and it has taught us more than that because from it we have learned lessons in the ethics of human relationships; how devotion to the public good, unselfish service, never ending consideration of human needs, are in themselves conquering forces.

"Democracy," he added, "looks to the day when these virtues will be required and expected of those who shall modern medicine has set an example. It has shown the way for us all."

The major portion of the president's address, delivered at Soldier's field in this city and before thousands of persons, was devoted to a laudatory review of the accomplishments of the Mayos in the field of medicine. The brothers previously had been presented citations by the Legion.

Mr. Roosevelt motored to the field after first participating in a parade through the downtown streets and a visit to Mayo park, where he placed a wreath at the statue of William Worrall Mayo.

"I hope the people of Rochester will not feel limited in their pride of possession when the nation which I have the honor to represent claims the right to call Dr. Will and Dr. Charles by the good word 'neighbor,'" he said and then turned to the men he honored to say:

"You are beloved at home and abroad and a world deeply in your debt. It gives you inadequate return in external honors and distinctions. But your true distinction is in the simple fact that you have put man's sense of brotherhood and independence into a new setting and have given it a new meaning.

"For 50 years you have given tireless, skillful and unselfish service here in this state and city. These 50 years, the span of your medical practice, have covered probably the most remarkable period in the history of science.

"You whom we honor today have rendered the highest form of patriotic service during the battles of the World war but even more than that you deserve the nation's thanks for the national service that you have rendered throughout your lives."

The president's departure from his special train for Soldiers' field was delayed by the late arrival of Gov. Floyd E. Olson, the state's farm-laborer executive.

Mr. Roosevelt spent the interval in conference with the Mayo brothers.

As the governor arrived a sea scout band struck up "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here."

The musical selection was appropriate inasmuch as Gov. Tom Berry of Iowa and Gov. Albert Schweitzer of Wisconsin, and Frank B. Kellogg, world court judge, were grouped in the presidential car.

As the president stepped upon the rear platform of the train a cry of "here they come" swept back through the crowd which had been standing for hours.

As Mr. Roosevelt completed his speech a plume in tribute to the Mayo brothers was unveiled, the gift of William P. McCoy post, American Legion.

It bore a simple inscription and the notation of its presentation by the president.

Many in the audience of 50,000 were stricken by the heat and were removed from the amphitheater for emergency treatment.

A blazing sun beat down, sending the temperature to above the 100 mark.

pitals are filled with Jewish victims and their doors are besieged by half-crazed wives and mothers.

Perhaps the most ungenial neighbors on earth, Jew and Arab, are obliged by fate and historical circumstance to live today side by side in hundreds of cities and thousands of miles of territory in northern Africa and Asia Minor.

Between them is a dark feud, which has simmered for centuries, and which occasionally breaks out in savage riots, such as started at Constantine, Algeria, last Friday.

Fights between Moslem and Jew are fierce while they last. Firearms, torches, knives and clubs are used ruthlessly. No quarter is given, and in every flare-up of the ancient animosities between the ill-suited neighbors there are instances, some well authenticated, of barbaric cruelties.

Even the great European powers, striking sternly with modern weapons, cannot suppress the bitterness of a hate which took root centuries ago. They restore quiet, but they do not establish peace. The fundamental differences between Jew and Moslem are racial and religious.

Jew and Moslem differ everywhere, but the heart of the quarrel and the symbol of the historic dispute is the wailing wall at Jerusalem. Access to this bit of unimpressive masonry has been the direct cause of several riots.

hope of taking off this year when the dominion weather bureau last night reported favorable conditions. They took off a few minutes after 4 a. m. (CST).

"The flight is purely personal and is being attempted as a sporting venture," Reid told reporters.

"Of course we expect to make Baghdad. We'll just keep on flying until we get there."

Reid was at the controls at the takeoff. They said they would take turns piloting.

Neither airman had had experience in long distance flying. Reid, who is 36, worked for airplane companies in Toronto and London and has had much short flight experience.

Ayling is 29 and served four years with the royal air force at Singapore. Both are single.

The plane was remodeled after the Molloons crashed in it. More powerful motor was installed in order to get the huge weight off the ground.

The present airline distance record was set by Maurice Ross and Paul Godos, of France, who flew from Floyd Bennett field, Brooklyn, to Rayack, Syria, a distance of 5657 miles, in August last year.

The American distance record was hung up by Russell N. Boardman and John Poland, in 1931, when they flew from Brooklyn to Istanbul, Turkey, a distance of 5011 miles.

THREE STATES PICK NOMINEES

(By the Associated Press)

Three states failed off-year primary ballots today and posted these apparent results:

In West Virginia—Rush D. Holt, whose age—29—is one year under the constitutional age requirement for a United States senator, wins the democratic nomination and the right to oppose Senator Henry D. Hatfield, republican, in the November election.

In Missouri—Harry S. Truman, candidate of "Boss Tom" Pendergast of Kansas City, is the democratic nominee. The republican nominee is Senator Roscoe Patterson, who was unopposed in yesterday's primary.

In Kansas—Republicans re-nominated Governor Alf Landon for a second term; Omar B. Ketchum, mayor of Topeka, wins the democratic nomination for governor. The West Virginia result means the fall campaign there will be fought out over the "new deal." Hatfield, 59 year old surgeon and former governor, has spoken sharply against some of President Roosevelt's policies. Holt is pledged to support the Roosevelt program.

Senator Hatfield gained nomination over Benjamin L. Rosenbloom, his only opponent, by an approximate 6 to 1 sweep.

Holt, a state legislator with a boyhood ambition to sit in the senate, outraced five opponents. His closest competitor was Clem L. Shaver, formerly chairman of the democratic national committee. Shaver was favored by Postmaster General Farley.

Holt contends his age would not bar him from the senate, and points out that Henry Clay was seated by the senate while under the age limit.

In Kansas, Governor Landon ran away from Dr. John B. Brinkley, "great gobbler" of medicine who lost his Kansas medical license a few years ago.

Thurman Hill, Wichita lawyer and former member of the Kansas public service commission, pressed Ketchum for the democratic nomination, but appeared unlikely to overhaul him.

MOTHER LOSES FIGHT FOR LIFE

Elizabethtown, N. Y., Aug. 8 (UP)—Mrs. Anna Antonio, lost her mother's fight today to escape death in Sing Sing prison's electric chair tomorrow night.

Supreme Court Justice O. Byron Brewer denied Mrs. Antonio's application for a new trial.

Unless Governor Lehman intervenes, Mrs. Antonio will become the first woman to be executed in New York state since Ruth Snyder.

Mrs. Antonio was convicted with Vincent Saeita and Sam Faraceli of slaying her husband, Salvatore, in a $25,000 insurance policy. The young mother, who state charged, paid the two men $800 to kill Antonio.

The condemned woman's counsel, Daniel H. Prior, based his application for a new trial on grounds he had learned the identity of a "myzterious" person who telephoned Mrs. Antonio from an Albany hospital the night her husband was found dying on a lonely road south of Albany.

TRIED TO BLACKMAIL ROGERS FOR $10,000

New York, Aug. 8 (UP)—A chauffeur formerly employed by Colonel Henry Huddleston Rogers, charged with attempted blackmail, was held by federal authorities today, charged with attempting to extort $10,000 from Rogers under threat of violence to his wife.

The suspect, John Overinger, is a native of Pueblo, Colo. He was arrested by four detectives when he called at a tailor shop to collect the money. He was charged with extortion, blackmail and violation of the federal "Lindbergh law."

Police said Overinger admitted he was the author of the plot.

Mrs. Rogers is the former Mrs. Pauline Van Der Voort Dresser. She and the oil man were married less than a year ago.

ed by building the single locks now, big enough to handle ocean vessels.

Col. Robins' full report has been sent to Washington, D. C., for the attention of the board of engineers. He said it should reach there today.

Speedy action is expected, as work on the locks is scheduled to start within a few days.

President Roosevelt, here last week, said he hoped that the army engineers, in viewing the new survey of the dam, would find it "the part of wisdom" to install locks rather than the shorter barge gates.

Col. Robins recommends a locks length of 500 feet, a depth of water of 16 feet, a width of 27 feet, and a width of 76 feet. Under existing plans for the locks, it would be 360 feet long, have a depth of water of nine feet on the sills, and a width of 76 feet which is said to be sufficient to pass 95 percent of the freighters visiting Pacific coast ports.

Col. Robins said his report "finds that the construction of a ship channel in the Columbia river between Vancouver and The Dalles does not appear justified at this time."

"However," he concluded, "the completion of approved and recommended projects, with the expected establishment of new industries along the stretch of river in question, and with the normal development of natural resources in the large tributary, will result in so much traffic that it will materialize to warrant the proposed improvement in the future."

Gasoline Racket In Schools Wiped Out

El Paso, Tex. (UP)—The state education department has put an end to a minor racket developed by school children of El Paso county. Until recently the state gave children money allowances for purchase of gasoline if they lived more than two miles from school. Many of the children pocketed the money and rode to school on burros. The state has discontinued granting of such allowances.

Mississippi Valley Dam Projects Viewed By Presidential Party

Enroute with President Roosevelt to Washington, Aug. 8 (UP)—President Roosevelt swung into the Mississippi valley today to inspect the progress of dam construction by which he hopes to rebuild the northwestern around profitable water holes.

The hope of redistribution of population to bring all families within range of profitable opportunities has been emphasized by the dust covered president on his tour through the drought area and the several gigantic federal power and irrigation projects of the western waterbeds.

Mr. Roosevelt again leaves his special train today at Rochester, Minn., to attend exercises honoring the Mayo brothers, whose internationally renowned medical clinic is established there.

From Rochester he motors to the Mississippi at Winona where the construction of the dams and locks is under progress to complete the nine foot channel in the upper Mississippi from Minneapolis to the mouth of the Missouri.

Traveling across Minnesota last night and through Mississippi, the seat of the troublesome labor dispute of this section, Mr. Roosevelt inquired into the problem but without any indication of personal intervention. Federal mediators are already at work.

With Senator Shipstead, farmer labor, and Representative Hoelke, democrat, rival candidates for the Minnesota senate election this year, the president dined and conferred on this issue.

Mr. Roosevelt left the president's train at St. Paul to hurry ahead to the White House. She has accompanied him from Portland, Oregon.

The president is leaving his special train at key points to motor far inland to federal projects and proposed federal projects.

At every turn the people are out with American flags to wave their greetings and despite the hardships found in the drought area, smiling faces have shown everywhere.

Tomorrow he visits Green Bay, Wis., where at the state centenary celebration he is expected to deliver the major speech of his tour, a speech undoubtedly dealing in part with his attitude toward the public dependents to whom he is friendly. Senator La Follette, republican independent, is up for reelection.

Water Plant

its face vests in Charles M. Thomas, state public utilities commissioner, the final say in any deal the city may make for the company's plant.

The city can negotiate from now until the end of time with the company for purchase of the properties, but until the purchase price and conditions of the sale are approved by Thomas the sale, by the language of Chapter 441, Session Laws of 1933, is null and void.

In their pertinent application to the Salem problem sections 4 and 5 of Chapter 441 read:

"Section 4. No public utility doing business in Oregon hereafter shall sell, lease, assign, mortgage or otherwise dispose of or encumber the whole or any part of its street railroad, lines, plant, system or other property whatsoever necessary or useful in the performance of its duties to the public, without first having secured from the commissioner an order approving the same and authorizing it so to do.

"Section 5. Every such sale, lease, assignment, mortgage, disposition, encumbrance, merger or consolidation made other than in accordance with the order of the commissioner authorizing the same shall be void."

So far the matter of purchase by the Oregon-Washington plant by the city has not even been taken up with Commissioner Thomas.

Chris Kowitz, city attorney, said today that Thomas has not been consulted because negotiations have never been advanced to the stage where they have a definite proposition of sale to submit to him for his approval.

Kowitz also expressed doubt if the sections of the statute above referred to "mean anything" in their application to the local situation, but other local attorneys say in these same sections the power of public dependents by Thomas over any deal that may be arranged. They hold his approval to be essential to the legality of any sale.

Further, these dissenting attorneys assert, to satisfy the spirit of the act in question it would be up to Thomas to satisfy himself by proper investigation as to the reasonableness of the purchase price involved, which to be properly determined would necessitate a detailed appraisal and evaluation of the company's plant and properties by the commissioner's engineers.

Such an appraisal would be in addition to the two or three the city has already paid for.

Request for such an appraisal and evaluation has already been made of Commissioner Thomas for the purpose of enabling the city to more accurately determine the true value of the plant, Kowitz said, adding that Thomas had offered to make the requested valuation immediately, considering the matter "out of turn," if the city would stand the expense of employing engineers to bring all necessary data up to date.

The city council has not authorized the employment of engineers for this purpose and the request for a valuation awaits the pleasure of Commissioner Thomas to be taken up in its regular turn.

Unless he should act blindly in approving whatever proposition for a sale might be submitted to him, it would require several weeks of time, at least, for Thomas to investigate and pass intelligent judgment upon any deal between the city and company. In the meanwhile the public works board back in Washington, demanding that the city acquire the property or relinquish its claim on the $2,500,000 of " earmarked " money so that it can be utilized for the relief of unemployment on other projects.
