FIRMER TONE INDICATED IN STOCK TRADE

New York, Aug. 21 (U.P.)—A firmer tone developed in stocks today as adjournment of congress neared. Trading continued very light, with many absent because of the blistering heat.

The market opened fractions to more than a point lower, but slowly rallied. Many leading issues registered gains. A part of a reputedly short interest covered. Small demand in the present thin market resulted in quick recoveries.

U. S. government bonds made good recoveries. Buying followed action of the federal reserve in reducing rediscount rates in Atlanta and Chicago. Heretofore banks were liquidating governments to raise funds for business loans and avoid obtaining money through use of the rediscount privilege because of high rates.

Covering in U. S. Steel sent it up more than a point. U. S. Rubber gained substantially. Chrysler came back more than a point. Others to gain a point or more included American Smelting, Anaconda, Bethlehem Steel and National Biscuit.

Amusements showed strength under lead of Loew's which rose to 83⅞ up 2½. Paramount gained a point to 23¼. Universal Pictures preferred reached 62 up 7.

Rubbers recovered. Farm implements firmed, except Deere & Co., which lost 1½ to 132. Mail order and oil shares picked up. Steels were higher with U. S. and motors following Chrysler up. Boeing featured a rise in the aviation group.

Oils were active, with pure oil most heavily traded. Large amounts of business were noted in Consolidated Oil and Phillips Petroleum, which fluctuated narrowly and were firm.

Firm copper abroad accounted for a rise in copper shares. The rise in steel shares was based on outlook for early pickup in operations when the automobile companies increase steel orders for new models.

Dow, Jones preliminary closing averages showed: Industrial 183.74 up 0.79; railroad 52.10 up 0.23; utility 27.83 up 0.18.

Transactions approximated 280,000 shares compared with 470,000 shares last Saturday. Curb transactions approximated 65,000 shares compared with 116,000 shares last Saturday.

Butter and Eggs Firm for Week-End

Portland, Ore., Aug. 21 (U.P.) — There was no change in the egg market situation for the week-end. Prices were mixed quite thoroughly as is quality. Desirable stuff is finding a very good sale with "rejects" slow.

Piling up of butter in storage continues with the movement into coolers unusually liberal in view of the extreme lateness of the season.

Tomato market deal is increasing rapidly locally and through the Pacific northwest generally. The Dalles, Dillard, Wapato, Yakima and even local points are contributing but prices are showing only very slight recession.

Because it is difficult today to secure well matured Yakima potatoes that will fill the Oregon grade, operators are looking more than ever to the local product. Prices are steady.

Even though killers as a rule are still quoting the extreme low point to the country for light hens, they are as a rule securing local places for their actual needs.

Fall Wheat Harvest Nears Season End

Silverton—Threshing of fall sown wheat is practically completed in the Brush Creek district with the yield considered good at an average of 35 bushels as no reseeding was done following the partial freeze out in the fall.

The Victor Madsen family has returned home to Hillsboro from a 10 day stay at the home of Madsen's mother, Mrs. M. J. Madsen, during the harvesting of their grain.

STOCK ENTRIES REAL PROBLEM AT STATE FAIR

With opening of the Oregon State fair more than two weeks away, livestock entries are already giving the management some concern. The problem is where to put all the stock that will be on hand for the week's exposition at the fairgrounds here.

Unusually large entries are already on hand for the cattle, draft horse, sheep and swine shows and every one of these promises to surpass previous records. Even the giant new cattle barn, now nearing completion, and which will house 500 head of cows under one great roof, will not suffice for the cattle shows. In fact, fair officials are already talking about starting construction of additional units immediately after the fair of September 6 to 12.

A number of new exhibitors have made stall and pen reservations and this is particularly gratifying to fair officials. One of the largest of these will bring 16 head of Ayshires clear from Hutchinson, Kansas. These are from the A. B. Williams and Son ranch. Fred Daniel, Gallatin Gateway, Mont., has entered 13 head of Brown Swiss.

The largest entry to date in the show of big farm horses comes from F. D. Gernan of North Portland who will bring 16 Percheron and Belgians. Several Marion county Percheron entries are in also.

Fifteen pens of sheep from the Floyd T. Fox farm, Silverton, leads the early entries in this division, with H. D. Harms and Son of Canby route 1, runners-up with 13 pens entered. In the goat shows, entries from Portland are leading so far, with Margaretha Steiger having the largest number of pens entered to date.

Swine entries are led by Elmer Stangel, Wilsonville, who will show 14 pens, and four fewer pens will come from A. C. Overland farm at Oswego.

Poultry and pigeon entries are also coming strong. In a change in department superintendents made this week, Charley Evans of Salem will supervise the pigeon and rabbit entries. Evans has in the past been a winning exhibitor in the pigeon shows, but under the ruling that no superintendent can exhibit in the department which he directs, he will not exhibit this year.

MONTANANS VISITORS

Monmouth— Albert Hendickson and son Carl from Missoula, Mont., are vacationing at the home of the former's sister, Mrs. C. E. Blair, local telephone operator. Mr. Hendrickson is employed as train dispatcher for the Northern Pacific in Missoula.

Youngberry Yield Makes High Average

Hazel Green — Tom Van Cleave and son, Alvin, have finished harvesting their six acres of youngberries with a total of 15 tons from the field. Bliss Zielinski and Alexander Sharp and Charles Zielinski, Jr., report excellent yield from their fields of loganberries.

Silos have been filled with clover and vetch by Max Woods, Frank Zielinski and Looney brothers. Herman Wacken has finished baling hay and is now starting on the straw piles. The spring grain threshing is unusually good due to the late rains which gave it a much needed boost. Peter Williamson is combining with a new outfit for his son Will and himself. Alfred Zielinski is also combining in Hayesville and the local district.

Grain Threshing Gets Well Under Way

Jefferson—Grain threshing is well under way in this community and the surrounding districts. Good yields are generally reported. Ten acres of wheat at the Sam Iungen ranch in the Looney Butte district yielded 249 sacks of the grain.

It is reported that the peach crop in some of the nearby orchards is light this year but the quality is good.

Hop picking in a number of the yards around here and in the Talbot district, will begin next week.

Domestic Market Still Short of Loss

Seattle, Aug. 21 (U.P.)—An improved domestic market for west coast lumber has still failed to overcome export losses, the West Coast Lumbermen's association said today.

Recovery in the domestic market for lumber from all producing regions of Oregon and Washington brought 1936 production up to approximately three-quarters of the total for 1929, it was found. A total of 8,649,821,000 feet of lumber was produced in Oregon and Washington in 1936; in 1929 production in the same region was 12,149,821,000 feet.

GUEST IN GERVAIS

Gervais—Mrs. Larson of Portland is here spending the week visiting at the home of her brother, Mr. and Mrs. T. Meyers.

ART SCOVILLE, Los Angeles, the smallest pilot in the Midget car racing game as well as one of the most daring, is one of 25 leading drivers entered in the Hop Fiesta races at Independence, Saturday evening, August 28. Scoville holds second place in the Northwest scoring point system. Points won at Independence will count toward the 1937 championship.

Independence, Aug. 21 — Midget automobile races will be staged for the first time in Independence during the annual Hop Fiesta, to be held here August 26 to 29, inclusive.

Bobby Rowe, Portland promoter, has been engaged by the Hop Fiesta association to handle the races, which will be one of the principle attractions of the four-day hop-harvest celebration.

Rowe has been given authority to offer purses of a size which, he has assured the Fiesta committee, will bring the best drivers in the northwest to the "hop city."

Pilots already signed up include Adolph Danz, Spokane; Tony West, Tacoma; Mel Kenealy, Los Angeles; Dave Dippalit, Tacoma; Bert Blomgren, Seattle; Art Scoville, Los Angeles; "Swede" Linskog, Seattle; Les Anderson, Vancouver; Tommy Legge, Seattle; Jimmy Wilburn, Seattle, and Jimmy Miller, Los Angeles.

Motorcycle races and many other interesting events are included in the program for the hop festival.

MAID OF SALEM—is flashing a brand-new diamond and scurrying around buying linens, furniture and a trousseau . . . The announcement is to be made shortly . . .

PASSPORTS TO THE ORIENT—don't mean a thing these days. Several Salem couples are pretty furious over the trouble across the sea and the fact that their Autumn plans have been completely knocked over . . .

girl's throat. A bureau had been ransacked and a small radio was reported missing. A coroner's investigator said she had been raped.

Miss Palmowski said she saw only the man's back as he went out the window. She described him as 19 or 20 years old, wearing a white shirt, dark trousers and a light cap.

Police said she could not say definitely whether he was white or negro.

Miss Irene Busch, a nurse at the hospital, told police several attempts recently had been made to enter rooms of young nurses. She said a negro had been seen loitering around the institution.

Holiday Business Prediction is Made

Portland, Aug. 21 (AP)—Retail business during the coming holiday season will be as great as in 1929, Henry Heimann of New York, executive manager of the National Federation of Credit Men, predicted here.

Laboring men, he said, "will share more generously in the good things of the times."

Heiman said he believed the "menace in the labor world has passed," and "nothing is more certain in the world than collective bargaining."

RIFT IN PARTY SPREAD WIDER BY DEMOCRATS

the radio. He charged the broadcast was arranged by the office of Postmaster-General Farley, the chairman of the democratic National committee.

Burke met the Guffey attack with a counter-attack on administration policies.

"It was not until I came to see the new deal could quickly be changed into a rotten deal," he said, "that my enthusiasm waned for some of the things I had been supporting."

Holt made the most violent attack of all, brief though it was. He said Guffey "wants the honest men out of the party so the bosses and corruptionists can have control."

Senator Pittman (D.-Nev.) said he never had felt he had the right "to read any one out of the party."

Even the republicans took shots at Guffey, although they were pleased by the split within democratic ranks."

Senator White (R.-Me.) said it was a "pretty raw proposition" coming from the chairman of a campaign committee.

Wheeler told the senate it was the first time in 14 years, he had heard a member, democratic or republican, demand the defeat of a party colleague.

Wheeler said "If you want to drive us out of the democratic party, if the bosses in New York, Pennsylvania, Kansas City and Chicago want to drive us out, you won't have much difficulty."

Swinging abruptly toward Guffey, Wheeler added, "and let me tell you one thing; if you nominate your governor or yourself for president you won't have to drive us out."

Guffey's action widened the open rift in the party.

His broadcast address, without precedent so far as political observers recalled, named Senators O'Mahoney of Wyoming, Burke of Nebraska and Wheeler of Montana.

He flatly predicted the defeat of O'Mahoney and Burke and said Wheeler would have "plenty to do" in the way of explaining before 1940.

Senator Wheeler, (D., Mont.), told the senate that Senator Guffey didn't write the caustic radio address he delivered and was "afraid" to deliver the speech on the senate floor.

Wheeler's remarks on the floor came while a quiet movement got under way unofficially to depose Guffey from the chairmanship of the democratic senatorial campaign committee.

O'Mahoney interrupted Wheeler to assert that if he had the power he would not "change a word, or a line, or a vote" of his record. In ringing voice, he told Guffey that Guffey had not harmed the senators he had mentioned, but the democratic party.

O'Mahoney, turning to face Guffey, shouted at him:

"The sooner we get that man removed from the position he occupies now, the better it will be for the democratic party."

Burke, a leader of the bill's opponents, commented:

"When Senator Guffey announces that he is going to see to it that Wheeler, O'Mahoney and Burke are retired, I assume he speaks in the double capacity of chairman of the democratic senatorial committee and White House spokesman.

"If that is true, we might just as well forget Jefferson Island and harmony dinners and get ready for a real battle."

There was no immediate comment from others, but many opponents of the bill openly were angry.

Guffey's speech was in sharp contrast with recent statements by Democratic Chairman James A. Farley that there would be no reprisals for opposition to the court plan.

Coupled with a statement from John L. Lewis questioning the ability of democratic leaders to carry out their program it aroused renewed speculation on a possible new political alignment by 1940.

He was aroused by the house rules committee's refusal to allow the wage-hour bill to reach the house floor. The committee's action also drew a denunciation from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, rival of the CIO.

Guffey, in his speech last night, intimated the battle for the court bill was not over, despite the administration's defeat in the session now closing.

"This congress," he said, "has failed to grasp the greatest opportunity for the establishment of a true democracy in this nation that has ever been afforded to any congress."
