BROTHERS ARE UNITED

Albany—Earl Brown, 30, and a furniture finisher at the West Clinic factory here, has returned home from Portland where he spent the past several days visiting his brother, Charles, 49, whom he had never seen. Brown, who seemed a wee bit hoarse from his long visit with his brother, stated that Charles had left the parental domicile when he was 19. Soon after Charles' departure Earl was born. Last summer Earl made an attempt to get in touch with his brother, whom he had heard from, from his father, that he was on the coast—so this year the father wrote from Kansas, the old home, that Charles was in Portland. Earl, who recently came here from Los Angeles, got in touch with him and they had their first meeting last week end. Earl recognized Charles, but Charles was nonplussed when he met the train—not knowing which was his own brother.

LITTLE GIRL HOLDS POISONED CANINE

Silverton—Neighbors of a section of the South Water street district agreed, Monday evening that "the meanest man" was a dog poisoner.

Little five-year-old Jean Love and her pet dog were inseparable and both so well-behaved that they were general favorites.

John's walls attracted her friends. She held her small dog in her arms while it died from the effects of poison. She didn't want to be consoled nor does she think now that she ever wants another dog.

This is the first case of dog poisoning for several months. Owners of dogs are offering a reward or the apprehension of the poisoner.

RAM SALE RESULTS PROVE SATISFACTORY

Riddell sent four Romney.

In addition to the local men who consigned, C. J. DeArmond and County Agent J. R. Beck attended the sale. Following the sale visits were made to various range flock owners for the purpose of trying to place a number of Lincoln bucks that are available in the county this year.
