

SOME SHADING REFLECTED IN BUTTER VALUE

Portland, Ore., May 21 (AP)—Despite the recent shading of a half cent a pound on two grades of cube butter on the produce exchange, there remains a steady to firm tone on the open market with former values well maintained.

The differential between large or special eggs and extras was reduced to 1c, the normal. The advance in specials and only 1c on extras during a previous session upset the normal differential between the two sizes although the open market failed to follow and continued its usual course.

Improved Oregon and Gold Dollar strawberries out of nearby points are becoming fairly plentiful and in some quarters there is suggestion that by the weekend the supply will fill all trade wants. Prices are lower all around.

There is a light run of salmon reported on Tillamook bay, which opened at noon yesterday for commercial fishing. Owing to the delayed arrival of halibut boats, there continues a shortage and well maintained price on halibut instead of the lower prices generally expected by the trade.

Soft shell crabs from Maryland and frozen legs from Louisiana are being offered $2.50 a dozen. Asparagus prices are about steady with a good demand.

California strawberries are down to $1.00-65 for 24s and $1.50 for 20s. Some gooseberries are being offered around 6c lb.

Local lettuce is selling around $1.75 a crate generally. Better demand for house-to-house sales has caused the price to drop.

Some good choice valencia oranges offering around $2.75-$2.90. Country killed lambs continue weak and in spots even lower. Other meats unchanged.

GREEN PRUNE PRICES SAME AS LAST YEAR

Green prune prices have been fixed on the same basis as for 1934, according to announcement by the prune control board, these prices being as follows: For prunes 12 to the pound and larger, $20 ton.

For prunes over 12 to the pound up to and including 15 to the pound, $17.50 ton. For prunes over 15 to the pound up to and including 17 to the pound, $15 ton.

For prunes over 17 to the pound, $12 ton. Last year when prices were fixed packers were dissatisfied as they were named after part of the pack had been sold but prices this year are being fixed 60 days ahead of the time they were designated last year.

These minimum prices are not based upon any grade system but are based upon "orchard run" prunes, with rotten, decayed and unmerchantable prunes out, and tolerance of such types of prunes up to five per cent permitted, but should the percentage of such prunes exceed five per cent, then the whole amount shall be deducted.

The term "unmerchantable" prunes as used herein is defined as any prune that is not suitable for canning or drying purposes. The above-named minimum prices are for all Italian prunes used for canning, or barreling except drying, during the year 1935.

Dried prunes will be named a little later. Hubbard—Berry picking may begin in another week according to local strawberry growers. Wages for pickers will possibly be from 1 1/2 to 2 cents a pound which is the same as it was during the latter part of last year's season.

HITLER SAYS GERMANY FOR WORLD PEACE

"I cannot close my address better than by repeating our confession of faith in peace." Der Fuehrer made his address, long awaited as a definite statement of Germany's relationship to the rest of the world, after receiving an ovation by hundreds of thousands of cheering Germans packing the streets outside the Kroll opera house where the reichstag assembled.

"I have the duty to speak perfectly open," Hitler told his audience—an audience which was multiplied by millions through radio. "The German nation has the right to demand this from me and I am determined to obey this demand."

"If the Germany of today favors peace, it favors it neither out of weakness nor cowardice. National socialism (the Nazi party) doctrinally declines to entertain the idea of national assimilation. We give no instructions for the Germanization of non-German names. We decree war for the subjugation of foreign people."

Then he directed his attention bluntly toward other nations saying: "If the nations are so concerned about numerically increasing their population, they can accomplish this through an increasing readiness to bring forth offspring and can, in a very few years, present their nation with more children of their own people than they could foreign people vanquished by war."

Again voicing his oft-repeated contention that Germany desires peace, Hitler declared: "Nazi Germany wants peace from a primitive realization that no war can be calculated to alleviate the essentially general European distress but would tend, on the contrary, to increase it."

"Germany of today is immersed in the tremendous work of repairing its domestic damages. None of our subjects of a factual nature will be completed before 10 or 20 years. None of our task of an ideal nature can find its fulfillment before 50 or even 100 years."

"What else could I desire but quiet and peace?" Speaking of world affairs in general, the German leader said: "For some time, the world has been living in a veritable mania of collective and cooperative effort—collective security, collective obligation, etc.—but what is the meaning of collective cooperation?"

"The present day idea of collective cooperation of nations is the spiritual progress of the American President Wilson. "But when, in 1919, the peace of Versailles was dictated to the German people, a death sentence was pronounced thereby on the collective, cooperative efforts of nations, for, in place of equality of all, there was put a classic occasion according to victors and vanquished, in place of equal rights, there was differentiation between those entitled to rights and those without rights."

Hitler then made a long denunciation of the Versailles treaty, stating: "Not only did other nations not disarm but, on the contrary, they completed and improved and thereby raised their armaments extraordinarily."

The speaker followed with a long, detailed analysis of the armaments of other European nations, saying: "In other words, what was done, not only ran counter to the intentions of President Wilson but also, according to the opinion of the most prominent representatives of the other side, violated the obligations of the Versailles treaty to which they had affixed their signatures."

"For this there was no excuse."
