Government Work for Jobless Replaces Private Charity Says Hopkins

Washington, May 21 (AP)—Harry L. Hopkins completed four years in charge of federal relief today, convinced that government work for the jobless permanently has replaced private charity as "The American system."

The lean, Iowa-bred administrator has supervised the greatest relief fund in history—amounting to almost $7,000,000,000 for work relief alone.

"My years here have taught me that Americans like to work for what they get," he said, "and that the nation has use for their labor in public improvements when they can't find a job in private industry."

"I am confident that we will never go back to the dole or the vicious idea that poverty should be punished."

It was Hopkins who, late in 1933, began the transition from state aid to federal work. The civil works administration, which put 4,000,000 on the treasury payroll within a month, resulted. Unemployment had been an intermittent problem for more than 40 years before Roosevelt took office, but federal aid was not granted until late in the Hoover administration in the form of loans to states.

"The American system," Hopkins recalled, "was to take care of the jobless through private agencies. It worked well until the load became too great. States and cities had to get busy."

Congress first authorized the reconstruction finance corporation, in July, 1932, to lend $300,000,000 to the states.

Spurred by estimates that 18,000,000 persons depended upon public funds and that needs were growing, the first Roosevelt congress voted $500,000,000 for state grants. Supervision became partly a federal responsibility.

After signing that bill, the president telephoned his friend Hopkins in New York—where he headed state relief activities—to catch the next train here. On May 22 he began acting on Governors' pleas for funds.

One Out of Fourteen Slated for Inquiry

Portland, May 21 (AP)—W. E. Longfellow's outlook upon life is none too red. The national director of the Red Cross first aid and life saving services says one out of every 14 persons in the United States will be accidentally injured this year.

Accidents took the lives of 111,000 persons last year, he said, and injured 9,700,000. They cost the American people something like $9,500,000 a day.

Longfellow is here for a series of conferences.

Mrs. Kate Worden of Brooks was awarded a diamond wrist watch in a radio contest for this week. It was announced today. Mrs. Richard Chittenden of Independence won last week's watch. ## DEBATE OPENS IN HOUSE UPON RELIEF FUNDS one by Representative Bokeas, one by Rep. Voorhis, D., Calif., to set the amount at $2,200,000,000 and one by Rep. McReynolds, D., Tenn., for $1,200,000,000.

Washington, May 21 (AP)—Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator, addressed a strategy meeting of house leaders today just before the house met to debate President Roosevelt's request for a $1,500,000,000 relief fund for the next fiscal year. The meeting was held behind closed doors.

Later, Rep. Boland (D. Pa.) said plans had been completed to steer the bill to passage without any amendments or earmarking that would be "contrary to the wishes of the president."

He expressed confidence the house would approve the $1,500,000,000 in the bill.

Later, when the house convened, Rep. Latham (D., Mo.), acting chairman of the house appropriations committee, took the floor to plead for $1,500,000,000.

"The bill calls for $1,500,000,000, and it is an economy bill. It is the first step toward discontinuance of the emergency relief program. It is a compromise between two extremes—$2,000,000,000 on the one hand and $1,000,000,000 on the other."

Cannon said the president or house leaders "have never attempted to coerce the house or any members to vote for $1,500,000,000. But he has recommended that amount."

The Missourian contended that republicans wanted to reduce the amount to "create hard times."

"They are looking ahead to the next election," he said.

Rep. McReynolds (D., Tenn.), advocating a billion dollar bill, replied to Cannon that "I yield to no man in support of the president."

"The people will not say that we voted with the republicans, but that the republicans voted with us to save the democratic party and the taxpayers."

McReynolds told colleagues it was the duty of congress to say what the amount should be.

"The other day the executive (department) sent us word it did not want the legislative department encroaching upon its right."

"Neither do we want the executive encroaching upon the legislative," he declared. Both republicans and democrats applauded.

"The president, in vetoing a $5,000,000 appropriation for the New York World fair, offered an opinion of the justice department that the appropriation measure violated the constitution by placing responsibility for spending in the hands of an agency outside of executive control."

Rep. Latham (D., Tex.) said he would offer amendments that would require unskilled relief clients to take agricultural or other jobs that paid them as much as allowed under relief and that would make aliens ineligible for relief aid.

SEE REGIMENTATION IN NEW AAA BILL

Omaha, Neb., May 21 (AP)—E. H. Everson of South Dakota, president of the National Farmers' Union said today the executive committee of the organization views the federal administration's proposed 1937 crop control program as "more vicious in some respects than the invalidated AAA."

"The proposed 1937 program would regiment every farmer by giving him a marketing quota, which if exceeded, would make him liable to a fine of 50 cents a bushel on corn and 60 cents a bushel on wheat," Everson said.

"Also, a farmer who failed to keep records according to standards set by the department of agriculture could be charged with a misdemeanor."
