FUNDS FOR DOLE ALREADY SPENT

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—The money congress earmarked for the dole is all gone, but the new deal has power to continue such relief payments a while longer out of other funds.

Official figures disclosed today that out of $4,880,000,000 appropriated last session for work-relief, $388,000,000 already has been allotted to direct relief (popularly known as the dole). This is $9,000,000 more than congress set aside for the purpose. However, the Roosevelt administration has wide powers to shift funds from one category to another. Latest figures on the work fund, released today, showed the president had approved projects valued at $3,841,878,289. But this is a flexible list from which state administrators may select the ones they desire. It does not mean all of these projects will be carried out.

FLIER BACK AT HIS BASE PORT

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—The New York Times and The New American Newspaper Alliance reported Lincoln Ellsworth was back at his base ship, the Wyatt Berg, today after an unsuccessful attempt to fly across the Antarctic continent.

The Ellsworth plane was forced to turn back because of a broken fuel gauge.

With Herbert Hollock-Kenyon as pilot, Ellsworth had attempted to fly 2140 miles from the Weddell sea to the Ross sea. The men had taken off at 2:56 a.m. E.S.T. and he had headed toward Admiral Byrd's former base at "Little America," intending to stay in the air about 14 hours. He was aloft, however, a little more than three hours.

Ellsworth's wireless report said he had planned to claim the territory from the 80th to the 120th meridian for the United States and call it James E. Ellsworth land in honor of his father.

"Gains were rather evenly distributed among all major industrial classifications, but the sharpest improvement was noted in wood-working, cement and general commercial use," said Griffith. "While consumption increased 10.9 percent, gross revenues increased only 6.83 percent."

SANSON HELD ON COLORADO REQUEST

Suspicious of a state policeman who arrested Orval L. Sanson for having illegal license plates on his automobile, have resulted in both Sanson and the car being held for authorities at Craig, Colo.

Sanson was reported to the police November 14 as operating a car near Monmouth with a California license number, 42-282. The license plates were illegal for the reason that Sanson was gainfully employed in Oregon. The officer who arrested Sanson suspected the car had been stolen. Sanson had no certificate of title or other evidence showing he was the owner. He told the officer the car was a gift from A. A. Draughn of the Colorado town.

State police headquarters wrote to Craig authorities, and a reply received today asked that both Sanson and the car be held. Whether there is a case against Sanson in Colorado the Oregon police have not been informed.

SAILORS RETURN TO TIED-UP SHIPS

San Francisco, Nov. 21 (AP)—Sailors returned to duty today aboard three ships tied up in San Francisco harbor by demands for guarantees of round-trip transportation on trips to the Atlantic coast, the Pacific American Shipowners association reported.

The S. S. President Taft, held up for six days, sailed immediately. The freighters Flow City and Sage Brush were to get under way later.

The shipowners said the unionists withdrew their demands for "strike riders" in their contracts but indicated they would resist on inclusion of such guarantees on any vessels destined for the Gulf of Mexico, where longshoremen are on strike. The Gulf strike held four ships in San Pedro, where longshoremen refused to unload the "unfair" cargoes; the demand for a strike rider blocked sailing of the S. S. Pomona at Longview, Wash., and a dispute over destination of the oil cargo of the S. S. Oregon tied that ship up at San Pedro, employees reported.

Meanwhile the Maritime Federation of the Pacific carried its emergency convention here into another day in an attempt to decide on a policy regarding cargoes and ships bound for the Italo-Ethiopian war zone. Delegates demanded the federation forbid its longshoremen affiliates to load such ships and cargoes and its seamen members to sail ships to the war area. The question aroused considerable debate.

BLOODY RIOTING IN MANY LANDS

(By the Associated Press) Rioting, arising from a variety of grievances, broke out in widely-separated parts of the world today. In Cairo anti-British demonstrations of the past several days were continued by students and street ruffians, who observed a "day of mourning" by slashing with police and forcing shop-keepers to close their doors. Police fired over the heads of demonstrators to check a barrage of rocks.

Arabs in Haifa, Palestine, incensed over the killing of three of their race by British police, quitted the funeral of the victims to attack police at a railway station. Two policemen and two members of the Arab's mob of 2,000 were injured in the fight. Police bullets broke up the demonstration.

Students in Budapest smashed windows of Jewish-owned shops in an anti-Semitic outbreak which was quelled by police with drawn sabers. The students stormed the conservatory of music before they were dispersed and 100 of their number arrested.

There were anti-Japanese disorders in Singapore by Chinese laborers. They smashed windows in a Japanese hospital, but were routed without casualties. In Tientsin, China, advocates of north China autonomy attempted demonstrations, but were scattered by police.

WINTER TRIED ON LOTTERY CHARGE

With the defendant fighting against a conviction on a lottery charge, though he is no longer in business and a severe penalty is probably not involved, the trial of A. F. Winter is in progress in police court today.

Winter was proprietor of the dart game that operated for several weeks on State street, and which fell a victim to the crusade against games of chance that recently engulfed Salem. One of a number of charges filed against Winter was that of operating a lottery.

Presumably the dart game industry sees a menace in a possible lottery conviction which, should it be held by the higher courts, might be disastrous to dart games all over the state.

MYSTERY VEILS DEATHS DUE TO POISONED SODA

extended until Dec. 2, at the coroner's inquest.

"The salvage may have come from a railroad or a ship," Dr. Leland said. "The boxes of soda may have been smashed. A workman at Man-n-o's place told me he saw a white powder spilled over the unbroken boxes of soda. As the boxes were emptied into barrels the powder, possibly the poison may have gotten into the soda.

"There is no way left of telling how the poison got into the barrels," Dr. Leland explained. Chemists found two poisons, one of which he said would spread throughout the soda.

He asked Chicago authorities to question Howard Kaeding, reported to have been present in the Manno plant when the salvaged soda was packed in barrels. Dr. Leland hoped Kaeding would be able to give information on the mishap.

An employee at Manno's store told the coroner Kaeding never had anything to do with handling the soda. Twenty other recent deaths, preceded by symptoms that might have been caused by the poisoned soda, were ordered investigated.

It's a HIGHBALL Whiskey

TRY, PLEASE, THIS ONLY TRUE WHISKEY test

The only way to test a whiskey's quality and flavor is either in a highball or straight. Cocktails conceal a whiskey's true worth. That's why many whiskeys that "get by" in cocktails fail in the highball test.

Hiram Walker's TEN HIGH is a highball whiskey—a straight whiskey that needs no "dressing up" with other ingredients.

And you'll find that the way to make a perfect cocktail is to use a good highball whiskey. TEN HIGH!
