

Pictures Made Of Auto Plates In Darkness

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 21. (AP)—A camera capable of photographing licenses of speeding automobiles at night has been brought forward by the Pennsylvania motor police as a new weapon in the state's war on highway accidents.

Commissioner Percy W. Foote said the cameras would be installed soon in many of the patrol's white "ghost cars" that took to the road some time ago to combat highway law violations.

Infra-red cameras are being developed for police use by Captain Elvel M. Williams, retired naval officer and fog camera expert, who was drafted by the Pennsylvania force to carry on his researches.

The photographic marvel, Foote said, is expected to pierce the brightest headlight rays and clock the speed of the car at the same time.

The camera would be set up close to the windshield of the "ghost" car, and could photograph through the glass of the windshield, getting the license plate of a car in front or of a vehicle coming in the opposite direction.

Flashlight equipment would be synchronized on headlights at the front of the police car to take pictures at dusk. If headlights on the offending car were so bright the ordinary flashlight bulb could not pierce them after dark, an infra-red screen would come into play. There would then be no flash to divert the driver.

Benefit for Art Center

In line with the public schools and other civic and cultural groups in the city, the Salem Woman's club will sponsor a benefit bridge tea for the proposed federal art center on Monday afternoon, February 28, in their clubrooms in North Cottage street. All proceeds will go to the art center.

With the government willing to invest $10,000 in the venture Salem women are making every effort to raise the $2000 necessary to bring the center to this city. The musical and dramatic sides of Salem's cultural life are well developed and now with a fine art museum offering free instruction in the arts and splendid exhibits of new pictures every three weeks the cultural life of our capital city would become rounded out and truly metropolitan. With these facts in mind and believing that out of the venture there will ultimately develop a permanent art museum for Salem the Woman's club is anxious to contribute its share towards the project.

Up to date, through the efforts and financial support of some of Salem's finest citizens the sum has reached the halfway mark of $1000. But, with the exception of the schools and several civic groups, this sum has been contributed by fewer than 100 people. In order to assure the success of the venture interest must become more general and an extra effort must be put forth to raise the second thousand.

WALLACE H. BONESTEEL

Again carrying forward the Oldsmobile tradition of motor car smartness, Oldsmobile presents two new cars for 1938, a six and an eight of advanced and distinctive styling in the salesrooms of Salem's new Oldsmobile dealer, Wallace H. Bonesteel, Inc., Perry and High streets.

Both cars are outstanding in performance and mechanical design and both now offer, optional at extra cost, Oldsmobile's new automatic safety transmission. This new device, developed by Oldsmobile and introduced last spring on the eight, makes vital contributions toward safety, operating economy and driving flexibility.

Of unusual interest in both six and eight are the new safety features, which provide such features as a new and modern safety instrument unit and safety dash; exceptionally wide seats with pillow-type upholstery; soft, roll-type pad on the back of the front seat, providing extra cushioning to protect rear compartment passengers; Unisteel Fisher body construction with seamless steel turret tops.

Standard equipment for the 1938 cars includes spare tire and wheel, rear spring covers, bumpers and bumper guards and safety glass throughout.

These newest Oldsmobiles are fashioned along clean, slender lines and appear much longer, lower and closer to the road than before. As was the case in the previous models, the six and eight again are distinctly different in styling.

Individuality is particularly marked in their front end treatments. A more massive die-cast radiator grille for the die-cast radiator grille of the six which, deeply recessed and plated in chrome.

New Tax Return Forms Arrive

J. W. Maloney, collector of Internal revenue for the district of Oregon, announces that the new tax return forms SS-1A to be filed under Title VIII of the social security act have arrived and will be available for distribution in March. This form replaces the forms SS-1, SS-2 and SS-2A and will be filed quarterly instead of monthly. The first return to cover the months of January, February and March and must be filed with the collector's office on or before April 30, 1938.

The forms SS-1A will be mailed by the collector to all taxpayers who have filed returns in 1937 in sufficient time for filing before the due date. Others should make application by filing requests with the collector's office, 210 Custom House, Portland, Oregon.

Mr. Maloney also states that a number of employers have failed to file information return forms SS-2 and SS-2A under Title VIII of the social security act for the second six months period of 1937 ending December 31. Several penalties were imposed for willful failure to file these returns and, therefore, the taxpayers should make every effort to complete the returns and file this at an early date. Forms for this purpose may be secured from the collector's office.

Sadie Hopes to Get Vaudeville Job

Edward L. Kinney, alias Sadie De Vaux, female impersonator who was jailed several weeks ago for shoplifting, has landed a contract to appear at a local theatre March 11 and 12 in the role of a female, and will do a dance act. Kinney discloses that he has sold his fur coat so he may buy a stage outfit.

If he makes good here, Kinney thinks he may go to Hollywood or Seattle, and from that start expects to make a vaudeville circuit. Ultimately he hopes to earn enough money to go to a beauty college and later open up a beauty salon.

Kinney says he has been impersonating a female since he was 11 years old. He is now 18. On New Year's night he danced for the Star Club in Cheyenne, and at one time danced for the Jake May club in Cleveland.

Mrs. Ed Bell and J. P. Mertz held second high totals. Seven tables were in play. At the close of the game supper was served by the hostesses.

4 miles in a bee-line =

6 miles by road map

8 miles by STOP-and-GO

A mile on your speedometer may easily be a mile and a half to your engine—when it's stop and go.

HERE'S WHY:

In "low" gear, your engine turns over about twelve times for each turn of the wheels. In "second," it turns about eight—in "high," only about four.

You drive a mile, but how far your engine runs depends on how many times you stop and start—how much of the mile is in low and second gears.

Shell engineers found that getting away from a traffic stop can waste enough "undigested" gasoline to carry you 1/3 of a mile.

To cut this waste and its cost, they found a way to rearrange the chemical structure of gasoline, making every drop of fuel usable to your motor under all driving conditions.

You can save on the cost of your stop-and-go driving by the regular use of Super-Shell. There's a Shell dealer near you.
