New Girl Scout Hut Dedicated At Open House

Lebanon—Lebanon's new Girl Scout hut, recently completed on the Queen Anne school campus, was formally dedicated in services and an open house held in the new building Sunday afternoon.

The building, the Lebanon Scout organization and its leadership were all highly praised by City School Superintendent Lester Wilcox, who gave the dedication speech. Wilcox compared the initiative of the present leadership in providing the hut with that of the first Lebanon pioneers who built the Santiam academy whose rafter timbers were used in the new building.

The building was also highly commended by Mrs. Helen Leonard, Portland Girl Scout director, who expressed the wish that Portland had a building "half as good as yours." Portland has no such facility at the present time, she said.

Other parts of the program included raising of the colors by the Scouts, singing of America and Hail to the Scouts; address of welcome by Mrs. Ed Bohle, a reading by Elaine McClellan, an accordion solo by Dorothy Bohle, a song by the Girl Scout quartet, and taps.

Approximately 100 parents and friends attended the event, many from out of town. Fall flowers were used in decoration, and refreshments were served from a decorated table centered by a bowl of asters and lighted rainbow tapers.
