

BOARD DENIES REQUEST FOR SPAN AT DAM

Portland, Aug. 13 (AP)—The state highway commission cannot legally spend money to make a survey for a proposed bridge across the Columbia river near the Bonneville dam, members informed Samuel A. Lancaster who made the request at the meeting of the commission here yesterday.

Lancaster said he desired the survey to obtain data to aid his work, as a private citizen, in seeking federal funds for the bridge.

The commission awarded contracts totaling more than $300,000 on construction projects in nine counties.

Bids on the Blouchier section of the Hood River secondary highway were rejected as too high. The low bid of $26,642 was tendered by the Parker-Schram company of Portland.

A delegation from Brookings, six miles north of the California line on the coast highway offered to donate necessary right-of-way for widening the highway through the town, and obtained the promise of a survey to determine other costs involved.

The commission denied a request of County Judge Hugh McClain of Coos to extend the Coos river secondary highway beyond Allegany. The commission considered an offer of $6,500 toward construction of a bridge over the Coos river near Marshfield, action to depend upon the remaining cost.

Contracts were let as follows:

Coos county — Overcrossing of Southern Pacific at Bunker Hill; Mountain States Construction Co., Eugene, $46,568.

Clatsop and Tillamook counties—Clearing 2.18 miles arch Cape-Beach creek section Oregon coast highway. Berke Bros., Portland, $24,850.

Harney county — Regrading and surfacing 7.61 miles Lake county line-Gap ranch section, Oregon central highway, Babler Bros., Portland, $68,157.

DOUGLAS TELLS WHAT IS NEW

While medical science is making steady progress in its fight against disease, there still remains many fields in which the doctor and the scientist must continue their explorations, Dr. Vernon A. Douglas, county health officer, declared in discussing "What's New" before members of the Salem Lions club Thursday noon.

After pointing to the vaccination, immunization, the X-ray, the use of iodine and insulin as well known factors in the control of disease, Dr. Douglas detailed a number of others with which the layman is not quite so familiar. These include the bacteriological treatment in pneumonia, the study of virus, progress in sanitary engineering and in nutrition. The control of pneumonia has developed a job for the technician in segregating the particular germ which is causing the disease, the speaker said. In some instances use of the right anti-serum has caused dramatic recoveries.

The sanitary engineer has developed a machine for measuring the billions of bacteria floating in the air and as a result better methods of ventilation control are being worked out. The use of ultra violet light in the purification of air is another fairly recent development.

Taking up nutrition Dr. Douglas said it is now possible to secure vitamin C in tablet form, eliminating the necessity of carrying bulky fruits while traveling.

Cause and prevention of cancer, mental disturbances and the eradication of venereal disease are a few of the problems which remain for science to solve.

NATIONAL STRIKE THREAT IS MADE

San Francisco, Aug. 13 (AP)—Carmen Lucia, chairman of the 15-store strike against F. W. Woolworth and J. J. Newberry 5-and-10 cent chains here, said yesterday she would issue a national strike call against Woolworth.

"New York, Detroit, Providence, R. I., and Tacoma, Wash., are already organized," Miss Lucia said. "At least 20 more cities could be organized in time for a national tie-up."

"National policy of the Woolworth stores, which is against the union shop, makes it necessary to prosecute the strike on a nation-wide basis."

JOHNSON LIKES OREGON CHIEF

Albany, Ore., Aug. 13—Opening the initial session of the 19th annual convention of the American Legion department of Oregon, nearly 1000 people gathered yesterday morning in the Albany high school auditorium to hear J. Monroe Johnson, assistant secretary of commerce, deliver the keynote speech of the convention.

Mr. Johnson's speech followed introduction of Governor Charles Martin. The latter addressed the Legionnaires and auxiliary on the delegation of WPA workers who visited his office to protest against the reduction of Oregon WPA rolls.

"God grant us more governors like your governor," Secretary Johnson exclaimed in introducing his speech. He followed it with his interpretation of the reasons for conventions of Legionnaires and the manner in which they are conducted.

The background of all American Legion conventions, the speaker declared, is the comradeship and fellowships which were cultivated on the battlefields, and which are renewed each year when the veterans of the World War re-assemble and "become soldiers again."

This comradeship and fellowship Secretary Johnson termed "one of the blessings of the battlefield." The conventions now are like the camps of war days, he added.

The American Legion was asserted by the keynoter to constitute a guarantee that the American nation will not falter and that democracy will progress.

Declaring himself "for the working man," Governor Martin said: "Let's all get together and go to work for a better Oregon, I'm for the working man, and we all want him to get the highest wages that can be paid, but I've no use for these racketeers and agitators who are running around the country."

"We'll take care of the unfortunate and the sick who can't work, but the able bodied must take the jobs that are waiting for men."
