ENROLLMENT OF 275 OVER THAT OF 1935

takes the place of the discarded Park and Lincoln scholos, is located in a section where many families secure work in the hop field and prune orchards. A substantial increase in the registration at Bush is expected during the next two weeks.

Reflecting a substantial growth on the part of the city in general, the enrollment of first graders was up 76 over the first day last year. During the past four or five years there had been little or no increase in the grade school enrollment. Beginners registered today totalled 364 as compared with 288 a year ago.

At the senior high school there was a registration this morning of 1389, an increase of 112. Parrish, too, displayed a decided upturn with 911 registered as against 870 a year ago. The increase at Leslie junior high where a much enlarged plant greeted the faculty and students was not so marked, the figures being 368 for this year as against 383 in 1935.

Crowded conditions will prevail at the senior high building since the new structure will not be available during the first semester at least.

Opening day enrollments during the past nine years follow: 1928, 4135; 1929, 3900; 1930, 4042; 1931, 4443; 1932, 4361; 1933, 4350; 1934, 4505; 1935, 4469; 1936, 4744.

SEEK TAXES ON MULKEY BLOCK

The state board of control, cooperating with the city of Portland, reopened the move today to collect taxes and assessments against the three story Mulkey building in Portland which was bequeathed the state upon the death of Marshall Armstrong, the sole heir, who has a life tenancy in the property.

Commissioner R. E. Riley and City Attorney Frank Grant of Portland appeared before the board and stated the tenant has refused to pay $2,836 in assessments and $4,261 in taxes, but retains all the income from the property.

Appointment of a receiver to collect the rentals and apply them on the indebtedness was suggested, and the board moved to ascertain from the attorney general what steps could be taken.

The property, valued at $55,000 was bequeathed the state by the late Frank M. Mulkey as a probable state office building in Portland, after the death of the heirs whom he granted life interest. The state legislature accepted the gift and placed the control in the hands of the board of control.

Investigation was also ordered by the board to study the possibility of reconstruction into a state office building. Armstrong recently rejected the proposal.

Continuation of—
Water Pipe

bably tomorrow the Steel Pipe & Tank corporation of Portland will begin laying approximately 4000 feet of 36-inch steel pipe from the river to east city limits of Stayton. By October 1 the National Tank & Pipe company of Portland is expected to begin laying over 4000 feet of 42-in. creosoted Douglas fir pipe from the infiltration gallery to connect with the steel pipe under the river. The other big job slated for the next two weeks will be construction of the 100,000 gallon steel water tower for high level usage adjacent to the reservoir. This work will be done by the Seattle Boiler Works.

A trenching machine is now working 16 hours a day on excavation for pipe on the island. The work is being rushed to keep ahead of the rainy season.

Kern & Kibbe, who have the contract for construction of the reservoir, expect this week to start pouring concrete for the cover of the east half of the big structure.

Improvements Noted

West Salem — With bean harvest over the men are turning their time to improving their places. New barns, new roofs, additional roooms added, many new changes are being made, while the women folks are winding up the canning and pickling, so they can get out the quilt pieces and looking forward to the quiltings and different clubs to begin again.

LEGION HEARS PLEA OF CHIEF TO AVERT WAR

summer the convention of the republicans, Townsendites and Coughlinites. The balcony filled slowly.

After the Rev. Thomas D. Kennedy, national chaplain, delivered the invocation Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio gave the first welcoming address.

Gov. Davey launched an attack on the Veterans of Future Wars, which he described as an organization of university students designed "to make a mockery of the things you fought for."

He drew applause with the remark, "the Veterans of Future Wars were organized to sneer at the service of the men who risked their all; millions of men resent that sneer."

"They express a disrespect for the things we stood for; perhaps it is because they were in their cradles and they do not understand."

Moyor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland said Cleveland "was glad to be the first city in the nation to entertain this great convention the second time."

Responding to the address of welcome U. S. Senator Bennett C. Clark, past national commander, said 1936 probably was "the greatest year in the history of the American Legion."

"The great climax of this year were the efforts of Commander Murphy for legislation sponsored by the Legion to the end that the United States may keep out of future wars," Senator Clark said.

"The next session of congress will enact legislation for taking the profit out of war. The American Legion is not a military, fascist organization, but is made up of men who have proved their patriotism and do not have to prove their devotion to the constitution of the United States."

Murphy said:

"It is a tragic thought that the 'war to end war,' which we fought in 1917 and 1918, was in truth the awful beginning of a series of conflicts that may end wars only because there is no longer resource to carry them on, no longer men to fight, no longer the will to live."

Murphy declared to the demonstrative Legionnaires who crowded public hall for their opening session.

"What a pity that the fine and fleeting vision of world peace so nobly conceived by our war president could not have been captured and moulded into actuality. It was not. Today we look out upon a world of men and nations gone mad.

"Guard against war through defense that will discourage attack, that will repel aggression and invasion; guard against war through neutrality that refuses to make other nations' quarrels our own, that is willing to endure the sacrifice of apparent profit through belligerent trade in the interest of greater peace. • • •

"If war comes, in spite of peaceful example, in spite of our will and determination to give no cause for war, in spite of our desire to deal fairly and live peacefully, if war must come, let it be the business of the nation.

"Let our every resource be available to the nation's defense! Let no one gain from the sacrifice of the men and women who toil that the armies and the navy may be fed, that the belching guns may be supplyied! In brief, let the profit be taken out of war," the Legion's commander said.

Murphy, whose address was made in presenting his annual report, made public Saturday night, recommended "let every man and woman in America study your program for peace.

"Let them suggest, if they can, a better plan, based upon the stark realities of the day and the very hour, and failing that, let them join with the American Legion in pressing with unrelenting vigor and determination for the enactment of legislation that, if it cannot insure peace, will help to prevent war from coming to America."

Demos Open Drive

Corvallis— Democrats of Benton county have planned a meeting for Monday evening in the court room, when business at hand will be discussed and plans made for a campaign in this county during the last remaining weeks preceding the voting period in November.

West Stayton—Mr. and Mrs. Kelly of Waldport were weekend guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kohl. Ruth Kohl came home with them. She has been vacationing there for several weeks. Ruth entered her second year of high school at Stayton.

ing fascists but most of their shells went wide of the mark in the murk of a driving rain. Gen. Jose Asensio, commander of all governmen troops in central Spain, ordered hasty entrenchments dug for a pitched battle and a radio appeal summoned all government reserves to their barracks to await orders.

Capture of Maqueda would place the insurgents in a strategic position for assaults on both Madrid and Toledo. It is a junction of two main highways, one leading northeast to Madrid, the other southeast to Toledo.

Despite the explosion of two one-ton dynamite mines which crumpled the stone and mortar walls of the Alcazar into a powdery debris, the insurgents sent a steady stream of machine gun bullets and grenades from behind their shattered walls. Government commanders, alarmed at the increasing death toll in their own ranks, ordered a "no quarter" infantry charge.

Insurgents in the northwest captured Arpelta, 17 miles west of San Sebastian in a victorious drive toward Bilbao, diplomatic dispatches said. Other columns swept on Azcoita and Motrico.

Government forces were reported hampered by lack of ammunition.

A dispatch to the newspaper Diario Noticias, in Lisbon, Portugal, said the Spanish government cruiser Jaime I, three destroyers and a submarine had hoisted a white flag off Tangier and had proceeded to insurgent-held Ceuta, Spanish Morocco.
