

LANDON CHATS FOR HOUR WITH FDR ON KIDDIES

"Did the president say he was sorry you didn't win?"

"He didn't have any ideas about that."

Landon was in a jovial mood as he entered and left the White House. Dozens of stenographers and clerks strove to get a glimpse of him.

Smiling broadly, the governor drove to the executive offices in the automobile of William Castle, Jr., under-secretary of state in the Hoover administration.

After posing for dozens of photographs, Landon greeted a woman correspondent for a Maine newspaper, Elizabeth May Craig.

"Well," he said smiling, "if I'd known you were here I would have had some news for the boys."

When a photographer tugged at Landon's sleeve for one more picture, he took the arm of the woman reporter and said:

"Wait a minute, this is Maine, you know."

As cameras clicked a flash light bulb burst, causing the governor to remark:

"Now we don't want any accidents boys; I got through the campaign all right."

Mr. Roosevelt invited his former republican opponent to call shortly after the latter's arrival from Baltimore where he was a guest last night at a dinner of renowned Maryland fans.

Both winner and loser will make "off the record" speeches at tonight's dinner of the strident club.

OILING OF FAIRVIEW AVENUE PETITIONED

A petition bearing a long list of signatures headed by T. M. Hicks has been filed with the county court asking for consideration of Fairview avenue just south of the city limits for oiling in next year's program.

The petition states that this is the shortest direct connection between the Pacific highway and South 12th and considering the length of the street there will be more property owners and taxpayers benefited than on any other road in the county. The distance is but a half a mile, they state, and there are 34 homes, including 14 new homes built during the past two years. The road is used for passenger cars and commercial trucks which drive at a high rate of speed on the loose gravel road constituting a menace to life, especially to school children, which would be obviated by a new grading and the oiling of the road.

HOW TO SAVE ON DOCTOR BILLS

The one safe way to save on Doctor bills is to visit your Doctor—or call him in—at the first indication that all is not as it should be. Often his timely counsel may save a long and costly illness. It's poor economy to try to do your own prescribing.

And when your Doctor gives you a prescription, be sure to bring it to this Drug Store. Our registered pharmacists will fill it exactly as he directs. Our stocks are large and complete; our prices are always fair.

NURSERY SCHOOL GETS FOOD SUPPLY

The Salem nursery school conducted at Highland grade building under cooperation of the federal government and the local district, is richer by 125 cans and jars of a wide variety of fruits and vegetables due to the generosity of members of the Home Economics club of Salem high school. The club arranged a "tin can" dance, with each member permitted to invite two guests. The dance was held during the regular club period.

Only one can out of the entire lot was found not suitable for the children who will be served. This was replaced by a can of soup from the regular stock of the club. Mrs. Edna Creech, head of the home economics department, stated today it is planned to make an annual affair out of the event.

Children of families where food is none too plentiful or where the man and woman are compelled to work, are taken care of in the nursery school where they are given their lunches, take their naps and are privileged to play many games.

Only three patents were granted during the first year after the patent act became effective in the United States.

COURT PUTS O.K. ON NEUTRALITY EMBARGO ACT

court on strictly constitutional grounds.

The court declared flatly that President Roosevelt's discretionary powers were much greater in foreign affairs than in domestic matters.

The court's opinion was presented in an attack on the embargo involved at the time of the war between Paraguay and Bolivia. The attack was instituted by several firms and individuals accused of violating provisions against arms dealings with the warring nations.

Justice James C. McReynolds dissented from the court's ruling. The majority opinion said:

"It is contended that by the joint resolution the going into effect and the continued operation of the resolution was conditioned:

(A) Upon the president's judgment as to its beneficial effect upon the reestablishment of peace between the countries engaged in armed conflict in the Chaco.

(B) Upon the making of a proclamation, which was left to his unfettered discretion, thus constituting an attempted substitution of the president's will for that of congress.

(C) Upon the making of a proclamation putting an end to the operation of the resolution, which again was left to the president's unfettered discretion.

(D) Further, that the extent of its operation in particular cases was subject to limitation and exception by the president, controlled by no standard.

"In each of these particulars, appellants urged that congress abdicated its essential functions and delegated them to the executive."

The court said it was not necessary to rule whether the resolution would be valid if it had related solely to internal affairs.

It said the question was whether the resolution could be sustained as lawful because it dealt with foreign affairs "assuming (but not deciding) that the challenged delegation, if it were confined to internal affairs, would be invalid."

WOMEN BACK ARMY OF REDS

Moscow, Dec. 21 (AP)—The Red army is backed in full by the women of Russia, Klement Voroshilov, war commissar, said today in a speech to the congress of Red army officers' wives.

"If a class enemy dares to attack the Soviet union," Voroshilov said, "he will meet alongside the invincible Red army the overwhelming force of our mothers, wives and sisters."

"Beside the grave Red army stands another remarkable army of great power, inexhaustible energy and militant initiative—the women's army, consisting of the mothers and sisters of our commanders."

"The Red army is not only a school for teaching how to conquer an enemy with the least possible bloodshed, but also to perfect the country's cultural work. In all this

Iron By-Product is Turned Into Profit

Milwaukee, Dec. 21 (AP)—Cast iron borings, an unusual by-product in many Milwaukee and nearby factories, are being "pounded" into useful, solid metal briquets at a plant here, believed to be the first commercial metal briquetting concern in the United States.

The briquets are sold to foundries which re-melt them and reuse the metal.

Before formation of the company Nov. 1, the borings had to be transported long distances to steel mills.
