LIVES ARE LOST IN CLOUDBURST

Detroit, June 21 (U.P.)—A virtual cloudburst, driven by a wind of cyclonic proportions and accompanied by a heavy lightning, killed at least four persons in southern Michigan Sunday and resulted in thousands of dollars in damage.

Those killed were:

Wallace J. Smith, 47, Detroit.

Emmett J. Mueller, 41, Detroit.

Fred Valentine, Summerset Center.

Steve O'Rourke, 33, Brownston township.

Smith and Mueller were killed by lightning while trying to latch the doors of a barn near North Branch where they had sought refuge with their families.

Valentine was killed when a timber, blown from a house across the road near Addison, struck his automobile and tore it from the chassis.

O'Rourke stepped from his automobile to remove fallen electric wires along Southfield road, near Detroit, and was electrocuted.

Character Marred By Class Cheating

Kent, O., June 21 (U.P.)—Prof. C. E. Satterfield, head of the English department at Kent State university, believes a person can not cheat even once without its leaving a trace on his character.

"But that doesn't mean," he said, "that if a student cheats once his character is ruined. Satterfield believes collegians do as much cheating as high school students and perhaps more.

A.F.L. ORGANIZES

Lyons—H. C. Hartung and Mr. Webber of Portland organized a local branch of the A.F.L. in Lyons Thursday night. Officers elected were Chairman, Tom Launder, assistant chairman, E. Rupp; recording secretary, Wayne Williams; financial secretary, George Huffman, and trustees, Boots Lampman and Max Wells. The organization will hold their meetings every Thursday night at the Rebekah hall.

STOP IN LYONS

Lyons—Mrs. Logan Julian and son Dickie visited at the Albert Julian home the first of the week. They were en route home from Los Angeles. Dickie will spend the greater part of the summer here with his uncle and grandmother.

GLACIER PUSHES TO RIVER'S EDGE

Fairbanks, Alaska, June 21 (U.P.)—Alaska's rambling Black Rapids glacier, its movement speeded by hot weather, pushed to the edge of the Big Delta river today while three lakes formed on the surface of the big ice mass.

Travelers who viewed the glacier from the Richardson highway said it is now less than a mile from the Black Rapids roadhouse, situated across the river.

Although Pilot E. E. Parmenter reported photographs showed the glacier moved 400 feet in two days, others said it has since slowed down and no alarm was expressed.

Another airman, Harold Gillam from Cordova, flew over the glacier and reported three lakes formed on its surface from melting ice and snow. One, he said, is large enough to land a plane.

Some thought the lakes might overflow suddenly, perhaps causing a flood, but pilots recalled similar lakes had formed no the Emdicott glacier at one time and disappeared.

At Fairbanks, weather observers said the maximum temperature of 91 degrees Saturday, equalling the record of June 10, was the highest in 18 years.

Pellagra Survey is Slated in Arkansas

West Memphis, Tenn., June 21 (U.P.)—A survey of pellagra—one of the most prevalent of diseases among the poorer class of southern rural families—will be started in four northern Arkansas counties Dr. B. M. Stevenson, Crittenden county health officer, has announced.

The survey will be conducted by the U. S. public health service and the American Red Cross.

Stevenson said an attempt would be made to establish the relationship between pellagra and floods in the founr counties over which the Mississippi river overflowed during the winter months.

"The survey and control work which may follow the survey may last over a period of two or three years," Stevenson said. "There is a good bit of pellagra in this area, although it is not as bad as it was two or three years ago."

Silverton — Mrs. Otto Olson of Eugene with her two small children, Bobby and Roberta, are spending the week at the Marquam home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Koleon.

PARTY STARTS BY PLANE FOR SAN FRANCISCO

mile non-stop flight which ended here at 8:22 a. m. (PST) Sunday when a dense fog prevented the fliers from reaching San Francisco, 592 miles farther south, will serve as a "technological guinea pig" in the interests of Soviet aviation.

It will be carefully dismantled here and crated for shipment to Russia, where each part will be scientifically inspected and studied by Soviet technicians. In this way, Troyanovsky said, the effect of the epochal flight on the ship, will determine future development of Russian aviation.

The three flying heroes—Valeria Chkalov, chief pilot, G. P. Baidukov and A. V. Beliakov—arose this morning fully recovered physically from the hardships of their 63 hour, 17 minute flight.

Dressed in civilian clothing once more their first thought of the day was to thank their host and hostess, Brigadier-General and Mrs. George Marshall for the hospitality which was shown them since they landed here unheralded Sunday morning.

They ate hearty breakfasts and after eating strolled through the grounds of General Marshall's home. They appeared extremely interested in the trees which are indigenous to the Pacific northwest and made unsuccessful attempts to question the soldier orderlies who were escorting them on the stroll. The efforts of the orderlies to understand or reply to the questions were equally unsuccessful, the fliers could speak no English, the soldiers no Russian.

Later they slipped quietly out the back door of General Marshall's home and went to downtown Vancouver where they purchased rain coats.

Before proceeding to the field where the instruments were inspected by a board of representatives of the American nautical association, the aviators returned to the house where, with the aid of interpreters they discussed their flight and Russian flying with members of the board and aviation officials of Pearson field.

Ambassador Troyanovsky revealed that the Soviet Union plans many more such flights but he does not know what those plans are at present.

"This flight demonstrated," he said, "the feasibility of long distance flying by Soviet planes."

The technological possibilities in aviation are so great and the study of this flight may be so important to the development of aviation that the Russian government did not want to run the risk of flying the huge monoplane beyond the point where it ended its long flight, Troyanovsky said.

He praised the fliers warmly and said that a great celebration will be held in Moscow when the triumphant trio returns from its tour of the United States.

The length and route of this tour, is still indefinite, he said. After a "short time" which he would not define, Troyanovsky said the fliers will leave by train or by plane and will go to Washington, D. C. The tour from there will remain undecided until they reach the Russian embassy in Washington, he continued.

"These fliers, however, are only three of many great fliers the Soviet Union has developed, and the plane only one of several."

The landing here will not be the end of the ship, however. After the parts have gone through minute study and examination in the laboratories the big plane will be carefully overhauled and will be placed in service again for similar flights.

Seattle, June 21 (U.P.) — How the United States army signal corps radio network from Seattle to Alaska helped guide the three Soviet Russian fliers from Moscow to Vancouver, Wash., was revealed today. Work of the signal corps and the weather bureau was kept secret even after the flight was under way, so carefully had the Soviet government prepared for the aerial adventure.

A. A. Vartanian, Soviet engineer in charge of the flight arrangements, was here from New York to translate all messages from the plane and send out reports in Russian. Several times he talked to Moscow by telephone.

Signal corps stations at Point Barrow, Nome, Fairbanks, Anchorage, Juneau, Ketchikan and Seattle and the Royal Canadian signal corps at Fort Norman, Fort Smith and Edmonton contacted the fliers.

The weather bureau here kept day and night vigil to furnish reports.

MOUNTAINS ARE LIKED

Silverton—Mr. and Mrs. George Barr and Mr. and Mrs. John Fishwood have returned from a mountain vacation spent at the recreational grounds 12 miles east of Cascadia in Linn county. They report the place ideal for quiet camping. The cottages with fireplaces and other conveniences for free camping have been provided by CCC workers and furnish comforts for guests in all kinds of weather. The Santiam river is fine for fishing and other sports are available.

Silverton—Mr. and Mrs. John Gehrke have returned from a two-weeks' visit in San Francisco at the home of Mrs. Gehrke's brother, John Beatty.
