College Capers

by HOPE CHAMBERLIN

Oregon State College, Corvallis, Feb. 12 (Special)—With mid-terms out of the way and students becoming a little more carefree, the campus social schedule is again coming into its own. A student body dance was the means used by the students to celebrate their basketball victory over the University of Oregon last Saturday night. The dance honored members of both teams, with Eddie Burke's orchestra from Portland, furnishing the music. The ballroom was crowded to capacity with students from both institutions.

With basketball holding a prominent place in the activity interest these days, each week-end is awaited for anxiously, students knowing it will have a lively program in store. Washington State's basketball five invaded the campus Friday for the two game series Friday and Saturday nights. Another student body dance will be featured after the game Saturday.

Teas, art exhibits, plays, banquets and all the other activities that make up the daily merry-go-round of college life are occupying the minds of the students at present. Omicron Nu, national honor society in art, will be the sponsor of an exhibit of paintings on Sunday afternoon, February 23—the Workshop Theater has been the scene recently for many one act plays—the International banquet, honoring foreign students on the campus, will be an event of this coming Friday night. Last but not least, the long-awaited event of the year by the fairer sex will take the spotlight the last day of the month—the annual women's ball, a formal co-ed invitational affair. Excitement of preparations is already beginning.

Salem students have been just as busy as the rest, perhaps more so. At any rate, indications of the numbers working on committees leads one to believe that they have not been having many free hours to while away. Katherine Miller, Zora Berry, Velma May, Eleanor Chadwick, Mary Jane Adams, Laneta Bellinger and Catherine Dallas are names that appeared in connection with committee work for the Home Interests conference which started Tuesday. Jack Poulin held the position of business manager on the staff of this term's edition of the college directory—Winston Williams plays one of the main characters in the coming Mask and Dagger production, "Three Corners Moon." Bud Mercer took a prominent part in recent intramural matches. The low down on Salemites attending Oregon State is that you can't pick up a paper and read about any "goings on" but what you find their names mentioned. In collegiate lingo we would say, "Nice going!"

Friends are greeting Mrs. Kate Pemberton upon her return from a several months' visit in Indiana and Ohio. While east she was the guest of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hare (Katherine Pemberton).

Aurora—Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Hendricks of Salem visited relatives here Saturday afternoon.

Chapter Installed At Lebanon

State-wide interest was evinced Wednesday in the installation of the James Knox Weatherford chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at Lebanon. Among those motoring to Lebanon from Chemeketa chapter at Salem were Mrs. C. C. Geer, regent, Mrs. V. E. Newcomb, Mrs. I. M. Schanep and Mrs. R. M. Morton.

State officers and regents were present from Oregon City, Albany, Woodburn, Corvallis and McMinnville. The Lebanon chapter is the 29th to be granted a charter in the state.

Mrs. Anna Brand Reed of Lebanon, 94 years old and who recently celebrated her 75th wedding anniversary, is a charter member of the chapter there. There were 13 charter members in all.

Yesterday's affair was held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Griffith Cogswell, organizing regent, whose home is directly across from the historic old Sautin academy site.

Miss Helen Crawford gave a biography of John Knox Weatherford.

Mrs. Sarah Penny Complimented

Mrs. Ben Walcher entertained at a prettily appointed luncheon Monday in compliment to Mrs. Sarah Penny on the occasion of her 74th birthday anniversary.
