RETURN FROM KANSAS
Silverton—Mr. and Mrs. J. D. returned from a two-months' stay Rodgers of 606 Jefferson street have in Topeka, Kansas, where they were guests of Rodgers' sister, Mrs. S. M. Wiofard. They returned by way of Los Angeles. They reported the weather splendid in Kansas with the cold snap just beginning as they left for home. The Rodgers made the trip by automobile.

MARTIN FIRM FOR ECONOMY ALL ALONG LINE

men, proposes to determine:
1. If Governor Martin meant just what he said in his biennial message when he admonished the legislators to impose no new tax burdens upon the people and to restrict appropriations to available revenues.
2. What additional or decreased tax levies the tax committees of the house and senate contemplate, to fix approximate total revenues.
3. What amount is necessary to meet the fixed and unvarying expenses of the state.

Governor Martin answered the first of these questions in no uncertain terms this morning when he declared:

"I mean absolutely what I said in my message. I am not playing horse and I do not propose to play politics with the legislature.

"The budget as submitted provides adequately for all of the necessary expenses of government and leaves the legislature a margin of nearly $500,000, within the margin of present revenues, to play with. It makes adequate provision for the restoration of salaries and covers all of the essentials the legislature will be called upon to finance. The budget is not mandatory upon the legislature but is simply submitted for their guidance. It is their duty to change or amend it in whatever manner they find necessary."

Governor Martin pointed out that the budget had been prematurely and unjustly criticized without a full understanding of its provisions.

He pointed out that full provision had been made for the restoration of salaries of the members of the faculty of the university, college and normal schools to the extent of $650,000, but that the original request of the state board of higher education for an additional $1,300,000 had not been approved.

A measure seeking to classify conditional sales contracts as chattel mortgages, and as such subject to foreclosure, was introduced in the brief morning session of the house of representatives by Rep. Fred Harrison, Linn county.

Affecting especially those parties to small sales contracts, a similar bill was defeated at the 1935 session of the Oregon legislature. Representative Harrison today indicated that he anticipated considerable opposition to the bill.

As a part of the proposed measure, conditional sales contracts in order to insure validity of their lien, must be filed, and a chattel lien placed on the article.

The session also saw the introduction of two bills similar to ones introduced earlier in the senate, and a number of bills of sectional interest.

Representative Russell Hogan, Multnomah county, dropped a bill into the hopper providing for the appointment of democratic committeewomen to function on the same basis as committeemen. A similar measure made its appearance in the senate Monday.

A bill prohibiting advertising of alcoholic liquor in newspapers, periodicals, on billboards, and by radio was sponsored by Representatives Harrison and W. H. Miller, the latter of Grants Pass. This also was a duplication of a senate measure.

Representative Clarence F. Hyde, Lane county legislator, put forward a bill changing the hours of business in Lane county court house, so that it would function during the noon hour, but could be closed Saturday afternoon.

The Multnomah law library was hit in a measure introduced by Representative A. M. Eson, Portland. The proposed measure would remove case fees as a part of the library's revenue. Eson held that the library, as a private corporation, was not entitled to this source of revenue.

CHINOOK WIND GENTLE RAINS MELTING SNOW

ficulty in keeping the thoroughfares clear.

Light snow fell at Baker as the temperature mounted. West snow slushed down at Pendleton and one observer remarked "It looks like it might keep up forever." The weather moderated slightly at La Grande after spilling four inches of snow during the night and this morning. Three inches fell at Meacham. All roads remained open. Klamath Falls had a minimum of 2 above. Snow was falling.

The thermometer didn't get below 31 degrees at Salem. Rain appeared on the way. Warm winds and rain reduced the hard-paced snow covering Portland. Showers fell along the coast and Astoria watched its snow blanket run-off into the gutters.

Storm warnings fluttered along the coast north of San Francisco.

The United States weather bureau forecast rains and rising temperatures in the west tonight and Thursday and snow in the east.

Wind which swung from the south instead of the north or east brought relief today from the cold snap which has held full sway for the past week with the mercury varying only 3 degrees since the maximum of 31.3 degrees was reached Tuesday afternoon. The minimum temperature last night was 31 degrees.

Shortly before midnight a light snow started to fall but this quickly changed to rain which fell during the morning. The maximum temperature was reached about 1 o'clock this morning.

The weather is greatly in contrast with the low temperatures ranging from 6.16 to 15 degrees above zero which have prevailed during the past week.

The rain practically cleared the streets of ice and snow by noon except for some blocks that were sheltered from the wind and where snow had been piled. The rising temperature was also sufficient to bring more automobiles into the business section with comparatively few parking spaces available.

WINSLOW FEES ATTACKED BY JUDGE M'MAHAN

Disclaiming any idea of directing criticism toward fellow board members, but declaring that a thorough check and audit of the books of the school district should be made, Director Percy Cupper last night asked such an investigation be made. The request was taken under advisement by the board.

In seeking passage of his resolution calling for the audit, Director Cupper revived the issue which was predominant last fall when he charged the board was making advance payments to faculty members. He also seeks to clarify the system used in purchasing, maintaining and distributing school supplies. He pointed out last night that the district is spending approximately $400,000 each year. When fellow directors declared that an annual audit of the books is made, Cupper responded that this audit was "perfunctory."

Fees charged by Walter Winslow, school attorney, in connection with two condemnation suits conducted by the board which sought to purchase property adjacent to the new senior high school should be segregated in the opinion of Judge L. H. McMahan. The issue was brought into the open last night through the medium of a communication directed to the board by Winslow. The bill as presented by Winslow calls for a payment of $1500. Winslow said he was willing to segregate the items, adding that if he had charged regular fees the total would have been more than the amount named in the bill. "I did more work in both cases than the attorneys for the other side, yet Mack allowed attorney's fees in the Selig case alone, which the district paid, amounting to $425," Winslow's communication said. He added that "Mack's sole purpose in this matter is to embarrass everybody who gets a cent of public money besides himself, and I want to assure the board my bill was away under the ordinary charges for work of the same kind, as established by the Marion county bar, and will stand investigation of Mack's or any other court, and if the board wants an itemized statement the same can be furnished."

USE OF MOODY DENIED MARTIN

Attorney General I. H. Van Winkle informed Governor Martin, in a short statement, he would not permit his deputy, Ralph E. Moody, to serve as the governor's counsel on legislation during the 1937 session.

Van Winkle wrote tersely to the chief executive stating his department was flooded with work at the present time and he could not spare his chief deputy. John Beckman, Portland attorney, has been named as the governor's advisor during the assembly, but Martin had requested Moody's assistance.

Moody represented the governor during the special session of 1935.
