ITALIANS TWICE BOMBED SWEDISH RED X HOSPITAL

(Copyright, 1936, by United Press)

Addis Ababa, Jan. 6 (UP)—Italian airplanes bombed the Swedish Red Cross hospital in the Dolo area on two occasions, Dr. Fride Hylander, commandant, charged today.

He said Italian planes dropped bombs and fired machine gun bullets among the Swedish, Ethiopian and Red Cross flags marking the encampment.

The first bombardment was carried out December 22 without effect, Hylander said. He said he sent a telegram describing it to Addis Ababa but that it never reached here.

Hylander, wounded in the second bombardment—in which his colegaue, Dr. Gunnar Lundstrom, received fatal wounds—was brought here by airplane. He said today:

"The Swedish ambulance (Red Cross unit) arrived at Malka Didaka, 80 kilometres (50 miles) from Dolo on the right (southern) bank of the Doria river December 21.

"The camp was approximately 5 kilometres (3.1 miles) from the nearest of Ras Desta Demtu's troops.

"Emblems, signs and flags of the Red Cross, of Sweden and Ethiopia were visibly displayed. The Red Cross emblems were three metres (91 feet square).

"Neither armed Europeans nor armed Ethiopians were within the ambulance encampment.

JOHNSON SEES CLASS WARFARE

Chicago, Jan. 6 (AP)—Gen. Hugh Johnson, former NRA chief, sharply criticized President Roosevelt's night message to congress today and warned against a "rabble rousing rift" which he said threatens to plunge the country into a grave crisis in the coming campaign.

Class conflict, he predicted, will result from the opposing alignments of big business and administration leaders unless an understanding is reached.

Johnson, who has criticized various phases of the new deal administration since his retirement, as head of the NRA, spoke at the shoe fair here.

Commenting on the president's message, Johnson said,

"Perhaps the least considered sentence was on unemployment, 'shall we say your problem was local, except that perhaps the federal government, as an act of mere generosity will be willing to pay to your city or your county a few grudging dollars, etc.' The best answer to that is the democratic platform to which the speaker had pledged himself 100 percent to get elected. 'Extension of the federal credit to the states to provide unemployment relief whenever the diminishing resources of the state made it impossible for them to provide for the needy.'

"All this is cheap and indefensible. But if business is 97 percent against this administration, then it is natural for this administration to draw the battle lines on exactly the issue presented by business."

OVER 3 MILLION AAA TO BE OUTLAWED

Washington, Jan. 6 (AP)—The vast sweep of the outlawry today of the AAA is shown by the fact that 3,153,588 crop adjustment contracts were in effect in 1935.

The cotton program was largest in number of contracts in effect; the corn-hog program, second, and wheat, third.

The records listed the following programs with the corresponding number of contracts:

Cotton, 1,261,745; corn-hog, 920,195; wheat, 580,000; tobacco, 269,440; peanuts, 28,877; sugar beets, 68,988; sugarcane, 14,818, and rice, 9,614.

Salem Townsend club No. 6 has honored F. G. Delano with election as its president for the coming year Other new officers chosen are J. G Madon, vice-president; A. J. Montgomery, secretary, and G. A. Coffey, treasurer.

New State Marketing Act Not Affected by AAA Ruling Says Reed

The invalidation of the federal agricultural adjustment act by the supreme court of the United States today will have no direct effect upon the new marketing agreement statute passed by the special session of the Oregon legislature, A. A. Reed, chief of that division in the department of agriculture, said today.

Oregon's new act does not tie in with the federal AAA, although the national law was used as a basis for price standards, Reed said. The decision of the supreme court may influence the action as to the constitutionality of the state law, but many lawyers have already declared that to be invalid.

Reed stated a test suit has been anticipated for some time.

The new Oregon law was passed after the former one, which was tied in with the federal act, was declared invalid by the state supreme court. The new act attempted to correct the errors of the former as pointed out by the supreme court, namely the delegation of powers. The duties of the marketing board were made more specific in the new act.

"Under the Oregon decision on the former state AAA, when it held that agriculture was not of sufficient public interest to be regulated, virtually every act under which the state department of agriculture would be invalid," Reed commented. "Such acts as standards for weights, and grading of produce and the like, would be illegal."

Sponsors of the recent marketing agreement act urged the passage of the law even though there was a question as to its constitutionality. A test suit was expected to be brought soon and after it is declared invalid the new decision was to be used as a basis for a constitutional farming act for the 1937 session of the legislature.

PERKINS WARNS SHIP STRIKERS

Washington, Jan. 6 (UP) — Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins today warned Pacific coast maritime workers not to strike in their grievances against the ship owners on penalty of turning the award of the arbitration board of last April into a "scrap of paper."

Miss Perkins wrote Harry Lundeberg, president of the maritime federation of the Pacific coast, Seattle, acknowledging his charges that the western ship operators have refused to abide by the award of the arbitration board last April and added:

"No doubt you are aware that the ship owners in numerous communications also claim that they have been similarly grieved by violation of other sections of the award, in that the maritime crafts have resorted to strike and walkouts without regard to the arbitration clauses.

"It is therefore imperative, if the ward is to be anything but a scrap of paper, that both parties to it must recognize the vital importance of those clauses in the award under which the parties thereto agreed to submit their differences to arbitration. Unless employers and employes recognize the moral obligation arising out of the signing of a contract there can be no promise of stability of industrial relations on the Pacific coast maritime industry."

Miss Perkins said she understood the maritime union have persistently refused to submit their grievances to arbitration. She urged that they allow the department of labor to act as mediator.

WILD SCENES IN VARIOUS EXCHANGES

(By United Press)

Invalidation of the agricultural adjustment administration act today brought wild scenes into the cotton and other commodity markets and sent the stock market soaring in such active trading that tickers fell far behind.

Stocks gained 1 to more than 3 points in issues that would benefit by the AAA decision. Processing company issues such as the foods and packers were best performers. Slight losses were noted in issues whose companies cater to farm demand including mail order and farm implements.

Cotton soared $1.50 a bale on heavy short covering and general buying. Wheat at Chicago spurted nearly 2 cents a bushel in active trading, and then turned quiet.

Sugar futures declined 9 to 13 points since the Jones-Costigan act which has benefitted the sugar market is directly tied up with the AAA.

ASK CONGRESS TO PROBE TOWNSEND

Washington, Jan. 6 (UP)—A resolution calling for a congressional investigation of the Townsend old age pension organization was introduced in the house today by Representative Marion Zioncheck. (D., Wash.).

The resolution called for a special committee to investigate all old age pension organizations, "rackets and schemes."

AMENDMENT NOW PROPOSED

Washington, Jan. 6 (AP)—A hint of a constitutional amendment emerged today from the comment that swirled on Capitol hill in the wake of the supreme court's invalidation of AAA.

Senator Norris of Nebraska, republican progressive veteran who supported President Roosevelt, said that if the AAA "is beyond repair, it will be a terrible thing." He added:

"A constitutional amendment may be the only remedy, and with the opposition of political leaders that would be almost impossible to get."

Others heard from:

Speaker Byrns: "It will be the intent and desire of congress to preserve the law as far as can be done under the constitution, because it has been one of the most helpful ever enacted for the farmers."

Representative Bankhead, the democratic leader: "Distressing and disappointing to those of us who supported the AAA legislation."

Representative Hope (D.-Kas.): "It will be difficult in my judgment to find a substitute which will be as fair and effective means of raising funds for benefit payments under the AAA."

Representative Treadway (R.-Mass.): "Blame still rests squarely with the administration for this and other unconstitutional legislation."

Representative Fred Cummings (D.-Colo.) said that if the supreme court's AAA decision meant the present sugar production quotas could not be maintained, it would mean "chaos to the sugar industry."

50 YEARS OF SALEM RELATED BY HENDRICKS

Robert J. Hendricks, addressing the Chamber of Commerce today on "Salem As I Knew It 50 Years Ago," said that in his 51½ years in this city he had written millions of words about the possibilities and opportunities of Salem and the Willamette valley, "and I take back not a syllable nor eliminate a line of it," he declared.

Mr. Hendricks was introduced by C. P. Bishop, 45 years a merchant of Salem, who paid high tribute to Mr. Hendricks as a power in the building up of the community. He gave him credit for saving the Thomas Kay Woolen mills to the city after that industry's disastrous fire many years ago.

In the course of his remarks Mr. Hendricks declared that "if E. H. Harriman had lived a little longer Salem would be the center of a flax industry doing an annual business of $100,000,000 and woud be a city of over 100,000 population."

Commenting on the woolen mills incident Mr. Hendricks mentioned his successful fight for a $20,000 subsidy to the mill by the city.

"That," he aided regretfully, "is something that the people here will not do now. Salem has just as good people as it ever did, but there is something lacking that causes a lack of confidence in the future."

Mr. Hendricks, commenting on the coming of new inventions and machinery to Salem, mentioned four or five men who were the first automobile owners in the city. "Joe Albert and I," he said, "owned the first typewriters in Salem."

As a newspaper publisher Mr. Hendricks said he made some of the bitterest enemies of his career by advocating a city ordinance to prohibit livestock and poultry running at large on the streets, and by advocating a bridge for vehicles across the Willamette river. The reason for the latter opposition, he said, was that several large fortunes have had their foundation in the river ferry business.

Marriage licenses have been applied for as follows: Austin N. Walker, 26, night watchman, 835 Union and Helen Myers, 22, housekeeper, 575 Marion, both Salem; George M. Bales, 26, kitchen help, Portland, and Ida Baker, 25, housekeeper, 827 N. Liberty, Salem; Frederick W. Bohle, 29, barber, Neskowin, and Helen Hatfield, 20, housekeeper, Cloverdale.
