Silverton Red Sox Drop First Game State League Baseball Season

Sports Parade

By Henry McLemore
Denver, Colo., June 13 (U.P.)—Even par for 72 holes over one of the finest tests of golf in the United States. Not a single six on his card. A crackling sub-par 69 in the final round when the pressure was on.

That's how Ralph Guldahl won the 1938 National open and became the first successful defender of the title since Bob Jones in 1930. And if you don't think the business of repeating in the open, with the world's greatest golfers as your rivals is a task, just take a look at the record books. Billy Burke won in 1931 and was seventh in 1932. Gene Sarazen took it all in 1933 and finished a scrambling twenty-eighth a year later when Johnny Goodman was the winner. Goodman could finish no better than forty-third in his defense in 1934 and Olin Dutra, the winner, was twelfth to Sam Parks the next year. Parks didn't qualify for the last two rounds at Baltusrol when Manero won, and Tony was a submerged forty-first at Detroit last year.

But not so Guldahl. The Texan, who only two years ago was hounded by poverty and seemed headed out of golf forever, established an all-time record score of 281 to dominate his field in 1937, and then came right back last Saturday to spread-eagle his foes with a magnificent show of stroking, brains and heart.

Read all the records and talk to the oldest critics and you won't read or hear of a finer competitive round than Guldahl fired in the shadows of the Rockies at Cherry Hills late Saturday. Four strokes off the leader, Dick Metz, with 18 holes to go, Guldahl provided 8000 spectators with a round they'll be talking about for years.

When boldness was required he threw his 218 rounds into the shot and let it ride. When finesse was needed he played his shots with the touch of a violinist. Under pressure that literally ripped his rivals apart at the seams, Guldahl calmly, quietly, analyzed every angle. He conquered the wind, the crowd, and the condition of a course that had been churned to bits by almost a solid week of play by a big field. He didn't hit a bad shot on this round, and precious few during the entire tournament. Over a layout that had been groomed to make trouble for an off-line or poorly stroked shot, Guldahl never played a hole in more than five strokes. Others had as much as 19 shots on a hole.

Guldahl's even par 284 stands out more when placed against a background furnished by the aggregated of some of the other famed shot-makers. Here are a few of them: Ed Dudley, 315; Bobby Cruickshank, 312; Lawson Little and Sam Snead, 308; Jimmy Thomson, 308; Horton Smith, 300, and John Revolta, 298.

Willing and Eva Capture Crowns

Portland June 13 (U.P.)—Two ex-champions returned to their thrones here Saturday when Dr. O. F. Willing and Mrs. E. E. Eva, both Portland, captured the men's and women's championships of the Oregon Golf Association.

Willing, Waverley club veteran of international reputation, blew a six-hole lead in the afternoon round and then salvaged the match with Harold Salvador, Columbia-Edgewater youngster, with one magnificent shot in the 37th. He laid his second shot on the 475-yard hole 3 1/2 feet from the pin and holed out for an eagle-three. It won the hole and the match from the disappointed Salvador who got a birdie-four and remarked disconsolately afterward that "when you can't win on birdies it's time to quit golf."

Woodburn Firemen Lose to Trainers

Woodburn—The Woodburn Firemen played their annual softball game with the officials of the Boys' Training school at the Training school, Thursday evening, with the Firemen coming out at the little end of the score.

One of the high lights of the game was the wheelbarrow ride given George Addink by the boys of the school. He was second man up and with a man on first he lined one to third base that was too hard to handle, and immediately the boys dumped him into the cart and gave him a ride to first base.

Leo Zuber went the full route for the Firemen on the mound and had his screwball working very effectively until a couple of line smashes to the fourth caught the Firemen outfielders napping.

A large crowd was out to watch this yearly championship game. The two teams will play again in June, 1939.

Drawing to Decide Team's First Games

Entertainment for the fans at a low cost, recreation for the players and a healthful program for the entire community will be launched tonight on Sweetland field as the annual summer season of league softball gets under way. Placing the league on a six club basis as compared with eight teams in former years, is believed to have resulted in closer competition and better games.

This season the managers voted to do away with the usual parade and pre-game ceremonies. Consequently but four teams will show up at Sweetland field at 8 o'clock tonight when a drawing will take place among three squads to determine which one will meet Square Deal.

Dr. Robertson Best Shooter

Bend, Ore., June 13 (U.P.)—Dr. C. G. Robertson of Salem gained the all-around trap-shooting championship of Oregon by breaking 241 out of a possible 250 targets in singles, handicap and doubles events of the 1938 state shoot.

Runner-up to Dr. Robertson was Frank Troch, who broke 238 targets. Troch, defeated A. G. Gower, La Grande, and O. G. Hilderbrand of the Wasco in a shoot-off to win the 16-yard championship. Gower took second by breaking 24 bluebirds in the shoot-off after tying with Troch and Hilderbrand at 198 hits out of the regular string of 200.

D. C. Fish, Portland, broke 97 targets from the 23-yard line to win the handicap event with A. R. Parrott, also of Portland, placing second. Dr. Robertson and Cal Ray, Coos county, teamed to annex doubles honors. Ray won the trophy offered the doubles champion and the Mark Richard doubles purse with a score of 49.

In the women's division, Mrs. J. H. Steiner of Portland was crowned champion when she shattered 184 targets out of a possible 200.

The Portland club won the Oregonian telegraphic finals with a score of 487. Medford broke 484 to take second and Eugene was third with 483.

The 1939 shoot will be held in Portland in June. President of the Oregon State Trapshooting association, elected at the annual meeting, is Dr. J. C. Vandervert. George Frick, Portland, is vice-president, and J. C. Morris, Portland, secretary.

This Was One Of 19 Strokes—Ray Ainsley of Ojai, Calif., blasted himself right out of the National Open Golf tournament in Denver, Colo., when he took 19 strokes on one hole—the 19th—where his ball found the creek. Here he is trying to get it out, with no success. Four strokes were charged against him for throwing the club. — Associated Press Photo.

Seals Gain on Solons By Beating Ducks

San Francisco, June 13 (U.P.)—Hawkers at the Sacramento ball park who threatened to abandon their peanuts and hot dogs for picket signs turned to the conference table today to settle their labor dispute while the Sacramento Solons held on to a three-game lead in the Pacific coast baseball race.

While the Solons were winning five out of seven games from the Hollywood Stars last week, including one game of a doubleheader yesterday, the Hawklers lost their interest in baseball when several concession employees were dismissed.

Meanwhile the Solons went on winning ball games. A home run by Joe Oregno, the handsome bell ringer, gave Sacramento the first game by a 3 to 2 score, but in the nightcap the glimmering Stars suddenly sparked, pounded out 2 hits, including a homer by Bill Norman, and won easily, 5 to 3.

Atherton's Report Not Sensational

Seattle, June 13 (U.P.)—Former Federal Agent Edwin Atherton, who is conducting a survey of athletic conditions at Pacific coast conference schools, revealed the report he will make to the conference officials during their two-day spring session, opening here today, will "contain nothing sensational."

Atherton said his first trip around the conference was merely in the form of a preliminary survey, principally for the purpose of getting acquainted with coaches, athletes and school officials.

He will make his report to the conference survey committee and will then "get down to business" surveying financial aid to athletes and athletes' income during their college days.

When this is completed he will make another report to the committee. He emphasized he will make no recommendations. This, he said, will be up to the committee.

Silverton—The Silverton Red Sox dropped their first game of the State league season Sunday as they went up against some first class chukking on the part of McPadden, former University of Oregon ace. The Sox got two home runs off McPadden in the second frame when Hauser and Schwab each hit for the circuit, but there was no one aboard on either occasion. Beard, Albany backstop, and Elestone, Oaks left fielder, each collected a homer.

Wilson started on the mound for Silverton, but was jerked in favor of Plouf after Beard's circuit blow in the second. Plouf pitched excellent ball for three innings, holding the Oaks helpless during that time. In the sixth, however, four hits, including Eystone's four base smash brought in three runs and Plouf retired in favor of White. While retired the side but the winners collected two hits and a run off him in the seventh and two hits and as many tallies in the eighth.

McPadden was hit freely in the opening frames. The Sox scored in the first and twice more in the second as Hauser and Bonney hit homers. Two hits and a walk gave the Sox another brace of runs in the fourth, but from there on out McPadden was extremely stingy. A single by Plouf in the seventh and another by Bonney in the ninth was the best the Sox could do.

Tuesday night at 8:30 the Red Sox will meet the Canby Firemen, on McGinnis field.

Yanks Start Hitting And Beat Cleveland

Babe Ruth, the supreme authority on walloping the ball a mile, remarked the other day that some time the Yankees would all start hitting at once and then they'd just murder the opposition. Cleveland Indians must be about ready to admit the Babe was right.

The tribe still holds the American league lead, but they wound up their eastern tour by dropping two straight to the Yanks and are only a game and a half ahead as they return home to face the eastern clubs again.

A sign of what may happen when the Yanks get going as a team was seen in their 7-5 victory over the Indians and Bob Feller yesterday before 43,702 customers. The tribe got off to a four-run lead against Charley Ruffing in the second, but Rufus the Red nullified that him-

Jim Heffner Meets Becker

George Becker and Jimmy Heffner, two fast-moving lightweights, will highlight Tuesday night's wrestling exhibition at the armory. Becker has an idea that he can annex the title now held by Heffner and will be "shooting the works" when he grapples over the one-hour limit.

Jack Lipscomb, who like Bulldog Jackson, is adept at crowd baiting, will take on Pete Sherman in the 45-minute special event.

Al Szasz and Bill Kenna are booked for the 30 minute curtain raiser.

Stayton Loses To Woodburn By 8-5 Count

Woodburn—The Woodburn Firemen captured their sixth consecutive victory of their Cascade league schedule when they trounced Stayton 8-5 at Stayton Sunday afternoon.

The Firemen took the lead in the first inning when they sent three runs across the plate and Stayton was unable to overtake them. Setter, first batter of the game, was safe when the third baseman erred and Bomhoff, next up, drew a life when an attempt was made to catch Stetter at second on his hit. Dick Whitman, third batter of the game, connected for a long run scoring both Stetter and Bomhoff ahead to give Woodburn a three run lead before a man was out. Two more Firemen scored in the third, one in the fourth and two in the eighth. Krupicka, lead off man for the Woodburn team in the eighth frame, walked and Bomhoff, next batter, smashed out a home run scoring Krupicka ahead. Stayton scored once in the second, twice in the fourth, and added their final pair in the ninth.

Big Dick Weisgerber, Stayton catcher, had a perfect day at bat with a double, two singles and two walks in five trips to the plate.

Summary:
Woodburn Firemen 8 9 3
Stayton 5 13 4
Bourbonnais and Groves; Tom, Barnes, Peck and Weisgerber.

The KC's of Salem kept in the Cascade league race Sunday by beating Aumsville 9 to 1.
