Clay Deposits In Local Area

A preliminary report on refractory clay deposits of Western Oregon, issued by the state bureau of mines, says:

"Refractory clays are found throughout the area west of the Cascade Mountains in Oregon and are characterized by moderately high fusion, high shrinkage, and dark fired colors. Precalcination reduces shrinkage and cracking. Preliminary samples were obtained for firing-test data, and from these results four deposits were selected for additional study on the basis of quality, probable tonnage, and transportation conditions.

"The Ellis deposit in southwestern Clackamas county is typical of the bentonitoid Molalla clays, with an average fusion of cone 31 plus, high shrinkage and severe cracking which can be improved by calcination. 21,000 to 73,000 short tons available, and requiring a 4½ mile truck haul to railside at Molalla.

The King clay, east of Salem, fuses at cone 32 plus to dark brown. There are 240,000 to 330,000 short tons available, and a 6½ mile truck haul to railside at West Stayton will be necessary: This clay is unique for its original white color, large amount of water required for plasticity, large dry pore space, cracking, and high shrinkage. The area to the north seems to be underlain by similar material. The future value is for use as a plasticizer with its own calcined grog or other nonplastic refractories.

Avondale Firm Comes to Salem

Establishment of a branch in Salem of the Avondale Construction company is announced by Elmer O. Berglund, superintendent, who has just completed arrangements for office space in room 216 Bligh hotel building, 441 State street.

The Avondale Construction company, with headquarters in Portland at 629 S.W. Oak street, handles general contracting and building work, both residential and commercial, and in addition specializes in modernization and design of business spaces and store fronts. Just recently a new front was completed by the company for the Jolly Joan restaurant in downtown Portland.

Salem was chosen as the first city outside of Portland for a branch, according to Mr. Berglund, due to its past record for business stability and belief in its development and growth in the future.

Circle Entertained

Dallas—Mrs. Robert Pence entertained members of Circle A of the Presbyterian church at her home in Rickreall Friday afternoon. The time was spent in needlework concluded by a tea hour.

Members present were Mrs. Sarah Barney, Mrs. R. L. Chapman, Mrs. Nora Crider, Mrs. Chauncey Gettmann, Mrs. Edward Himes, Mrs. L. W. Plummer, Mrs. L. B. Smith, Mrs. Fred Toner, Mrs. Harry Webb, Mrs H. A. Woods and the hostess.

Jacobs Denied Right as Second For Schmeling

New York, June 21 (AP)—The New York state athletic commission today denied Joe Jacobs' application for reinstatement as a second—so he could work in Max Schmeling's corner tomorrow night when the German battles Joe Louis for the heavyweight championship.

Jacobs, Schmeling's American representative, has been under suspension here for several months and repeatedly has sought reinstatement without result.

At the same time the commission settled an argument over what gloves the combatants would use in tomorrow night's fight, ruling that both Schmeling and Louis might use gloves manufactured by a New York firm. Louis had sought to gain permission to use Chicago-manufactured gloves on the theory that they fitted his hands better.

The commission order was based, however, on the stuffing of the gloves. The New York gloves conform with a commission rule that gloves used in this state shall be stuffed with curled hair. The Chicago gloves are stuffed with boiler felt.

The commission revealed that a special meeting would be held Thursday afternoon when contracts will be signed for a September title match between the winner of tomorrow night's engagement and Max Baer, former holder of the championship.

Realtors to Bid For City Agency

All real estate dealers in Salem, instead of only one, will have a chance to bid for placing on the market 90 pieces of property that the city has acquired on account of delinquent street assessments, Alderman David O'Hara said the city had acquired about 140 properties. Only 90 of these are now marketable, however, 35 that have been deeded directly to the city and 55 acquired by sheriff's deed.

The special lien foreclosure committee proposed a contract between the city and Rich L. Reimann, real estate dealer, whereby Mr. Reimann would have the privilege of marketing the properties, his commission to be 10 per cent of sale price, payable when 25 per cent of the price had been paid. He would be required when called upon to make appraisals of property, to post "for sale" signs and advertise the property. He would be allowed to let other dealers list the property, but would be required to pay their commission out of his own. The contract could be terminated on 30 days' notice by either way.

Alderman E. B. Perrine objected that it "hardly seems fair to give one man a monopoly of the business." Alderman Merrill D. Ohling inquired if the Salem Realty board had nominated Reimann. O'Hara said it had not, but that its chairman had recommended the plan.

Ohling moved that the matter be re-referred and the realty Loard asked to nominate a dealer. O'Hara objected to this because not all real estate dealers in the city were members of the realtors' association. A motion was then made for realtors in general to submit proposals, and the motion carried.

Cherrians Want $1000 Appropriation

When the city council begins consideration of the 1939 budget it will have before it the matter of appropriating $1000 for use of the Salem Cherrians as expense of floats and parade appearances at festivals in Portland and other cities.

The proposal was made before the city council last night by King Bing Tom Hill of the Cherriana, who asked that a special committee be appointed to confer with the Council of Nobles of the Cherriana. Mayor Kuhn appointed the ways and means committee to act.

King Bing Hill cited the expense of designing and entering Salem's first prize winning float in the recent Portland Rose Festival parade, and since it is in reality a matter for the benefit of the city, the city should appropriate for it.

Wright, Cupper Re-elected to School Board

A school district election campaign, which brought out a record vote of 2273 persons Monday afternoon, resulted in the re-election of Percy Cupper and Mrs. David Wright to the directorate. Mrs. Wright polled the largest number of votes, 1206, with Cupper receiving 1162. Roy Harland, a write-in candidate, backed by certain church and civic groups and who had the avowed support of Mrs. Wright, ran third with 1162. Francis E. Manley ran a poor fourth with a total of 547 votes.

The vote was the heaviest in the history of school elections, topping the record of 1937 which was 2122.

While a number of ballots favorable to Harland were thrown out because the voters failed to place an "X" before his name, it is not believed these would have changed the outcome should they have been included in his total. At the school clerk's office today no request for a recheck of the ballots had been registered.

Mrs. Wright, who is serving as chairman of the board, has been elected to her third term. Cupper will be serving his second term.

W. H. Burghardt, clerk, reported at the annual meeting last night that the district has no warrant indebtedness. It has cash on hand totalling $12,386.01. Bonds outstanding total $681,500, a decrease of $5000.

The cafeteria established at the senior high school last fall, showed a net profit of $665.93, taking into consideration only actual operating expenses. Receipts were $7120.21 and diabursements $6454.38.
