COMEDY TEAM HEADING BILL FOR TWO DAYS

One of the funniest comedy teams since the popular Marie Dressler-Polly Moran days will be seen in "Doughnuts and Society," a Mascot production which opens at the Capitol theatre in a double feature bill Tuesday and Wednesday.

Introducing a brand new comedy team in the persons of Miss Fazzenda and Miss Eburne, the entertaining story revolves around their efforts to forsake a coffee shop business to embark on a career in society. When they crash the "400," laughs follow in rapid-fire fashion. Eddie Nugent and pretty Ann Ruth-erford essay the romantic leads, while others in the cast include Hedda Hopper and Franklin Pangborn.

The action-filled blast at the legal "mouthpieces" of gangland by Eric Stanley Gardner, which ran serially in the magazine, "This Week under the title, "Fugitive Gold," now comes to the screen as Richard Dix's new photoplay, "Special Investigator." And the gun battles and tense situations which are part and parcel of his romantic drama strengthen Gardner's reputation as a writer of thrilling fiction, as established by his series of popular mystery stories, "Case of the Lucky Legs," "Case of the Howling Dog," "Case of the Curious Bride," and their companion volumes.

STEEL MAY FACE DEMPSEY PROTEGE

Seattle, July 13 (AP)—Out of a welter of eastern fight offers, Freddie Steele, Tacoma battler who won the world's middleweight championship from "Babe" Risko Saturday night, today appeared headed for a quick defense of his title against Jack Dempsey's up-and-coming protege, Ken Overlin.

Nate Druxman, Seattle promoter who arranged the Risko-Steele bout, disclosed the was negotiating with Overlin's managers for an early championship bout.

Druxman said both Madison Square Garden and the 20th Century club of New York were competing for Steele's services, which grew immeasurably more valuable as a result of the new champion's knock-down punch to Risko's face in the first round, a punch from which Risko never quite recovered through the 13 rounds of the fight.

The score sheet gave Steele seven rounds, Risko four, and four even.
