

Lebanon City Council Voices 1938 Budget

Lebanon—Since no objections were voiced, Lebanon's 1938 city budget, estimating expenditures to total $30,360 and providing for $18,530 to be raised by taxation, was officially adopted in a mass meeting in the city hall Tuesday night. The mass meeting coincided with the regular session of the city council.

Since an item of $2,000 was provided in the budget for purchase of a city park site, approval of the budget paved the way for buying the South Santiam river tract of 20 acres. While the money will not be available in the city coffers until May of next year, assurance was given the park committee that arrangements will be made for purchase as soon as the Mountain States Power company, owners of the property, prepare the documents.

The rapid growth of Lebanon and consequently the growing difficulty facing the street department in maintaining and constructing streets was another matter discussed by the city council. Fourteen new blocks have been opened up this year and five or six more scheduled in a short time. Transfer of $200 into the street fund for purchase of gravel was authorized.

Street Supt. E. E. Regester reported that the Morton street improvement had been completed, and Mervin Gilson advised the council that virtually all equipment is now on hand to sprinkle a waste liquor from the paper mill on city streets. The chemical is quite similar to oil in its action.

Eight building permits, totalling $5000, were reported granted.

Santiam Dairy Leased
Lebanon—The Santiam dairy, owned by O. A. Arnold, has been leased to Walter Farmer, formerly a Tillamook county dairyman, who has also purchased the Arnold milk route and cattle. Arnold is going out of business, and sold his dairy stock at an auction yesterday. Farmer is well known in the dairy and cheese industry.

Linn Board Reports
Lebanon—A delegation of 30 members of the local Townsend club attended the meeting held in Albany at which W. T. Mahoney was the main program speaker. Mahoney endorsed the O.A.R.P. and dwelt upon the plight of the old people of the nation. For next week, the local club is concentrating on the Tuesday evening meeting at which special business will be transacted and during which Mrs. Marian Nagel of Lacombe, members of the Linn County Board of Townsend clubs, will make a report on a conference held with Congressman James Mott on Wednesday of last week.

Garden Club Meets
Lebanon—Several horticulturists of the Lebanon Garden club discussed timely subjects in which they are particularly interested at the Monday meeting of the club held at the Presbyterian club and a demonstration of flower arrangement by Mrs. C. C. Whitcher also was a feature of the evening.

John Summers, whose tulip beds are among the finest in the city, took this as his subject; Robert Forey talked on dahlias; and W. P. Purth of the Hi-Way Greenhouse, gave some valuable information on bulbs for winter forcing. An interesting and unusual bit of information was offered by T. W. Munyan, who claimed that the smallest national forest in the nation is in Salem and consists of one tree, a giant Cedar of Lebanon.

Consideration of beautification problems relative to the highways leading from the city and plans to make a state park of the pioneer cemetery are engaging the consideration of the club at the present and suggestions are being welcomed from citizens of the community.

Scio Girl Broadcasts
Scio—Helen Myers of Scio will broadcast over KOAG, Corvallis, at 7:30 Thursday night, for the honorary society, giving dictation in shorthand to a class of students. Miss Myers also broadcast last week when the regular announcer was unable to attend. Miss Myers is a graduate of Scio high school, and is a junior in secretarial science at Oregon state college. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Myers of Scio.

Grange Holds Social
Lyons—A social evening was enjoyed at the Santiam Valley Grange Tuesday night. The Juvenile Grange entertained the winning side of the membership contest with a party. Games and refreshments furnished the entertainment. The initiatory work is being practiced in preparation to initiate at the next meeting.
