Dallas Garage Doors Entered, Auto Prowlers

Apparently little discrimination was shown by the thieves for they covered a considerable portion of the southern part of the town. Little of value was reported to have been taken and the residents of the 700 block on Main appeared to be the hardest hit by loss of three traveling robes from their cars.

Other robbers had evidently missed nothing of value but stated that cigarettes and gum were stolen quantities after the nocturnal visitation of the marauders.

Cars ransacked were mostly in garages with both cars and garages unlocked.

Silverton Library Loss Proposed with Economy Movement Brings Alarm

Silverton—With Mayor Wilbur H. Moffett including the complete elimination of the city library among his suggestions for an economy program of the city of Silverton, which has come in for a number of losses and a demand for less expenditures officially, the town is beginning to recall the time when Silverton had no library, something of the struggle to get the splendid organization, and realizing what a loss to the town adult and youthful readers should the library be a thing of the past.

A group of women members of the Silverton Woman's club, headed by Mrs. George Hubbs, in 1913, felt the need of a public library for the town. Mrs. Hubbs, Mrs. Hugh B. Latham, Mrs. O. White, Mrs. G. B. Benson, Mrs. R. E. Klein-sorge, Mrs. Lucy Wray, Mrs. Ole Thompson and Mrs. S. E. Richardson are among those recalled who went from house to house in the town and solicited books as a nucleus and established shelves and a part-time librarian. Mrs. Alice Kircher, in the old Dr. Platt Davis home, still standing on East Main street, during the World war times, Mrs. Latham made a struggle to keep the library open, and finally it was given space with the school library until that was proved to be illegal.

When the city hall was built, the present library room was provided for just the purpose the women who were interested in the project had hoped during the eight years of struggle.

Twice the question of tax for the support of the library has been before the people to be voted down and the aldermen have contributed the monthly amount of from five to forty-eight dollars per month to maintain a regular librarian and to keep the books of interest to the 1800 readers from time to time.

Mrs. Latham and Mrs. Benson have been members of the library board since the inception of the plan in 1913. C. J. Reynolds and Dr. C. R. Wilson of the city council were board members for a number of years during their service for the city. Now Otto Legard of the aldermen is a board member.
