

Ellingson returned to Salem this week after nearly three years' absence as secretary of the pension association and editor of the Railroad Pension Review. On "just 1 he assumes new duties as vice-president of the Order of Railroad Conductors, but will continue to call Salem his home city.

Speaking of the railroad retirement act, Ellingson said it provides a bed rock upon which to build a great social structure for railroad workers and the benefits which will be derived therefrom will indirectly be reflected in the general welfare of society as a whole and eventually the plan will be patterned by other industries.

DEVERS TO AWAIT RECEIPT OF CASH

State Highway Engineer R. H. Baldoek today wired highway commission attorney, Joseph Devers, to remain in Washington, D. C., until the first million dollars PWA advancement for the coast highway bridges actually was deposited.

He sent the telegram to avoid chances of a misunderstanding regarding the bridge funds, such as occurred several times previously. The advance on the $5,602,000 loan and grant, was scheduled to be deposited for use by the highway commission tomorrow. Devers wired yesterday he would leave for Salem then.

Baldoek and Leslie Scott, chairman of the highway commission, will leave for southern Oregon Monday to inspect the Siskiyou section of the Pacific highway near Ashland. From there they will go to Klamath Falls, returning here Wednesday.
