AAA APPEAL IN COURT JULY 24

The supreme court will hear the appeal on the constitutionality of the state agricultural adjustment act July 24, Chief Justice J. U. Campbell said today.

Fate of 11 codes and marketing agreements depends on the high court's decision, which may be handed down July 30 or August 6, next opinion days after the hearing

Circuit Judge Winter of Multnomah county recently held the state AAA unconstitutional. The ice cream code authority brought the suit to compel Fred Meyer, Inc., to charge 40 instead of 29 cents a quart for ice cream.

Governor Martin was active in getting the supreme court to hear the AAA appeal early.

"Realizing that the harvest season is approaching, and recognizing the necessity of those engaged in the agricultural industry of the state of having these legal questions determined early, I asked the supreme court, through the chief justice, if the hearing of the appeal on Judge Winter's decision might not be expedited." Governor Martin said

"I regret that our law was so drafted that it was subject to constitutional objection which Judge Winter has evidently found to exist. I realize that it is necessary in view of Judge Winter's decision to have these constitutional questions determined by the supreme court so we may know the length the legislature may go in inacting legislation upon this subject which will be constitutional.

"While in congress I vigorously supported the AAA, upon which our state act is based. In view of my interest in the farmers and desire to better their position, I found great satisfaction in the principle underlying the code system, confirming my judgment in supporting this concept of legislation."

SMITH SEEKING AREA OFFICES

J. E. Smith, director of the new WPA setup for eight counties to have charge of spending a liberal share of government money on work projects, announced this morning that he and Harold E. Eakin, named as finance officer for the project, have taken temporary offices in the chamber of commerce here. Eakin will be there to hear any offers for rooms for permanent headquarters of the setup which will be headquarters for the eight counties. Director Smith said they wish to secure from eight to 10 rooms, of a modern type, not in a shack, and these headquarters will probably house from 20 to 30 people.

Others who will assist Director Smith here are D. G. Metcalf, placement officer, who has been placement officer with the SERA; Tom Sheridan, engineer, who has been engineer for the SERA in one of the counties in this district, and John J. Karstetter, engineer, also connected with a government activity. Further naming of assistants and help will be made from the various counties in the district with approval of E. J. Griffith, state head of the WPA.

Director Smith today got out on the job himself on outside matters pertaining to the work.
