Here 'n' There

ORIENTAL LIFE—has quite captivated Lillian Scott, daughter of the W. A. Scotts, who is making an interesting tour of China and Japan during the summer months. Highlights of a letter received this week written just before Lillian arrived in Shanghai, tell of the overland trip between Yokohama and Kobe and her first glimpse of Japanese life in Yokohama as she strolled down Theater street, encountering on the way just two Americans—a trek to Kamakura where she, and a group of friends, viewed the great Buddha and then on to Tokyo and the famous Imperial hotel where they saw Douglas Fairbanks, Lady Ashley, Noel Coward, well known author, and Zimbalist, renowned violinist. Of the ride from Tokyo to Kyoto she says, "the train ride was fun and it took us over seven hours to get there. . . . At Kyoto I particularly enjoyed going through the cloisonne, lacquer, and damascene factories and of course, I couldn't resist buying. . . . In eating at Japanese restaurants we kneel on the floor and eat with chopsticks. I'm getting used to them now!" From Kobe they went out to the open sea and on to Shanghai—about which we hope to hear more later.

A ROMANCE—of two Oregon States was brought to an interesting culmination in Manila recently when Miss Evelyn Walker became the bride of Norman Whitfield of Bialo, P. I. Evelyn was a Gamma Phi Beta on the Oregon State campus and a well known to the college set. Norman is now in business with his father at Bagio, which is about 50 miles from Manila, where the couple will make their home. Mrs. Whitfield, Sr., came to the states for Evelyn and a month was spent on the trip to Manila with a stop in Japan and a number of side trips to enliven the journey. Bagio, where the Whitfields will live, has the best climate in the islands, so the report goes.

GLOWING ACCOUNTS—of the national convention of the American Association of University Women held June 25 to 28 at Los Angeles are seeping back to Salem. The convention headquarters were at the Ambassador hotel and delegates from ten of the fourteen Oregon branches were present. Seven hundred and fifty voting delegates were in attendance and other 1200 people registered for the convention. . . . The topic of the session was "University Women as Makers of Social History" and two days of the convention were devoted to topics of economics and consumers interest. One day was devoted to the discussion of "Education for National Understanding and Reconstruction in the United States" and "Education for International Understanding and Reconstruction in the Independent World." Dr. Neta Glass, president of Sweet Briar college and sister of Senator Carter Glass, presided at the convention. She is the national president of the association.
