Jury Declares Klamath Clean

Klamath Falls, March 21 (AP)—Instead of the sensational indictments anticipated in some quarters, the Klamath county grand jury, reporting after a two-day investigation of vice and gambling conditions, indicated apparent satisfaction with the results of a recent cleanup campaign by returning a virtually clean bill of health for both Klamath Falls and Klamath county.

No evidence of gambling in Klamath Falls was found by the jury, and no bribery of any kind was uncovered in official circles. Neither was any action reported on asserted attempts to intimidate members of the grand jury.

Single black spot was a recommendation that the district attorney start immediate abatement proceedings against the Palm hotel as an alleged house of prostitution.

The jury report said that the chief of police of Klamath Falls had testified and investigation had shown no houses of prostitution running in Klamath Falls but that the jury had decided to recommend action against the Palm hotel any how because of testimony of Patricia O'Neill in superior court at Seattle that she was operating the Palm as a house of prostitution.

Abatement proceedings under the Knox law are already under way against the Palm.

Rufus Holman In Senate Race

As previously forecast in the Capital Journal, State Treasurer Rufus C. Holman announced his candidacy for the republican nomination for United States senator Saturday evening.

Holman based his candidacy, he said in a statement, on "my record of the past seven years as state treasurer and member of the state board of control and affiliated boards and commissions, and on my previous record of public service in numerous capacities, both public and private."

His announcement definitely ended reports that he might seek the gubernatorial nomination. He stated that "in spite of considerable pressure . . . I have given up that idea."

"Governor Martin has announced himself as a candidate for re-election," Holman explained. "Both of us are members of the state board of control. I realize that if I became a candidate for the same office every incident on the board would be given a political interpretation, and board sessions might become a political battlefield. I do not wish to precipitate such a situation."

State Representatives O. Henry Olen of St. Helens and Dr. J. F. Hoeh of Bend are the only other democrats who have filed, although Gov. Charles H. Martin announced he would seek renomination. The filing period will close April 4.

Other filings today: State Rep. Malcolm W. Wilkinson, The Dalles republican, for renomination from the 21st district (Wasco county).

L. D. Nash, Nashville republican, for state representative from the ninth district (Lincoln county).

A. J. Snett, Tillamook republican, for state representative from the third district (Tillamook county).

Filipino Labor Group Inhibited

Portland, March 21 (AP)—No Filipino wants to die in the United States, so the race never will create a permanent labor group here, Francisco Varona, member of the Philippine national economic council, said in an interview here.

He estimated the number of his countrymen on the Pacific coast at 40,000. He is investigating their status for the Philippine government.

Other Filipinos in America, Varona said, are "working students x x x here to learn what they can, to make a success in some line of work, save something and then return home."

Rosicrucians Celebrating New Year

The vernal equinox on March 21 when the sun enters the astronomical sign of Aries, upon its celestial journey around the Zodiac marks the ancient beginning of the New Year commemorated by the Rosicrucian order, AMORC, a philosophical fraternity.

For centuries the peoples of the orient celebrated the beginning of the new year on or about March 21, when this astronomical phenomenon occurred, and which also appeared the logical time, being spring, when all nature was in a state of rebirth and awakening. The ancient Egyptians declared the advent an occasion for festivities, and partook of a symbolic feast of corn bread, salt and grape juice, representing the principle elements of man's nature, says a statement by Dora E. Nelson, district commissioner of the order.

"The traditional history of the Rosicrucians records its establishment during the reign of Pharaoh Amenhotep IV, 1350 B. C., who is said to have instituted the ancient ceremony and feast, which is continued in commemoration in the same ancient manner by the Rosicrucians throughout the world today. The emperor of the order declares annually, by proclamation, from the grand lodge of the order in San Jose, California, the exact date of the ceremony."

Throughout North and South America, newly appointed officers for the local lodges and chapters of the society will be installed following the ancient rites.

Northwest Opposes Forest Transfer

Washington, March 21 (AP)—A week's debate on governmental reorganization left a very definite impression on Capitol hill that the west did not want the forest service transferred from the agriculture department.

Nowhere in the reorganization bill is such a proposal set forth. But there appeared a deep-rooted conviction on the part of many senators that such a move would occur.

Even with the assurance of Secretary Ickes, head of the interior department to which some fear the service would be transferred, that he was not going to "seize the forest service," failed to stem the flood of protests against the language of the measure.

The bill drew the fire of Senators Borah (R-Idaho), Pittman (D-Nev.) and Bone (D-Wash.) and several others who vigorously supported a proposal by Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) that the measure be amended to require congressional ratification of all proposed shifts in governmental agencies.

While the senators said their fears extended to many "ill-advised" transfers, debate centered around the possibility of shifting the forest service from its present berth.

Senator Borah said 90 per cent of the people connected with the forest service opposed transfer of the service to the interior department.

"If we vote for this bill as it is, we are voting away our power to protect the forest service in case it should be transferred," he said.

Senator Pope, Borah's democratic colleague, said he was not convinced that such a transfer would come to pass; that he had assurances from high officials that it was not contemplated.

Borah replied that private assurances were "no protection against such a thing happening."

The senate, he continued, had "ample warning" that such a shift was in the wind.

"The report which was made by the Brownlow committee recommended the transfer," he said. "The president sent the report to congress with his tacit approval. In addition to that, influential members in the administration have urged the transfer."

Letter Writer Under Arrest

New York, March 21 (AP)—Lester David O'Dell, 35, a letter writer of uncommon ability, was arrested today for having written letters to President Roosevelt.

O'Dell's letters, police and secret service men charged, contained threats and demands for money.

The letters written to the president were read by Magistrate Irving Ben Cooper, but were not made public. After denouncing O'Dell as "a clever, shrewd, cunning type, vicious to the extreme," Cooper held him in $5000 bail for hearing March 30.

It was learned the letters had suggested that various cabinet officers had been guilty of misconduct. They also demanded payment for work the writer claimed to have done for high administration officials.

Mr. Roosevelt turned them over to the secret service. Agents went to O'Dell's home, where he lived with his wife and two children, and took him into custody.

O'Dell always signed his own name to his letters. He described himself as an educator. His picture was in the rough's gallery as the result of his arrest in Washington in 1929 for impersonating a clergyman.

Fear 6 Lost In Puget Sound

Seattle, March 21 (AP)—Coast guard patrol boats have found no trace of six persons, missing more than a week on gale-whipped Puget Sound in small boats, despite almost constant search over the week-end.

Hope for the sextet has been virtually abandoned. They were believed drowned in the storms that lashed the Sound area all last week. Their deaths raise the gale toll to nine during the week.

Four of the six were believed to have perished in the sealed Sea Lion, which left Everett 10 days ago on a trip to Port Townsend. Roy Cummings of Everett operated the Sea Lion, and one of his passengers was John Hamilton of Snohomish. Waterfront residents could not identify the other two who had left with Cummings.

It was at first thought the quartet put up on an island in the Sound when the storm struck, but search of all beaches in the district disclosed no trace of their craft.

The other two missing men are Richard Lambson, 24, and Cal Abbott, 26, fishermen who left the Duwamish waterway on a gill-netting expedition in Seattle harbor last Monday. No trace of their boat has been found.

Hubbard—The senior class play will be presented in the middle of April. A three-act comedy "Lindy Lou" was chosen as the vehicle to show what high school students can do as actors and actresses. Rehearsals are now underway.

Camels are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic

"You're known as a great Camel smoker, Mr. Shaw. Are they really so different from other cigarettes?"

"Yes, Ben, I think that Camels are a lot different. That's why they're the racing drivers' favorite cigarette. You see, a cigarette has to have something out of the ordinary to score such a hit with fellows like us. As I always say, there are so many things that mean a great deal in smoking. One big angle that carries weight with me is that Camels agree with me! I've smoked a good many thousands of Camels in the past 10 years, so I know that from experience."

ONE SMOKER TELLS ANOTHER

"Camels agree with me"

"Camels are preferred by the tobacco growers, who know leaf tobacco from the ground up"

according to the observation of tobacco planters themselves

"I'VE BEEN planting tobacco for twenty years," says Harry C. King, a successful grower. "Camel bought the choice lots of my last tobacco crop—paid more for my best leaf tobacco. So I know they use finer, more expensive tobaccos in Camel cigarettes. That's one mighty good reason why my cigarette's Camel."

THOMAS MIDDLETON and his twin brother James have been growing tobacco for 14 years. "The Camel people bought up my best tobacco last year," Tom Middleton says. "They have for 12 years. When anyone talks about finer, more expensive tobaccos, that means Camels to me. I smoke 'em—and so do most of us around here who grow and know tobacco."

"DOWN AT THE tobacco warehouse they told me they'd never seen finer tobacco than my last crop," says J. E. Jenkins, veteran tobacco grower. "Camel bought all the top grades. It just shows that the Camel people make sure to get the choice lots of tobacco. I prefer Camels every time. I know what those finer, more expensive tobaccos in Camel cigarettes mean to smokers."
