

OAKLAND MAINTAINS PLACE AT TOP COAST LEAGUE

DUCK MANAGER PROTESTS USE POOR UMPIRES

(By the Associated Press)

Through lights, protests and the season's longest game the Oakland ball club stood sturdily at the head of the Pacific coast league pennant race.

The Acorns and the Portland Beavers saw-sawed through 11 weary innings lasting a full three hours before the Beavers took yesterday's opener 11 to 7. Floyd Olds started the visitors on their fourth eleven-inning runs by walking four men. Six pitchers yielded 32 hits including a homer by Chris Hartje, Oakland catcher.

A three run seventh inning rally, which the fans thought would be a great shower of pillows, gave the Oaks the relatively short nightcap, 8-7, Oakland won 6-5 Saturday.

It's by "the poorest umpiring I have ever seen in my 18 years of baseball," Manager Max Bishop of the Beavers protested to league President W. C. Tuttle. Portland lost the series five games to two, dropping most of the games by one run margins.

Fine four-hit pitching by Henry Rippen stopped Sacramento's 7 game losing streak and ended Seattle's successive wins at 9 games. He hurled the Senators to a 2-1 win Saturday. His teammates repeated in the Sunday opener 5-3, making all their runs off three hits in the first frame. Clarence Pickrelt allowed the Senators only three hits and one unearned run as he took the seven inning second game for the tribe 4-1.

The third fine pitching job of the week-end was turned in by Hugh Casey of Los Angeles, when he stopped the Missions 5-1 in the Sunday opener. He set the Reds up with one run without a hit in the first frame then bore down to allow only five singles. Walter Beck, supposed ace of the Mission mound staff, finally broke into the win column in the afternoon as the Reds won 8-4.

The Missions won 8 to 7 Saturday and the series 4 games to 3.

San Diego came out with its first series, 4 to 3, by taking all three week end games from the San Francisco Seals. They won Saturday's track meet 23-4 and Sunday's opener 6 to 5. Ernie Folman's four pit swat in the sixth decided the nightcap 3-2.

Worthy of mention is the return of Sacramento shortstop Sid String, fellow to the error column after two perfect days. He booted three out of the week-end, leaving him two shy of an error a game for the season.

The standings:

Clubs	W	L	Pct
Oakland	12	4	.750
Seattle	10	6	.625
San Francisco	7	7	.500
San Diego	7	10	.412

Youngest Webfoot Grid Team Facing Heaviest Schedule in History

University of Oregon, Eugene, April 13—Oregon's entry in the 1936 coast conference football race, facing the heaviest schedule in Webfoot history, stacks up as the youngest eleven ever to represent the Eugene school.

Out of the 48 men who are now working under Head Coach Frank Callison 34 are classed as sophomores with three years of competition left, nine are juniors and five are seniors. Fourteen of these men have earned letters, half that number serving as regular last fall. Fourteen other 1935 letter winners have finished their college playing days.

Heading the list of returning veterans are Captain Del Bjork, John Engstrom and Kenyon Skinner, all tackles; Ed Farrar and Vern Moore, centers; Jone Houston, Tony Amato and Bill Estes, guards; Leif Jacobson, end, and Bob Braddock, Dale Lassenle and Bud Goodin, backs.

Weak spots loom at both ends, where Stan Riordan and Budd Jones are gone, and at quarterback and fullback, where John Reischman and Frank Michek wound up three years of play last fall. All the other posts, at least on the first string combination, are slated to be filled by experienced men.

Farrar and Moore, alternate regulars last fall, will top the center corps, aided by two experienced reserves in Chandler Berry and Denny Braid. The pivot post should be one of Oregon's strongest points next fall.

Amato, chunky Italian who won a right guard berth last fall as a sophomore, and Joe Houston, stepping into the large shoes of Ross Carter, 1935 all-coaster, at left guard, are probable regulars. Bill Estes, 1935 pound letterman from 1934, and eight husky sophomores, John Belding, 185; Bob Hoyt, 186; Jim Dinitz, 180; Nello Giovanini, 186; Hal Niemi, 180; John Pastega, 180; Merle Peters, 195, and Elmer Williams, 193, are vying for runner-up posts.

Callison will spend little time worrying over tackle prospects with Bjork and Skinner, 1935 regular, back for another season, and John Engstrom, Pat Furry, Bill Fostek and Chuck Shimomura, all holdovers for reserve duty. Cliff Morris, 223, and Joy Smith, 210, are leading sophomore aspirants.

Leif Jacobson, last year underdog to Budd Jones at right end, is the only returning letterman wingman. Leonard Holland, 195, and Jerry Calhoun, 175, are inexperienced reserves. The only bright spot here is a list of talented freshmen products who may blossom into varsity material. They include Melvin Engel, Bob Hinman, Hank Nilson, Leonard Robertson and John Yerby, all huskies.

The vacant quarterback post will undoubtedly fall to Don Kennedy, who spent last season as an unknown 155 pound halfback but who now weighs around 180 and tops all his teammates as a blocker and tackler. Lee Canessa, 180 pound regular from the 1934 freshman team, and Jean Lacau, 200, and Ernie Robertson, 180, sophomores, are other quarterback candidates.

Dale Lassell, the shifty 165 pound Portlander who filled in at left half throughout the 1935 season, is a favorite to cop the spot again, although he is certain to find unusually tough competition from three outstanding freshman products. The new men are Jimmy Nicholson, 175 pound triple threat star from Salem; Dave Gammon, pile-driving, Portland, and Tom Blackman, rangy punting artist from Walla Walla.

The right halfback job is certain to go to Bob Braddock, hard running holdover regular. His understudies will include Bob Anet, slippery 170 pound Astorian, and Al Bogue, fleet southpaw passer from Prairie City, both sophomores. Goodin, the "hard luck" player of last year's Webfoot team, will make a try at fullbacking next fall, with a big reserve and four newcomers ready to step in should he again succumb to injuries. The reserve is Chuck Bracher, 195; Arleigh Bentley, 183, punting star, is a transfer from Glendale Junior College, and Fred Buroker, 180, Cliff Strom, 190, and Cece Walden, 200, are sophomores.

Officiating Brings Howl From Bishop

Portland, Ore., April 13 (AP)—The Portland coast league baseball team was up in arms today over what Manager Max Bishop described the poorest umpiring he ever saw.

The Portland Beavers lost four games at Oakland last week by one-run margins.

"In my 18 years of baseball I have never experienced such poor umpiring as we are getting in Oakland," Bishop wired the Portland Oregonian sports department.

"Our club has not played the best ball in the world, but still we should have won three games here that were lost due to terrible decisions by umpires Ghenshela and Stewart. I have phoned (league) President Tuttle to ask for a change in umpires. I fear someone is going to take a beating if these decisions continue."

Third baseman Fred Bedore, Catcher Earl Brucker and First Sacker Bill Sweeney of the Portland club all said the umpiring was the worst they ever saw.

GEESE FLYING HIGH TO FEEDING GROUND

Independence—Several flocks of Geese have been flying northward in the last two days which, according to old prognosticators, is a foreboding sign. They are flying very high which would also indicate that they are going out of the country to their summer feeding grounds.

The warm weather of the past two days has caused a desire within a number of our citizens to plant gardens, trim shrubbery and otherwise clear away the debris left from a long winter.

Work in the hop fields is attracting some attention although the ground is still plenty wet. Work of repairing trellis and clearing away the drift left by the high waters of the winter, and fixing up fences is giving work to quite a number of unemployed. Where the soil is more sandy, ploughing of hops is going forward. This would all further indicate that spring has arrived at last.

ORIENTALS IN ARENA BATTLE

The battle of the Orient, with Dai Sugi, Lake Labish Japanese grappler, and Walter Tinkit Achiu, Chinese mat performer, pitted against each other, will feature Tuesday night's wrestling show at the armory. Achiu is making his first appearance in the Salem arena in a number of months. During his appearances here about a year ago he specialized in somenbergs. Since then, however, he probably has added to his bag of tricks. Sugi employs a drop kick to flatten his opponents.

Bill Bauer and Ben Sherman will be used in the 45 minute special event while Buck Lawson, a Greco-Roman, and Thunderbolt Pete, red-skin muscle massager, will entertain the fans in the preliminary.

George Erickson, starting Willamette hurler in the final game, returned from centerfield and fanned the final Oregon State batsman after the Beavers got to Nunnenkamp, Willamette relief moundsman, for five runs in the ninth inning. Three walks, Woerner's single with the bases full and Conkling's home run featured the rally.

SILVER FOXES PLAY WOODBURN TUESDAY

Silverton—The Silver Foxes, after winning a double header with Newberg last Tuesday on their home field, are looking forward to one of the big games of the season tomorrow with the Bulldogs of Woodburn and Woodburn. Both of the baseball games played last year between Silverton and Woodburn were close and full of thrills. It is thought that this game will be no exception.

It is rumored that either Schwab or Olsen will pitch with Pettyjohn, High, and Hattberg in reserve. With the coming of better baseball weather, practice has been more regular and the boys are in great shape. Tuesday's game should be a real classic.

Guy W. DeLay is coach.
